Tuck Asks Law to Ban Truman on Va. Ballot

Presents Measure Empowering State Convention to Cast Presidential Votes

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Richmond, Va., Feb. 26.—Gov. William M. Tuck today pointed the way for his and other Southern States to ride with or against President Truman in the November elections.

Tuck asked Virginia's General Assembly in a special meeting for prompt enactment of a bill that would remove the names of candidates for President and Vice President from ballots in this State, and give a State political convention final authority to throw the Old Dominion's 11 electoral votes where it wished.

Both in the proposed law and his speech, Governor Tuck jabbed at the President's civil rights program, and at the candidacy of Henry A. Wallace.

Quick Passage Seen

Assembly leaders left no doubt that Tuck's plan will speedily become law. The bill he asked was introduced after he spoke, and is to be considered by committee or privileges and elections. First reaction of the Assembly's Republican membership—10 of 140 legislators — was that they wanted their party presidential candidate named on the ballot, but it was conceded they could not change the plan in a showdown.

Governor Tuck spoke without gestures, but with fight in his voice and words to the tightest-packed crowd veteran members recalled ever seeing in the hall of the House of Delegates in Virginia's trim, historic State House.

The law he proposed would put only party labels, in place of the names of candidates for President and Vice President, on the ballots. Electors' names would remain.

It, also, would bar from the ballot the names of any party unless it had been listed in the last presidential election, or unless its candidates polled 10 per cent of the vote at some general election within the last five years.

This was interpreted as a blockade both against Wallace and against a move by Truman to enter Virginia's election with some new modification of the Democratic Party label.

Political Powder Charge

The real political powder charge, however, appeared in this section of the proposed law:

The electors of any political party who are elected in the general election shall be obligated and pledged to support and vote in the Electoral College for the candidates for President and Vice President who have been nominated by the national convention of said party unless otherwise authorized or instructed by the duly consti-

Junk Yard Worker Injured Fatally In Tank Explosion

A short cut yesterday cost a 37-year-old junk yard mechanic his life.

Oscar Porter of 1006 S. Capitol st. died at 6:30 p. m. in Casualty Hospital, four hours after the explosion of an empty, fume-laden gas tank.

Porter, whose left arm was torn off by the blast, was burning apart the tank with a torch at Joseph Smith & Sons, iron and steel scrap dealers, at 3619 Benning rd. ne.

Philip Smith, a member of the firm, said Porter started work on the tank with an acetylene torch before safety precautions had been taken.

Smith said that, as a safety measure, the 2000-gallon tank should have been punched full of holes to permit fumes to escape and water poured into it before the cutting began.

The tank formerly belonged to the D. C. Division of Sanitation garage. The explosion scattered it into small bits over the large yard.

Haeberle Believed M... By Man He Greeted as Friend

Witnesses Saw Caller Enter Room, Wore Sailor's Denims

By Charles Yarbrough
Post Reporter

Descriptions of a man seen at the door of Harvey M. Haeberle's hotel room gave New York police their first clew yesterday in the smother-slaying of the 35-year-old Navy film expert.

The man sought, believed to be a former sailor, was known to his victim.

Haeberle, a supervisor in the Naval Photographic Center at Anacostia, was found dead in his ransacked room of the Henry Hudson hotel in New York Wednesday afternoon.

The body had been trussed with sheet strips in a version of the Chinese strangulation torture knot, but New York Medical Examiner Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales said death was due to smothering.

Fifty Detectives on Case

Tentative police theories indicated death had been caused by strangulation from the torture knot, but Dr. Gonzales said Haeberle's face had been forced into the mattress until he was dead. Despite evidence of a terrific struggle in the man's fifth-floor room, there were no marks of violence on the body, the examiner said.

At least 50 New York homicide detectives began work on the case with the information that Haeberle knew the suspect.

Reports that the Office of Naval Intelligence had agents working on the case were denied by an ONI spokesman last night. He said ONI is "watching developments, but is not actively participating.

Victim Friendly to Caller

A guest in the next room, George Price, told authorities he heard a voice, obviously Haeberle's, greet a caller at the door with, "Hello-Long time no see." This, Price said, was about 11 p. m. Tuesday. Haeberle had been dead "at least 10 hours—possibly more," Dr. Gonzales said, when his body was found by a hotel maid at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday.

If Price heard any noises which the struggle must have made, detectives were not divulging the information. They did quote Price as saying he heard water running "a long time" in Haeberle's room.

Haeberle, a Naval Reserve lieutenant and father of two small children, left his home on Leesburg pike, Falls Church, Va., Tuesday on a Navy mission to New York. Navy authorities yesterday repeated that he was not known to be carrying any classified or confidential matter, but was there on a routine call concerning production of a Navy training film.

Robbery Believed Motive

Police still ascribed a robbery motive to the slaying—Haeberle's room had been thoroughly searched and his billfold containing about $60, a watch and a fountain pen were missing.

At least three persons, one of them Hotel Detective Arthur Baer, offered descriptions of a man seen at or near Haeberle's door Tuesday night. From these descriptions, this composite was obtained:

"A swarthy-faced man, 25 to 27 years old; 140 to 150 pounds; 5 feet 10 inches tall; wearing a red and black striped woolen jacket or shirt, blue denim trousers, a dark gray hat and black shoes."

From the attire, police theorized the suspect might be a former sailor or seaman apparently acquainted with knot tying. They combed the city's pawnshops for traces of the loot from the victim's room.

Possibility that it would have taken more than one man to subdue and tie the well-built Haeberle

PUC Asked To Ban New Gas Heating

By James E. Ficken
Post Reporter

The Washington Gas Light Co. asked the Public Utilities Commission yesterday to stop building owners from converting coal and oil heating systems to gas because of a shortage of the fuel.

It proposed an "emergency" ban on conversion in homes, apartment and office buildings, and commercial houses.

Installation of gas heating systems in new buildings would be permitted, however, except where extra large boilers or furnaces (with gas input of more than 500,000 BTU per hour) are planned.

Similar petitions were filed with Maryland Public Service Commission and State Corporation Commission of Virginia, Everett J. Boothby, company vice president and general manager, announced.

The company and its Maryland and Viriginia subsidiaries "cannot provide gas next winter to persons who already have facilities and . . . are electing to change from other fuels to gas," Company President Marcy L. Sperry wrote the District PUC.

Next winter the company will be able to supply only gas to handle 14,000 new installations, Sperry said.

PUC Chairman James H. Flanagan announced the Commission will consider the request today.

Va. Bill Provides $5000 Increase in Governor's Salary

Richmond, Va., Feb. 26 (AP).—The salary of the next Governor of Virginia would be $15,000 a year instead of $10,000 a year under an amendment written into the budget bill by the House Appropriations Committee, Chairman C. C. Louderback revealed today.

"We felt that with the increases made in other salaries in the State government that of the Governor should also be increased in keeping with the high position," Louderback said.

3 Farmers Tell Grand Jury They Were Forced to Join Area Association

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

Three farmers, former members of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association, said yesterday that they were "high-pressured" or "forced" into joining that group.

They made the comments to reporters after appearing before the special grand jury which is examining information presented by the Justice Department's Anti-trust Division to determine if there have been local conspiracies to fix milk prices.

One of the nine witnesses who testified yesterday, John M. Seibel, of Burtonsville, Md., told reporters that as an independent dairy distributor he signed up to purchase milk from the Md.-Va. association in 1941, but:

Couldn't Stand Prices

"They were charging me more for milk than I was paying for it before. The association almost put me out of business; I couldn't stand their prices."

Seibel said that for 10 years, ended in February, 1946, he distributed milk to about 500 customers in the Washington suburban area under the name of Seibel Dairy.

He said he was "high-pressured" into joining the association "after they signed up all my shippers (farmers) for three years."

After 1941, he said, he was able to get milk from independent farmers, but finally left the dairy business because it was a "seven-day-a-week headache."

Now composed of about 1550 farmer-members, the Maryland-Virginia Association contracts with area dairies to supply an estimated 90 per cent of the milk consumed here.

Sold Independently

F. A. Wright of Staunton, Va., a dairy farmer until 1942, told reporters he joined the association in the early 1920s. He later dropped out of the group, he said, and sold milk independently to Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase Dairy, largest in this area.

Some time about 1936, he said, he received notice from Chestnut Farms that they were contracting to buy milk from the association, "and I had to join the association again to keep selling to them (Chestnut Farms)."

W. T. Batten, a dairy producer until 1945 and now a beef cattle raiser, gave an account similar to Wright's.

He said he "kind of got forced into" joining the milk producers group, but "I out of it as soon as I could."

Another farmer, Harry C. Crum of Walkerville, Md., said, "Chestnut Farms came to me one day and said, 'Crum, you'll have to join the association or we can't take your milk.' He then joined, Crum told reporters, and remained in the group from 1926 to 1935, when he joined the Capitol Milk Producers

British Rush Ship to Defend Honduras City

London, Feb. 26 (U.P.).—The British cruiser Sheffield is steaming full speed for Belize, British Honduras, to stand by for possible disorders in a renewal of long-pressed Guatemalan claims to the crown colony, a Foreign Office spokesman said today.

The 9100-ton Sheffield was paying a courtesy visit to Cartagena, Colombia, when ordered to sail yesterday. Admiral William Tennant, commander of the British West Indies squadron, had to fly back from Bogota, where he had gone to call on President Mariano Ospina Perez, in order to sail with her.

The Foreign Office spokesman said "we envisage the possibility of an incident by irresponsible elements operating from Guatemalan territory."

He emphasized the British government believed any such action would be taken independent of the Guatemala government.

[Guatemala's press said today the British probably misinterpreted remarks made by Congressmen during a sarcastic debate over press freedom. The government temporarily suspended freedom of the press because a newspaper suggested the army, instead of parading, should do something useful. The newspaper said taking over British Honduras would be such, the Associated Press reported.

[But Foreign Minister Enrique Munoz Meany declared today: "The foreign ministry has no need to reply to charges of irresponsible elements because of our indisputable right to the territory of Belize, which is supported both by public opinion and by international law and justice."]

The Guatemala press recently has renewed the country's claim to timber-rich British Honduras which was settled by shipwrecked British buccaneers in 1638 and was ceded formally by Guatemala to Britain in 1858.

Speed Stressed

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

Secretary Marshall asked Congress yesterday for 275 million dollars in additional military aid to Greece and Turkey "to help these free people retain their freedom."

He asked for it quickly, by April 1, with the plea that supplies must be kept flowing to the Greek army fighting the guerillas.

Without naming Russia, he indicated that "a foreign power" would have swallowed Greece and been astride the Dardanelles by now if it had not been for American aid.

Hostile Forces Intensify Efforts

American efforts to help Greece "have not been unavailing," the Secretary wrote in a letter to Speaker Martin of the House and President Pro Tem Vandenberg of the Senate.

"Without them, I am convinced, Greece would not today be a sovereign nation. They have not, however, accomplished what might have been hoped primarily because the hostile forces determined to deprive Greece of her sovereignty have, with foreign assistance, intensified their efforts to spread chaos and disintegration. . . .

"The totalitarian groups whose aggressive aims have thus far been frustrated by the continued existence of a free Greece and a free Turkey are convinced that time will play into their hands.

Request Foreshadowed

"Their leaders state with assurance that the United States will soon tire of giving aid to far-off Mediterranean countries and that eventually they will be able to take over by default.

"It is my belief, however, that the Congress and the American people are unwilling to abandon the Greek and Turkish people at a time when a foundation is being laid which will enable them to stand their own ground without outside aid."

This was not the first time the Secretary had told Congress of the need of additional military help. He had foreshadowed the request at recent hearings of congressional foreign policy committees, and President Truman had mentioned it in his recent quarterly report to Congress on the Greek-Turkish program.

Timetable Shortened

The timetable, however, was shorter than expected. This led Representative John Vorys (R., Ohio), an influential member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, to say that he objected to having a deadline handed to Congress.

In view of the heavy schedule facing Congress, notably with the European Recovery Program already sought by April 1, Vorys said Congress "could do a lot better"if the Administration sent its requests "a little farther ahead" of time.

U. S., Britain and France Join in Denouncing Reds' Seizure of Power in Czechoslovakia

Text of Protest on Communist Coup

Text of a declaration by the United States, France and Britain on Czechoslovakia:

The Governments of the United States, France and Great Britain have attentively followed the course of the events which have just taken place in Czechoslovakia and which place in jeopardy the very existence of the principles of liberty to which all democratic nations are attached.

They note that by means of a crisis artificially and deliberately instigated, the use of certain methods already tested in other places has permitted the suspension of the free exercise of parliamentary institutions and the establishment of a disguised dictatorship of a single party under the cloak of a government of national union.

They can but condemn a development the consequences of which can only be disastrous for the Czechoslovak people, who had proved once more in the midst of the sufferings of the second World War their attachment to the cause of liberty.

* * * * * * * * *

Political Crisis Called Artificial In Instigation

The United States joined with Britain and France yesterday in denouncing the Communist seizure of power in Czechoslovakia as a danger to "the very existence of the principles of liberty."

It was the first joint protest of the kind since the end of the war, and it gained force from the fact that the three major Western powers were expressing themselves as one.

If words could picture the shock and chagrin felt in all three countries, the joint statement tried to do it.

It said the three governments had "attentively followed" the course of events in Prague. It described the political crisis there as "artificially and deliberately instigated," and called the new Czech government "a disguised dictatorship."

Frequent Protests Sent

And it predicted that the consequences could only be "disastrous" for the liberty-loving people of Czechoslovakia.

Until now the United States had sent frequent diplomatic protests over political events in eastern Europe, but always on its own. Sometimes the British or the French sent simultaneous or parallel protests, but the three countries had never felt strongly enough to issue a statement together.

The joint condemnation was not sent to Russia as a formal note, but was simply issued as a public announcement by the three governments. Last night the official radio services of the three governments were broadcasting it into Eastern Europe by every means at their disposal.

Idea Came from U. S.

The idea of the joint statement came from the United States, but its language was strengthened at the insistence of the French Government. Reports from Paris showed that the French were more alarmed and depressed by the Czech overturn than by any event since the war.

It was conceded here that a mere statement might have no immediate effect in eastern Europe, except perhaps to make the non-Communist people of Czechoslovakia more miserable than before. But it was one of those things done "for the

President Benes Reported To Be Considering Resignation

By Seymour Freedin

Prague, Feb. 26 (NYHT.).—President Eduard Benes, in deep depression over the Communist success in Czechoslovakia, today was reported to be considering resigning.

Benes' office announced that "the office will make public when and if the President will speak." The Prague radio announced tonight Communist Premier Klement Gottwald's new government would visit Benes in the morning.

The 64-year-old statesman, who bowed to the Communist-selected government yesterday, will be replaced by former Premier Zdenek Fierlinger, left-wing Social Democrat, informed opposition sources said, if he resigns and retires to his country home at Tabor in northwest Czechoslovakia.

The Communists began today to systematically cut down the opposition. They consolidated their position, in which they hold 12 of 26 cabinet posts by arresting for the first time top opposition leaders. Their "action" committees also were busy in taking over the leadership of the Slovak Democrats, one of the three opposition parties whose ministers resigned last Friday.

Anti-Communist opposition quarters contended Benes is extremely bitter because "some of his best friends are being called traitors."

They said Benes accepted Premier Gottwald's demands "to avoid bloodshed." They attributed to Benes the following remark, which they said he made to Gottwald: "This new government will have evil results."

Gottwald, they added, was supposed to have replied that the new government would "win the workers and the faith of the nation."

The Communist-held Interior Ministry toda launched a campaign against opposition among the students.

[A Tass dispatch from Prague said tonight a central committee of action of the national front was set up in Prague yesterday. The Soviet news agency's dispatch was broadcast by the Moscow Radio and heard in New York by the Associated Press.

[The dispatch said the central committee consists of 93 members, including representatives of the Communist, People's Socialist, and the Social Democratic Parties. The chairman is Vice Premier Antonin Zarotocky and the Secretary-General is Gen. Alexei Cepicka, the new justice minister.

[Tass quoted Cepicka as saying the function of the central committee is to "actively participate in the government's work and unite all the creative forces of the people."]

The Interior Ministry denied there had been any shooting at Hradcany Castle yesterday. It said "several tens of agitators were arrested."

[A government statement, the Associated Press reported, said one student was wounded when a lone bullet "escaped unluckily from the gun of a member of the security police." The statement said another student was hit by a car. Officials declared no one had been killed.]

Students charged that at least one of their followers was dead and two others were hit by police bullets.

The action committees were whipping up their campaign to render all opposition in parliament

Baby's Fright May Be Sign He's Smart, Psychologist Says

Evanston, Ill., Feb. 26 (U.P.).—A noted psychologist said today one way to test a baby's intelligence is to scare him with funny faces.

If he doesn't scare, the chances are he isn't too bright.

Dr. A. R. Gilliland, Northwestern University psychologist, announced that he and his associates have devised a new system for testing a baby's intelligence.

Gilliland said he uses a red and yellow rabbit mask as part of the test.

Gilliland and his associates worked six years on about 1000 babies between 5 and 12 weeks old to work out the final test.

"We try to find out how a baby deals with the social aspects of his world, rather than strictly with his physical progress," Gilliland said. "The baby's degree of adaptability measures his intelligence."

The tests show whether a child is at least average. They cannot detect genius yet, but they show up a mentality which is below normal.

Rattles, lights, shiny tapes make up the "questions" for the infant.

In one of them, a red and yellow rabbit's mask suddenly replaces the examiner's face.

If the child responds by concentrating his gaze or by being frightened and crying," Gilliland said, "he gets credit for the right answer."

If the child simply ignores the mask, Gilliland said, he shows he is not adapting himself.

UMT Estimates Show Boost Of 3 Billion in Defense Bill

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Long-awaited official estimates of the cost of universal military training—disclosing that adoption of the program would boost defense costs by three billion dollars a year—were completed yesterday.

The crucial cost sheet—which may decide the fate of the controversial issue in this Congress—will be sent by Defense Secretary Forrestal to the Senate today.

It will show, The Washington Post learns, that the annual cost of the UMT program proper—operating the camps, paying instructors, and clothing, feeding and paying the trainees—will run about 1 and ¾-billions once fully under way.

In addition, the program will build up Army, Navy and Air Force reserve components to full authorized strength—its chief purpose. Cost of keeping these forces trained and equipped when at full strength is estimated at about 2½ times the present 700-million-dollar outlay—or close to another 1¾ billions.

Pentagon officials, it was learned, plan to put UMT into effect gradually over a 33-month period, if Congress approves. It would mean that full appropriations for UMT

3 U. S. Warships To Make Goodwill Visit to Arabia

The Navy announced last night that the 27,000-ton aircraft carrier Valley Forge and two escorting destroyers will visit Saudi Arabia next month on a combination goodwill and training cruise.

The three ships are now at Tsingtao, China.

The Valley Forge will be accompanied by the destroyers W. G. Lawe and Lloyd Thomas. The three vessels together carry a normal complement of 2500 officers and men.

The Navy already has the giant carrier Midway, three cruisers and six destroyers in the Mediterranean.

The Navy said the flotilla will stop at Singapore and Ceylon en route to Saudi Arabia.

After leaving the Arabian area, hot spot of the current Arab-Jewish conflict, the warships will pass through the Mediterranean, across the Atlantic and to their home port at San Diego, Calif.

PEOPLE In The NEWS

Capt. Harry Manning

A man of many accomplishments, great severity and little liking for maritime unions is Capt. Harry Manning, skipper of this country's largest ocean liner, the America.

Capt. Manning, whose current row with the National Maritime Union (CIO) threatens to keep the America berthed at her dock in New York, in contemplating ship unions recently said:

"The whole thing makes me wonder if, after 34 years at sea, I haven't wasted my life."

In 1946, when the Masters, Mates and Pilots (AFL) demanded that all unaffiliated captain join their association, Manning exploded:

"I will starve first. England rewards the captain of the Queen Elizabeth with a knighthood. They want to reward me with a union card and a picket sign."

There was a strike, but it ended with Manning still nonunion.

The skipper of the 20-million-dollar America, who is also commodore of the United States Line fleet, might well be called dour. A close friend said recently that he had seen Manning smile only once in 15 years.

Manning has been a sailing man since he was 17. Now, at 50, he could, if he chose, boast of being a linguist of sorts, an excellent boxer, aviator, radio perator, student of Shakespeare and pianist.

He gave up flying in 1938, after a crash nearly killed him. He has been married once, but is divorced.

William M. Tuck

William Munford Tuck, 5-foot, 10-inch, 225-pound Governor of Virginia, is a veteran of almost 25 years in Old Dominion politics.

Born in Halifax County, "Big Bill" is the son of a tobacco grower who also served in the House of Delegates. A graduate of William and Mary College, he served in the Marines during World War I and in 1921 received a law degree from Washington and Lee University. Admitted to the bar the same year, Tuck began practicing law in South Boston.

From 1923 until 1931 the rotund Governor served in the House of Delegates and for the next 10 years was a member of the Virginia State Senate.

Tuck was Lieutenant Governor under Colgate W. Darden, and in 1946, at the age of 49, became Chief Executive of the State.

Long associated with the State Democratic organization of Senator Harry Flood Byrd, Tuck is a strong advocate of State's rights. In his inaugural address in 1948 he declared that if "expansion of Federal activities into State fields continues it will result in the virtual abolition of the States."

Tuck is married and has one stepson. His home is in South Boston, Va.

Walter T. Storm

Storm

While his fellow officers view approaching Civil Service promotion examinations with some alarm, he takes a calm, almost detached view—probably because he has turned up first in every exam since 1924.

At that time, Marine Sergeant Storm had just come back from France as one of a 30-man detail returning the Unknown Soldier. He was offered a chance to go to Quantico to work for his commission.

"But I had enough of the Marines. I took the police entrance examination. It turned out I was first on the list," he says.

And he has headed it ever since. Perhaps some of his scholastic prowess is because he kept up on police matters while a police academy instructor, and during the time he served in administrative duties with the force.

Inspector Storm walked his first beat around the embassies in the Tenth Precinct. Now commanding the same precinct, he will replace John H. Fowler, head of the police academy and a nationally known ballistics expert.

Storm, 47, is married to the former Katherine Russell, and lives at 2511 14th st. ne. They have a 10-year-old son, Russell.

Of the law-enforcing job, Storm has only praise. "But," says he, "I can't say my son wants to be a policeman."

Gladys Swarthout

Miss Swarthout

The beautiful opera and concert star, who sang last night in Constitution Hall, made local history in that same hall back in 1939 when she sang at the convocation exercises of George Washington University. The unique feature of her singing at that time was that it replaced the more usual, but probably duller convocation address.

Two weeks after that, Miss Swarthout and John Charles Thomas broke with tradition once more, to become the first singers to warble in the halls of Congress. The famous pair sang before a joint session in a program commemorating the 150th anniversary of the First Congress.

Gladys Swarthout made her operatic debut in Chicago in 1924, and joined the Metropolitan in 1929. One of the busiest singers in the world, her voice is heard regularly in opera, concert, radio, motion pictures, and on records.

Virginia Senate Passes Tuck's Tax Program

Richmond, Va., Feb. 26 (AP)—The Virginia Senate today passed Gov. William M. Tuck's program to increase taxes 14 million dollars.

By large majorities, it killed a substitute sales tax, beat off every attempt to amend or limit the program, and sent the five bills back to Governor Tuck for signature.

In the House of Delegates, an "anti-Communist" bill passed 83 to 13 after a flood of patriotic oratory washed out protests that the measure is futile.

The bill makes it a felony to advocate a change of government by force or to belong to or assist a group or party advocating a change of government—local, state and national—by violence.

Only two of the Governor's five tax bills received opposition—the income tax increase and the hike in the merchants license tax.

Sales Tax Loses 30 to 9

The income tax bill passed 30 to 8; the merchants tax bill passed 31 to 5.

The two per cent sales tax amendment was offered by Senator Charles T. Moses, of Appomattox, to aid schools and localities and to substitute for the income tax bill.

The sales tax, too, went down 30 to 9.

The individual income-tax bill will move from a three-per-cent maximum on incomes in excess of $5000 to five per cent. The corporation income tax will go from three to five per cent, when the governor signs.

Other bills in the program increase the beer tax and recordation tax. Only remaining item of the governor's program is the measure to add one-half per cent to the gross receipts tax on public service corporations. It has been approved by the House Finance Committee and is expected to be voted on this week.

Tuck Gets Arlington Tax Bill

A bill giving Arlington County the equivalent of city tax powers was ready for Governor Tuck's signature today after passage by the Senate.

The measure would permit Arlington to levy business, professional and auto license taxes.

It was estimated such taxation would net Arlington from $300,000 to $500,000 a year.

In today's session, the Senate committee on county, city and town organization reported out several bills, including:

1. One to authorize the boards of supervisors of any county adjoining a city with more than 125,000 population to construct and operate sewer systems, issue bonds, and charge sewer service fees.
2. A measure by Fairfax's Senator Andrew W. Clarke providing for a county trial board to hear charges against police officers in that county.
3. Another Clarke bill giving the county governing body authority in the area's unincorporated portion to regulate distribution of population.

Under the law, the Virginia State convention of a political party would be the "duly constituted agency" that could tell the State's electors how to vote in the Electoral College. The convention could delegate this power to a party committee.

Tuck Wins Applause

Tuck won applause several times during his speech. It was without rebel yells, but vigorous and loud. After a standing ovation when he entered, Tuck first drew handclaps when he mentioned last week's Jefferson Day speech here by Senator Harry F. Byrd (D., Va.).

Byrd lashed out at the President's Civil Rights program, and Governor Tuck described the speech as "a masterful address."

Senator Byrd in Washington today indorsed "without reservation" Governor Tuck's proposed change of the Virginia election laws. Senator Byrd said the Governor's message "may well become historic" and aranged for it to be printed in the Congresional Record.

Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.) had no comment on Tuck's plan. McGrath on Monday had politely turned down the demand of the Southern Governor's Committee for a retreat from the civil rights program.

Other Virginia Congressmen gave praise and criticism to Tuck's plan.

Representative J. Lindsay Almond, jr. (D., Va.), said that a "solution" might lie in the withdrawal of President Truman "from further consideration as the potential party nominee."

Representative John W. Flannagan, jr. (D., Va.), said he is "grieved" over Governor Tuck's proposal to permit Virginia electors to vote for other than the national party nominee if so instructed by State party leaders. He said it "would disfranchise every vote in Virginia in all future presidential elections and turn over Virginia's participation in the election of future Presidents to a handful of politicians."

Senator A. Willis Robertson (D.) said he had read only a brief account, but "I am in full sympathy and accord with the Governor's objectives."

GOV. WILLIAM TUCK
Addressing Legislature

Representative Porter Hardy, jr (D.), said he believes "we would be embarking upon an extremely dangerous course" if the Governor's proposal would give a "few party officials" the right to "arbitrarily cast the votes for the entire Virginia electorate."

From the Wallace camp in New York, Campaign Manager C. B. Baldwin said his organization is opposed to Governor Tuck's plan. He accused the Governor of "bigotry" and added: "We support, although we consider it a lip service program, the President's inadequate civil right's charter which has so upset Virginia's medieval Governor."

In Montgomery, Ala., Gov. James E. Folsom said of Tuck's plan:

"I would amend that to have a favorite son candidate from Virginia. If you want to get anywhere you've got to take positive action. Don't close the ballot to anybody—let anybody run that wants to—but put up your own candidate."

Governor-elect Earl K. Long of Louisiana said:

"I'm a Democrat and I'm inclined to go along with whoever the party nominates—unless there's something terrible the matter with him. I haven't liked all Truman's monkey business. But I didn't like some of the things Roosevelt did, and I always voted for him."

Governor Tuck told the Assembly he was moved to propose the new law "only by a sincere desire to promote the constitutional rights of the people of Virginia and to shield them from iniquitous influences which have permeated both parties."

He cahrged that main portions of the civil rights program—FEPC, abolishing race segregation; Federal antilynch and antipoll tax legislation—would invade State's rights and be "an unwarranted assault upon the established customs and traditions of the entire Southland."

"These proposals, if adopted, will open wide the door for the establishment of a totalitarian form of government in this country," he said.

Governor Tuck declared the FEPC plan carried "sufficient power to create in America the counterpart of a Hitler or a Stalin."

"The hordes of police officers set up under the proposed FEPC could easily be converted into a huge Gestapo by expanding the scope of their field. Suppose that a few years hence, in the swing of the pendulum of public thought, Wallace or a man of his type should be elected President. He would find a ready-made Gestapo for the harassment and the prosecution of the successful business men whom Wallace now so bitterly abuses."

Of all bureaucracies, said Tuck "this proposed FEPC would be the worst by far."

Governor Tuck then gave them this description of what he called the "precise purpose" of his bill:

"For many years the demrocracy of the South has been ignored by the national administration when legislation objectionable to it was under consideration.

"The electoral vote of the South has been counted by the Democratic Presidents even before it was cast. No insult to this region was considered too vile to affect the outcome of the election.

"The result has been that the people of the Southern States have been placed upon the sacrificial altar to appease racial and other minority fringe groups in States having a large number of electoral votes, such as New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and California.

"I am recommending the establishment of legal machinery by which we can remain loyal to the true tenets of our party, and not be driven from the house of our fathers by those alien to the principles which we have always cherished and held dear on the sacred soil of Virginia."

"If Virginia and the other Southern States should find it necessary for their own self preservation to hold their electoral votes in abeyance, I believe it would prove an effective remedy for most of our grievances and insure us an influential voice in the councils of our respective parties."

In a clear bid to other Southern States to follow suit, Governor Tuck declared:

"The seeds sown here in Virginia may take root and flourish elsewhere. There are many persons of high ideals in all parts of the Nation who are unwilling to undermine the foundation of government for the sake of mere temporary political advantage, and who would be eager to join us in our fight to preserve these liberties."

Governor Tuck also strongly defended the civil rights record of his State. He said that in 1928 Virginia enacted a strong antilynch law, and that there has been no death by lynching since then. "Few if any States North or South can claim such a record as this," he said.

Southerners In House Block Anti-Lynch Bill

Antilynching legislation, spearhead move in a GOP push to enact civil rights legislation this session, got snarled temporarily in the House Judiciary Committee yesterday, but leaders flatly predicted early House clearance.

A technical objection by Southerners to the committee doing business while the House was in session delayed full committee action until next week.

Southern Democrats, holding President Truman responsible for the Republican civil rights drive, meanwhile studied Gov. William M. Tuck's message to the Virginia Legislature as a possible pattern for Southern "revolt."

Senate Action on Poll Tax

The Republican civil rights offensive will resume today, this time on the Senate side of the Capitol. A three-man Senate Rules subcommittee, headed by Senator William E. Jenner (R., Ind.) will meet on the anti-poll tax bill already passed by the House.

House Judiciary Chairman Earl C. Michener (R., Mich.) told reporters there is "no question" his House Judiciary Committee will approve anti-lynching legislation temporarily blocked in his committee yesterday. He called another meeting on the bill Tuesday. Indications were that the bill favorably reported by a subcommittee Wednesday may be amended to bring it more in line with legislation passed by the House but stopped in the Senate in 1938. The bill, when reported, will get a quick green light to the House floor, GOP leaders said.

Hoffman Proposes Alliance

In other developments:

1. Representative Clare E. Hoffman (R., Mich.) in the House proposed a "deal" between Republicans and "rebel" Democrats, urging both sides "get together in some kind of conference, agree on someone agreeable to both, and elect him." He said later he meant both sides should agree on a candidate opposed to "legislation which interferes with state rights as do anti-lynching and anti-poll tax proposals."

2. A proposal by Georgia's comptroller general, Zack D. Cravey, that Senator Walter F. George (D., Ga.) seek the Presidential nomination brought this response from George: "While I strongly disapprove of the whole course taken by President Truman so far as the civil rights program goes, I do not wish to be drawn into any contest."

3. Representative Eugene Cox (D., Ga.) in a House speech charged the National Association to Abolish the Poll Tax is "a Communist-front organization" according to the records of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

4. Governor Laney of Arkansas told the Associated Press in Little Rock that Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath gave the press an "edited" copy of his showdown talk with Southern Governors Monday.

Wallace Gets Welfare Unit Indorsement

Overriding its leadership, rank and file meeting of the Washington Committee, Southern Conference for Human Welfare, yesterday indorsed the candidacy of Henry A. Wallace for President.

At a meeting Friday night, the 22-man executive committee of the local organization unanimously recommended an official hands-off policy in the presidential campaign.

The executive committee, headed by Dr. Joseph Johnson of Howard University, declared it was individually in sympathy with the aims of Wallace, but that for the good of the organization, no stand should be taken on the White House race.

However, rank and filers attending the meeting—60 out of a local membership of 800—voted down the leadership resolution and declared:

"Our efforts to win peace and security on the national scene, and home rule, national representation, and full citizenship rights in the District, can best be achieved by our indorsement of the candidacy of Henry A. Wallace."

The adopted resolution pointed out that "no real effort has been made by either major party to bring about suffrage in the District."

The Wallace program, the resolution said, would give the District suffrage and end segregation and discrimination here.

The Southern Conference, "founded on the principles of Franklin Delano Roosevelt," was labeled a Communist-front organization by the House Committee on Un-American Activities a few days before Wallace spoke here under the organization's auspices.

World Polio Meeting Plans Are Announced

Plans for the first International Poliomyelitis Conference, to be held in New York this summer, were announced yesterday by Judge Fay L. Bentley, local chapter chairman of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Official government representatives from more than 60 nations have been invited to present summaries of poliomyelitis problems in their countries. The conference is part of the foundation's search for a cure, preventive and more advanced treatment method of infantile paralysis.

The Gallup Poll

Trend Seen Favoring GOP In Pennsylvania, Reversing '44

By George Gallup

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Feb. 26.—Pennsylvania, carried by the Democrats by a slim margin in 1944, may be pushed over into the Republican column this year because of Henry A. Wallace's candidacy splitting the Democratic vote.

Latest balloting throughout Pennsylvania in the Institute's polls show that in a three-cornered race involving President Truman on the Democratic ticket, Thomas E. Dewey on the GOP ticket, and Wallace as a third party candidate, Dewey runs ahead. Assuming that the Republicans nominate a man with popularity equivalent to that of Dewey, Pennsylvania would have to be put in the doubtful list so far as the Democrats are concerned. The Truman-Dewey-Wallace trial heat figures for Pennsylvania are:

Pennsylvania

Truman	41%
Dewey	46
Wallace	7
No opinion	6

With the no-opinion vote eliminated, the results are:

Truman	44%
Dewey	49
Wallace	7

Four years ago the Democrats carried Pennsylvania, with its 35 electoral votes, by only 51.4 per cent of the major party vote, while the Republicans received 48.6 per cent. In 1940 the Democrats got 53.5 per cent, the Republicans 46.5 per cent. In short, the Democratic margin in the last two elections, especially in 1944, was not large.

The serious threat to the Democrats in Pennsylvania this year is matched by equally serious problems facing them in two other States where the Institute has already reported poll findings—New York and Illinois.

In New York the poll found Dewey running ahead in the same Truman-Dewey-Wallace trial heat, the vote of those with opinions being Truman 41 per cent, Dewey 44 per cent, Wallace 15 per cent. However, it was found that Truman ran ahead in a trial heat with Robert A. Taft as the Republican standard-bearer.

In Illinois, Wallace was found splitting the Democratic vote in Chicago to a sufficient extent to throw that State into Dewey's column in the trial heat. The vote among those with opinions: Truman 40 per cent, Dewey 52 per cent, Wallace 8 per cent.

The two principal cities of Pennsylvania — Philadelphia and Pittsburgh—accounted for approximately two-fifths (39 per cent) of the total major party vote cast in 1944. The Democratic percentage of the vote was 58.2 in Philadelphia and Allegheny County combined (Allegheny County is the country containing Pittsburgh), while the Republicans polled 41.8 per cent.

Today's trial heat figures find Wallace taking enough votes away from the Democratic camp in the two urban areas to pull the Democratic figure down substantially there.

Leading States reported thus far in the Truman-Dewey-Wallace trial heat race by the Gallup Poll are:

Box Score of States

Electorial Votes	State	Who's Ahead
47	New York	Dewey	44%
		Truman	41
		Wallace	15
35	Pennsylvania	Dewey	49%
		Truman	44
		Wallace	7
28	Illinois	Dewey	52%
		Truman	40
		Wallace	8

Bartow, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP).—Mrs Philip R. Athon, 67, who was shot three times by her husband as she lay incurably ill of cancer in a hospital, died today. Her husband killed himself.

Philadelphia Printers Quit 28 Job Shops

Philadelphia, Feb. 26 (AP).—Union printers failed to report for work today in Philadelphia's 28 major commercial printing firms.

Sinclair Muir, president of the AFL International Typographical Union's Local 2, refused to call the action by the 900 printers a strike.

He said they merely were "not desirous of continuing their employment under the present low wage scale."

Bill to Extend Controls Sent to White House

The House passed and sent to the White House today a bill extending for three months presidential controls over tin, antimony, quinine, fats and oils. The Senate had passed the bill previously. The authority would have expired at the end of this month.

3 Farmers Tell of Pressure To Join Milk Association

Association, which he said exclusively provides milk for Highland Farms Dairy.

An official of Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase Dairy yesterday declined to comment on any statements involving that firm, saying, "We will answer all questions before the grand jury."

Another former member of the Md.-Va. association, G. L. Stickley of Strasburg, Va., said he joined in 1927 and remained a member for six or seven years, then left the group to sell to Embassy Dairy, which buys independently.

"My dealings with Embassy were 100 per cent satisfactory," he said, "but transportation facilities were against me and I went back into the association in June of 1946." He dropped out again last year, he said, to sell milk in the Norfolk area.

Only present member of the Md.-Va. Association who appeared yesterday was Harry W. Unglesbee, of Boyds, Md. He has been shipping milk into this area for 15 years, Unglesbee said, and was out of the association for four years when he sold to Embassy Dairy.

Rejoined Associatino

He said Embassy offered to release him from a contract last fall, and he rejoined the association "where I would have a market for milk."

Ralph Torreyson, a Washington dairy products broker and a former employe of the Md.-Va. Association for 15 years, also testified. Torreyson said later that he now contracts to supply milk and cream from Pennsylvania to local dairies.

J. A. Wilson, vice president and general manager of Comico Products Co., Alexandria, a milk by-product processing firm, said he gave the grand jury statistics on his purchases.

Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase Dairy, he said, is his only competitor in this area, producing processed milk and ice cream milk at a plant in Frederick, Md. "I've had pleasant relationships with all the dairies," said Wilson.

Final witness of the day was John McGill, a former secretary of the Md.-Va. association, who declined to talk to reporters.

Antitrust Division attorneys said today's witnesses would include James J. Ward of Embassy Dairy; William W. Mayes of Golden Rule Dairy, Silver Spring; Paul Needling of Richfield Dairy; Samuel H. Harvey of Harvey Dairy, Brentwood, Md.; Percy D. Gibson of Model Farms Dairy; Otto Phillips of Wakefield Dairy, and M. H. Burchell of Alexandria Dairy.

Gold Holdings Top $23 Billions, New High Recqrd

Gold holdings of the government went above 23 billion dollars yesterday. This is a record high for any nation in history.

The United States now owns over three fifths of the world's known supply of monetary gold and it is steadily increasing its holdings.

Yesterday's total of $23,028,263,000 worth of gold (at a value of $35 an ounce) is $2,039,000,000 more than the Government had a year ago.

Host of the gold now coming in is shipped by other countries to pay for American products.

Wisconsin Dairy Co-op Asks Repeal of Tax on White Oleo

Milwaukee, Feb. 26 (AP).—Wisconsin's restrictive legislation on oleomargarine was under fire today from one of the State's own dairy cooperatives.

The Golden Guernsey Dairy Cooperative, consisting of milk producers and distributors, adopted a resolution calling for repeal of the 15-cents-a-pound State tax on uncolored oleomargarine.

The cooperative also asked for repeal of a State law requiring consumers to take out a license before they can bring in oleo from other States, and for repeal of the six-cents-a-pound tax on such imports. Continuance of laws prohibiting the sale of oleomargarine colored to simulate butter was urged, however.

Wisconsin law prohibits the sale of oleomargarine colored to simulate butter, requires that oleo be distinctly labeled, prohibits the use of oleo in any tax-supported institution or its distribution to persons on relief, and says that oleo can be used in restaurants, hotels and boarding houses only if customers are informed of the fact.

Spokesmen for the cooperative said lifting of the tax on uncolored oleo was favored because members felt it was unjust to put a penalty on the purchase of oleo that does not look like butter. "White oleo," they said, is no real competition.

William B. Vilter, Hartland, chairman of the resolutions committee, said few families know of the law requiring consumers to take out a $1 State license and pay six cents a pound tax on oleo brought in from another State.

"The law is so poorly enforced it is ridiculous," said Vilter.

Student Convicted of Bribery

Madison, Wis., Feb. 26 (AP).—James Lawrence, socially prominent undergraduate, was convicted last night by a student court of bribery in his election as the University of Wisconsin's prom king.

The court fined the Tulsa (Okla.) athlete $40. However, it gave him the alternative of disciplinary probation while earning six extra credits toward graduation.

Convicted with Lawrence was James Rice, Sparta, Wis., who accused Lawrence of promising him ten prom tickets and a major chairmanship in return for political support. The prom was held February 6. Rice complained after he said Lawrence failed to carry out his part of the deal.

Trial Rulings Adverse to Labor Leader

By the United Press

Harold R. Christoffel, Milwaukee labor leader, suffered two reverses at his perjury trial yesterday.

Federal Judge Edward M. Curran refused a directed verdict of acquittal, and then denied a motion to require the Government to foot the bill in bringing at least 10 defense witnesses from Milwaukee.

The rulings were handed down after the Government completed its case against the one-time president of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) local at the Allis-Chalmers plant in Milwaukee.

It presented 30 witnesses in an effort to prove its charge that Christoffel lied when he told a House Labor Committee last March that he never was connected with the Communist Party.

Judge Cufran recessed the trial until Monday when O. John Rogge, defense counsel, said he was not prepared to present his case now. He had asked that the Government pay the cost of bringing defense witnesses here, explaining that Christoffel has no funds and that he (Rogge) felt no obligation to take the money out of his $10,000 fee.

Government witnesses have linked Christoffel to a group of Wisconsin Communists. These include Fred B. Blair and Ned Sparks. The former UAW official had told the House Committee that he did not know them.

The last Federal witness was Representative Richard M. Nixon (R., Calif.). He testified that he was present at the opening of the committee's afternoon session when Christoffel appeared. Nixon was the thirteenth Congressman to testify for the Government.

Thirteen constitute a committee quorum. Rogge claims that a quorum was not present and the committee therefore was not "legally constituted."

John S. Pratt, the prosecutor, completed the Government's case by reading documents brought into court by Glenn M. Clarke, secretary-treasurer of the Milwaukee County Industrial Council (CIO).

They included minutes of the council's executive board, wtih Christoffel presiding, containing references to the board's program protesting United States aid to the Allies. They also included 15 checks, countersigned by Christoffel, indicating the council contributed funds to organizations which were identified as "Communist-controlled."

School Heads Mildly Oppose War Training

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 26 (AP).—The American Association of School Administrators, a major department of the National Education Association, went along part of the way today in teacher opposition to universal military training.

The administrators, representing about 6000 school superintendents, approved a resolution at their convention that recognized a need of military training if other means of national security are found inadequate.

The administrators urged Congress to develop an "effective" intelligence service, provide for scientific research, industrial mobilization, and maintain an "effective military, naval and air striking power."

Other resolutions approved at the closing session of the convention recommended establishment of a United States Office of Education "as an independent, adequately financed agency" with a "professionally qualified United States commissioner of education as its executive officer."

A minimum of $2400 as an annual salary for teachers was recommended.

3 Million Students Seen in Junior Colleges

Kansas City, Feb. 26 (AP).—The American Association of Junior Colleges was told today that within the next 20 years half of the Nation's high school graduates would be able to extend their education two more years.

"This should mean a junior college enrollment of well over three million students," Dr. Ordway Tead, president of the board of higher education in New York City, said.

Slain Man's Wife Reports to Police

MRS. HARVEY HAEBERLE
Victim's wife

'Friend' Sought As Smotherer

was readily accepted by investigators, but they had description of only one.

Wife in New York

Mrs. Haeberle, the former Mattie Locke Macomber, member of an old Des Moines, Iowa, family, was in New York within a few hours after discovery of her husband's body. With her was her brother, Sumner Macomber, a Des Moines coal-purchasing agent.

Police at the W. 54th st. Station in New York said Mrs. Haeberle and her brother left there last night to take the body to Minnesota for burial.

The Haeberles were married in Des Moines in 1941. They have two children, Mac, 4, and Jay, 1, who are at the family home in Falls Church with a cousin of Mrs. Haeberle's.

The victim's watch bore a description—"To Harvey, for five years' service" from the Meredith Publishing Co. of Des Moines. He was employed there from 1935 to 1940 in the company's promotion department; then went with the Armstrong Cork Co. at Lancaster, Pa.

Both the Haeberles were members of the Falls Church Little Theater group. He entered the Navy in 1942; saw most of his service with the Photographic Center and, for a brief period, served aboard the U. S. S. Tuscaloosa.

Reached New York Tuesday

He went on inactive duty last January but kept his post as a civilian.

On arrival in New York Tuesday, Haeberle called at the Pathescope Co. of America offices and talked with Edward Lamm, one of the officials, about the training film project.

Later Tuesday, Haeberle met John S. Martin, a film producer and had dinner with him at Lindy's and parted about 9:45 p. m., with plans for Haeberle to call on Martin the next morning.

Martin said he tried several times to telephone him at his room, but failed to receive an answer.

Derailment Delays Pennsylvania Trains

Freight traffic on the Pennsylvania Railroad's main line from Baltimore to Washington was delayed about four hours early yesterday when three cars of a southbound freight jumped the track in Balitmore's southwest outskirts.

Several passenger trains also were delayed a few minutes.

Rail railroad spokesmen said the accident occurred just after 1 a. m. and the line was clear again at 5. There were no injuries.

Md. Woman Explains Her Disappearance

Mrs. Nora May Mullins returned to her home near Upper Marlboro, Md., yesterday to clear up the "mystery" surrounding her reported disappearance with a large sum of money late Tuesday.

Mrs. Mullins

The 30-year-old mother of seven, object of a police search in 13 States for 48 hours, said she had been visiting relatives in West Virginia and was "amazed at all the fuss" caused by her brief trip.

A note to her husband, informing him that she was going away, had been left on the sun visor of her automobile in Upper Marlboro, Mrs. Mullins said, but it apparently had blown away. The automobile was found with its ignition wires torn, leading Mullins and police to believe at first that she had been victimized. Later, it was surmised that someone had tried to steal the parked car.

Mrs. Mullins said the $1300 she was reported to be carrying in her pocketbook never left their combined garage and home on Route 301 at Croom rd. Furthermore, she added, it was "all in checks and notes."

Mrs. Mullins said she decided to visit a sick sister in Greenbriar County, W. Va., late Tuesday night, when a friend offered to drive her there after the two had attended a movie in Marlboro. She said she planned to telephone her husband along the road, but couldn't find any place open.

Skyway to Honor Plane Inventors

Skyway No. 1, a 40-mile-wide strip of air between here and Los Angeles, will be called "The Wright Way" in honor of the co-inventors of the airplane.

This was announced yesterday by the Washington Board of Trade and the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the skyway.

The route, the Nation's first transcontinental air highway, will be dedicated April 24 at Dayton, Ohio, where Wilbur and Orville Wright lived, the sponsors said.

Laurels to D. C.; It's Rat Control Showplace

Washington's won a new laurel. Now it's tops in rat control.

Its million rats and all, the city's been designated "national demonstration city" for a country-wide urban rat control campaign to be held in April by the Interior Department.

The good news, divulged yesterday, brought a prompt warning from District rodent control experts against calling off all local Pied Pipers.

"We're not belittling the fact that we have them here," said William H. Cary, jr., director of the bureau of Public Health Engineering. "Last year alone they did about 15 million dollars worth of damage."

Gist of the matter, he admitted, is that Washington has a long way to go in clearing up its rodent problem, but for many other cities the road is lots longer.

However, he pointed out, municipal and Federal buildings and properties here are now protected by a permanent program of rat proofing, removal of food sources and reduction of infestations by killing. Block by block surveys have pin-pointed rat-infected property and the cooperation of private owners has resulted in clean-up campaigns.

Then, too, huge quantites of rat bait, including poisonous red squill, are administered lavishly.

Stil, rats are more numerous than residents in the District—as elsewhere. That's mostly because one pair of rats and their offspring can produce 350 million kithren in a period of three years.

As "national demonstration city"—a designation accorded by Interior Secretary J. A. Krug—Washington will receive rodent specialists and mayors of a host of United States cities in the next few months.

Texas Woman Found Guilty In Shooting

Shootin' Jo Ann Rogers from Austin, Tex., was found guilty in Municipal Court yesterday of letting her shootin' iron nick a Fort Myer soldier.

Judge George D. Neilson referred the 23-year-old blue-eyed Texan to probation officers for recommendation before sentencing.

Five soldiers told the court Jo Ann, passing through here en route to Grand Rapids, Mich., was in a shooting gallery at 416 9th st. nw. on February 5 when they entered.

Laughing, she whirled about, fired four shots in their direction. One of the shots wounded Pvt. John J. Malone, 17, in the leg.

Argued her attorney, Thomas David: The girl had some drinks earlier, was just being playful. Said Jo Ann: "I thought those shootin' gallery guns were loaded with blanks—or corks."

Unable to post a $500 bond, the girl has been in jail since the shooting. Yesterday, the judge reduced the bond to $300, and her attorney said he hoped she could make it.

Czech Leader May Resign

powerless. The committee for parliament, led by Communists and their Social Democrat supporters, called on all deputies, "except those responsible for the crisis," to declare themselves in favor of the new national front.

The targets of the committee will be National Socialists, People's Party, Slovak Democrats and right-wing Socialists. Opposition quarters said they expected those who refuse to support the new government would be expelled from parliament.

The show of police and troop strength in evidence in the last few days was largely removed today. Police in most instances left their rifles in their stations.

But the Interior Ministry went after the opposition without a letup. Its police arrested three members of the National Socialist executive committee, including Secretary General Vladimir Kyaijina. Kyaijina and the others all are members of parliament and are legally entitled to parliamentary immunity from arrest. They were released only after several hours of detention.

[Eyewitnesses told the United Press that former Food Minister Majer was painfully beaten yesterday morning by Communist workers. A witness said he saw Majer lying on the steps of the Food Ministry, crying in pain. A member of the Marxist Social Democratic Party, he refused to go along with Gottwald in the leftist coup.]

The People's Party was dealt a blow when Jan Sramek resigned as a deputy. Sramek, who was premier of Bene's government in exile, has not yet resigned as president of the party, but is expected to do so soon.

The news blackout from Slovakia was lifted partially today for the announcement of the resignation of Dr. Josef Letterich as president of the Slovak Democrats. The chairman of the party's new action committee, Lieut. Col. Milan Polak, took over.

Stalin Busts Ordered

In Usti, an action committee ordered that a bust of Soviet Premier Josef Stalin be installed in the schools along with those of Thomas Masaryk and Benes.

[An action committee of the Czechoslovak Soccer Association read Josef Guertler, a Czech National Socialist, out of the organization. He had been secretary general, press reports said.

[The football association was ordered to purge its leadership of "elements who caused public indignation." Travel abroad by sports teams was suspended.

[It was indicated the Communists would take over the Boy Scout and Girl Scout movement.]

'Talked to as by Hitler,' Friend Quotes Benes

Prague, Feb. 26 (AP).—President Eduard Benes accused Premier Klement Gottwald of "talking to me like Hitler," one of Benes' closest friends said tonight.

The friend said Gottwald told Benes that if he approved the Communist cabinet, he would "win the workers and have the faith of the whole people."

Benes replied that "this new government could have only evil results."

Benes suddenly interrupted.

"You're talking to me like Hitler," he said.

Then he yielded.

Czech Envoy to U. S. To Remain, He Says

By The Associated Press

The Czechoslovakian Ambassador, Dr. Juraj Slavik, said yesterday he plans to stay at his post here as long as his government leaders have confidence in him. He referred to President Benes and Foreign Minister Masaryk.

"It is very difficult to talk or to say anything definite, in the light of developments," the ambassador said.

"But I have complete confidence in President Benes, who still is president. And I have complete confidence in Foreign Minister Masaryk. I will represent them as long as I have their confidence."

'Red-Letter' Day in Prague . . .

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

COMRADES, CZECH THIS—A one-hour strike pledge to demonstrate Communist solidarity in Czechoslovakia is read at a special trade union meeting in Prague by Antonin Zapotocky (standing at microphone). Listening (in the foreground) are Communist Premier Klement Gottwald (A) and Karel Otrata (B), head of the government planning commission

Italy Feared Next in Line For Communist Power Seizure

The world looked toward Czechoslovakia yesterday and asked:

"Who's next?"

Speculation in Washington concerned Italy—because of her vulnerable internal position with election coming up April 18.

In Italy, anti-Communist leaders were frankly worried. The Communists predict their leftist bloc will receive from 45 to 51 per cent of the vote—enough for legal control—and political observers cannot discount the prediction.

Austrian officials refused comment. One newspaper editor said the country was safe just so long as four-power occupation continued.

After the occupation ends, the editor said, "We are going to stand out like a sore finger in the company of our neighbors to the east."

Finns Read "Warning"

Finland, next door to Russia, had managed so far to stave off Communist domination. But Finns looked at a warning to "reactionaries" in today's edition of the Helsinki Communist newspaper Tyoekansan Sanomat, and also wondered, "Who's next?"

One Belgian Socialist politican said gloomily it was "useless" trying to stop Communist infiltration and "sooner or later Belgium" would be surrounded by countries of the Red orbit.

Unofficial source in Amsterdam believed the union of western Europe would be speeded. A Copenhagen newspaper said, "The ill-boding shadow of the walls of the Kremlin approaches Denmark."

London's Communist Daily Worker believed France and Italy were next on the Red timetable.

The newspaper said the "ruling classes" in France and Italy, where Communism is strong, "realize that they face the same challenge" as those of Czechoslovakia.

"Write-off" by West

Despite the tripower declaration yesterday, diplomatic quarters predicted the Western powers would "write off" Czechoslovakia as they had been forced to write off the rest of eastern Europe.

By this pattern, established when the Communists seized Bulgaria, Albania, Poland, Yugoslavia, Hungary and Romania, Western capitols would be cool toward Czechoslovakia, but without breaking diplomatic relations.

Later, efforts born of economic necessity, would be made to bolster trade relations.

Weather Gives Britain Coal Export Increase

London, Feb. 26 (AP).—Because of Europe's mild winter, Britain will export up to three million more tons of coal than she has promised under the Marshall Plan, Fuel Minister Hugh Gaitskell told Commons today.

Britain will be able to ship about 16 million long tons for exports and ship bunkers, including 13 million long tons pledged last fall to Marshall Plan nations, the minister said.

8 Negro Policemen Elected at Atlanta

Atlanta, Feb. 26 (AP).—The Atlanta police department elected eight Negro policemen last night to begin work March 8. They are the first in Atlanta since reconstruction days.

They will be under command of a white sergeant.

They will confine their patrols to Negro residential and business sections, but will have full police power.

House Unit to Probe Communists at Miami

By The Associated Press

The House Un-American Activities Committee will investigate Communistic activities in Miami.

Representative Vail (R., Ill.) has been appointed to conduct the investigation. He plans to go to Miami next week, accompanied by Robert S. Stripling, the committee's chief counsel.

The probe was ordered by Chairman Thomas (R., N. J.) after the committee was told that Communists recently held a meeting in Miami to raise funds to defend party members facing deportation proceedings.

British Jet Fighter Flies Record 560 M.P.H.

Stockbridge, England, Feb. 26 (U.P.).—A top secret British jet fighter shattered a three-week-old world record with a speed of 560.634 miles per hour over a 100-kilometer (62.10-mile) closed circuit today.

The plane, a Vickers Supermarine attack jet, carried a full military load. It bettered by 17.7 miles per hour the record set by a British Gloster Meteor jet.

Mother Intercepts Pie Meant for Daughter

Albuquerque, N. Mex., Feb. 26 (AP).—The notation on the police blotter said that two teen-age boys had "thrown a pie at the front door of 510 South Tulane ave." Judge W. T. Harris found that Mrs. A. E. Buck, wife of an Albuquerque city commissioner, was standing in the doorway.

The pie—chocolate cream—struck Mrs. Buck in the face.

The defendants who got [illegible]'s probation, said the pie was aimed at Mrs. Buck's teen-age daughter. They said they were sorry her mother opened the door when she did.

PARK AVENUE PROTEST—As Czechoslovakia fell under Russian domination, members of the American Friends of Slovak Freedom picketed Soviet United Nations headquarters at 680 Park Avenue, New York City, yesterday. Police were on hand, but the demonstration was orderly record," and to put it in somewhat more dramatic form than usual, to show that the West was aroused.

There was some talk in London and Paris of withdrawing recognition from the new Czech government, but it found little echo here.

Economic measures are more probable, although American action alone could have comparatively little effect. The Czechs received a cotton credit of 20 million dollars from the Export-Import Bank last July, and a tobacco credit of two million. A surplus property credit of 50 million was cut off in September, 1948, with only $9,304,000 of it spent.

Where the United States could really hurt the Czechs, if it chose, would be in opposing a World Bank credit to Czechoslovakia for reconstruction purposes. A year ago the Czechs filed a letter of intent to ask for 350 million dollars; no formal application for a loan has followed.

Concern for Italy

The urgent job now facing the United States, informed sources here argued, is to make sure that Italy and France do not follow Czechoslovakia. There is much uneasiness here over Italy, where the Communists are strong, the Socialists divided, and an election is scheduled for April 18.

There will be increased pressure to get the Marshall Plan authorized by the April 1 deadline, so that supplies for Italy and France are not interrupted.

Secretary Marshall gave the Senate Foreign Relations Committee a brief fill-in of the Czech situation when he appeared yesterday in executive session at the request of the committee.

Senate-House Unit Refuses Part in Taft-Hartley Suit

The Senate-House Joint Labor Committee will take no part in prosecuting Philip Murray and the CIO.

Chairman Joseph H. Ball (R., Minn.) yesterday rejected a Justice Department request that the committee take part in the Murray-CIO trial for alleged violation of the Taft-Hartley ban on political activity.

Assistant Attorney General Peyton Ford suggested a "friend of the court" status for the committee. He pointed to similar action in the past as having set a precedent.

Ball replied that the committee has and would adhere strictly to a policy of "not injecting itself into specific disputes or controversies arising in labor-management relations."

He pointed out that his group was created by the new labor act solely for "study and investigation." He added that the committee is "extremely interested" in the CIO case and asked that Ford supply all pertinent documents for its study.

Czech Red Victory Fans French Labor Strife

Paris, Feb. 26 (AP).—A new battle of barricades at Marseille raised fears today the Communist victory in Czechoslovakia will be followed by a second round of strike troubles for France.

Press reports from Marseile said 2000 strikers at the big Mediterranean port city blocked approaches to a sugar refinery there yesterday and fought with troops who cleared them away.

Strikes and disturbances at Marseille set off the string of troubles last November which almost developed into a general walkout and cost France the year's production gains over 1946.

Spring Offensive

Moderate labor circles eyed the calendar anxiously. They speculated on the charges which have been made by right-wing leaders that Communists are planning a spring offensive to start March 1 in France and Italy, and reach a peak about April 15. Socialists in the Belgian government recently declared Communists were trying to bring that country into the strike operation.

Highway Barricaded

The Marseille strikers used the same methods as last year. They barricaded the national highway from Aix, main line with the interior, and fought with police and troops of the mobile guard. Two persons were arrested.

Since the first of the year the Communists have been consolidating their position in the labor unions. A week ago the Communist-directed General Confederation of Labor (CGT) won a crushing election victory in the minefields over the rival labor organization, the Workers Force.

The CGT also has kept its hold on shipping and harbors. A non-Communist labor leader said the Communist influence over dockworkers and seamen could paralyze the movement of aid under the Marshall Plan.

Wholesale Price Average Dropped .3% Last Week

Average wholesale prices dropped only three tenths of 1 per cent last week, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported, compared with a drop of 2½ per cent the week before.

The previous week's drop was one of the sharpest breaks in the history of BLS. Nonagricultural prices last week showed no change; average prices for farm products rose slightly, but average food prices dropped 1.7 per cent.

The bureau said most meats and dressed poultry dropped moderately as supplies exceeded consumer demand; butter and cheese declined "due to uncertain market conditions" and corn meal and most flour prices slumped in sympathy with grain.

Why settle for LESS?

Eaton Agrees With Senators On Aid Figure

Chairman Charles A. Eaton (R., N. J.) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, announced yesterday that he favored authorizing $5,300,000,000 for the first year of the European Recovery Program.

Eaton also said he favored having the program administered by a new Government agency, independent of the State Department, under a top official of Cabinet rank.

Both statements put Eaton squarely alongside Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on these major aspects of ERP.

He differed, however, from the Senate committee's plan to set up a joint congressional committee as a "watchdog" over the handling of European aid. Eaton said this device invaded the functions of the standing Committees on Foreign Affairs and Appropriations.

The House committee will start writing a bill Tuesday and probably will have it ready for floor debate by March 15, Eaton told reporters. If this timetable can be followed—and the House committee intends to end its current hearings this week—it will improve the chances of getting ERP authorized by both Houses by April 1.

This is the deadline beyond which, according to the State Department, the pipeline of supplies for Europe will start drying up. Secretary Marshall again told his press conference yesterday that he thought the April 1 date important.

Senate Debate Monday

The Senate plans to start floor debate on the ERP bill Monday, with Vandenberg making the opening statement.

Senator Homer E. Capehart (R., Ind.) appeared before the House committee yesterday with the statement that the Marshall Plan amounted to "state socialism."

"If that is the only means by which we can defeat the spread of communism and state socialism," he said "our cause is lost."

Instead he proposed helping Europe on what he called a "private enterprise basis," through creation of a new international division of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

U. S. Attacks Reds' Ban on Byrnes Book

Berlin, Feb. 26 (AP).—A United States military government spokesman told the Germans tonight the Russians are suppressing freedom of expression in Germany with police methods.

"They have the same fear of truth and criticism which was displayed by the Nazi dictatorship," T. P. Headon, said in a radio broadcast.

Headon referred specifically to the recent Russian seizure of reprints of James F. Byrnes' book, "Speaking Frankly."

"The trouble seems to be that three of the occupying powers believe in freedom of expression at home, and the fourth does not. Apparently this one power cannot afford to give the German people right which it denies to its own citizens," Headon stated.

Greek Rebels Raid 2 Towns In Thessaly

Athens, Feb. 26 (AP).—The Greek ministry of public order announced today that 1000 guerillas had raided the villages of Almyros and Efxeinoupolis two nights ago. The villages are approximately a mile apart in the Thessaly plain south of Volos.

The attackers managed to penetrate into both towns, the ministry said. Press reports said between 170 and 200 persons were abducted by the insurgents.

The guerillas came down out of 5000-foot Mount Othrys. The ministry said six guerillas were known to have been killed and two others wounded. The retreating insurgents were believed to have carried away another 30 dead. Greek government forces lost two dead and three wounded.

Dispatches said Greek army offensive operations were under way in the Zagoria district northeast of Ioannina in Epirus. These accounts said Greek troops took the villages of Skamneli and Franghedes. Fifteen guerillas were killed and six captured.

Argentina Stands Firm On Antarctic

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Feb. 26. Argentina will agree to submit its Antarctic claims to the International Court of Justice only if a special international conference fails to reach an agreement, Foreign Minister Juan A. Bramuglia announced today.

He said that Argentina is awaiting Britain's reply to the proposal that a special conference be called, and expressed the hope Britain will return the Falkland Islands to this country.

Referring to the general statement of policy made by British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, Bramuglia denied Bevin's assertion that Argentina had given assurances that its naval forces were not going to the Antarctic to assert rights, or to take possession of territories.

"We gave no assurances of any kind on anything," Bramuglia said.

He added that the Argentine fleet was merely exercising the right of navigating free seas to reach argentine territories.

Extinguishes Plant Flames

Marshall Asks U. S. to Rush More Arms to Greece, Turkey

said, as usual, that his committee would "have to find out what this is all about," and would have to scrutinize the new request "with greater care than anything has yet been scrutinized." However, there was every indication that the new request would be authorized, although the April 1 deadline might not be met.

More Arms Promised

The United States has promised the Greeks more machine guns and mountain artillery, and has approved plans to increase the size of the Greek army and militia to about 200,000 men. The proposed new help will let the Greeks relieve their army of static defense duties along the northern frontier, and make greater use of militiamen to guard individual villages against guerilla attack.

The 275-million-dollar figure was based on the estimated needs for a 15-month period beginning April 1 and ending June 30, 1949. As yet there has been no breakdown of how it will be allocated between Greece and Turkey.

With the new military aid there will also be a change in the top American diplomatic representation in Greece. An authoritative source said yesterday that Ambassador Lincoln MacVeagh would be transferred to a new post, and Secretary Marshall told his press conference that a White House announcement on it was expected soon.

Hopes Are Disappointed

The Secretary's letter to the congressional leaders recalled the hopes that after the victory in Europe "we could expect a period in which the community of nations would work together with goodwill and understanding for the common objective of universal peace.

"Many of the countries which had undergone the ravages of enemy occupation or which had made sacrifices for the Allied cause according to their capabilities," the Secretary wrote, "looked forward to the opportunity of pursuing, in peace, their national rehabilitation and democratic development. Unfortunately, events have not justified these hopes . . .

"Hostilities had barely ceased before a concerted campaign against Greece and Turkey was inaugurated in neighboring countries. The purpose of this campaign was clearly to undermine the territorial integrity and political independence of Greece and Turkey, which would deprive the peoples of these countries of the very liberties they have struggled so hard during the war years to retain.

Turkey Under Pressure

"Turkey has been under constant pressure to grant military bases in the Straits to a foreign power and to cede to that same power Turkish territory in the Kars-Ardahan region.

"The northern neighbors of Greece have furnished moral and material support to the Greek Communist guerillas who are attempting to overthrow the legal Greek government and establish the dictatorship of a foreign-inspired minority. This support is being continued in the face of a resolution adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations last October.

"Under the circumstances, it has been necessary for Turkey, in the interest of her national security, to maintain a large military establishment which constitutes a severe drain on her economy but which cannot be further reduced without destroying the competence of the Turkish people in their ability to resist aggression.

tpUesmroI

Greek Situation Worse

"The conditions are even more critical in Greece where, as the result of enemy destruction, no extensive rehabilitation is possible within the meager resources of the shattered Greek economy which the Germans left behind as a legacy when they withdrew."

The Secretary explained that additional economic, as distinct from military, assistance would come from the European Recovery Program, in which both Greece and Turkey are participants.

Fisher Elected President of GSI Workers' Union

The CIO union striking against GSI cafeterias announced yesterday that Edward E. Fisher, a head cook, has been elected president of the local.

Fisher, a member for 6 years and a Navy veteran, was named in the regular annual election of officers to fill a vacancy created when Richard A. Bancroft resigned February 4. At that time other officers of the union filed the Taft-Hartley non-Communist affidavits, which GSI had demanded as a condition to negotiating a new labor contract.

No new developments were reported yesterday by George E. Strong, the attorney who has been trying, on Government assignment, to concilate the 53-day-old strike.

Other union officers elected Tuesday were Mrs. Audrey Yates, vice president; Miss Frances Greenfield, recording secretary; Mrs. Elizabeth King, treasurer; Mrs. Geneva Brown, financial secretary; Oliver T. Palmer, business agent, and James Dixon, sergeant-at-arms.

3d Term Plans Started in '39, Garner Says

Former Vice President John N. Garner believes the late President Roosevelt decided in June, 1939, to run for a third term.

Hopkins

Mr. Roosevelt never publicly admitted he was a third-term candidate until the Democratic National Convention met in Chicago a year later and "drafted" him.

Garner's views were disclosed yesterday in the third of a series of stories in Collier's Magazine by Bascom N. Timmons, veteran Washington correspondent and friend of the former Vice President.

"After he left office," Timmons wrote, "Garner told me that piecing together all the information he had, he felt that Roosevelt had made up his mind to run at this time—June, 1939."

Draft Movement Starts

Garner reached the conclusion slowly and with reluctance. He recalled that at the time of their second-term inauguration in January, 1937, he and Mr. Roosevelt exchanged confidences that neither of them ever intended to seek public office again.

Timmons and Garner had talked it over when the third-term draft movement began getting up steam in June, 1939. Timmons still doubted that Mr. Roosevelt would run.

"You can draw your own deductions from his actions," Garner told him. "I think you will agree that he does not detest the idea of a third term. If he did he would call these people off.

"They are on the Federal payroll, under his direction, and they would discontinue their activity if he showed the slightest displeasure. I don't think there is any public demand for him to run yet, but it can be created by exactly the methods that are being pursued.

Hopkins Had Ambitions

"I would be against a third term on principle even if I approved every act of his Administration."

Timmons' article, based on intimate conversations with Garner over a period of years, also disclosed that:

1. The late Harry L. Hopkins, a Roosevelt adviser who headed the third term draft movement, once told Garner he opposed a third term and wanted to be President himself some day.

2. Garner, who was being mentioned as the possible Presidential nominee in 1940, didn't want it and would have preferred that it go to Secretary of State Cordell Hull, RFC Director Jesse Jones or Postmaster Gen. James A. Farley.

3. Mr. Roosevelt quit inviting Garner to private White House luncheons early in 1939 when polls showed the Vice President would be a popular choice for the Presidential nomination. Garner felt there was a direct connection which he attributed to Mr. Roosevelt's jealousy.

4. Garner was privately pleased when miners' President John L. Lewis attacked him as a "labor-baiting, poker-playing, whisky-drinking evil old man." He figured that the public would feel that "anyone Lewis can't control is all right."

Mississippi's Secret Police Force Is on Way Out

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 26 (AP).—The Mississippi Legislature is going right along with its plans to do away with the State's three-man "secret police" force.

A bill to repeal the act which created the Mississippi Bureau of Investigation was given a favorable report by a Senate committee yesterday, and it now goes to the full Senate for action.

The MBI was created at a special session last November to deal with violence generated by a bus strike. Its critics call it a "gestapo." Governor Fielding L. Wright says he didn't ask for such a force in the first place and doesn't want one now.

It has never been used. The violence responsible for its creation ceased when the force was organized.

The act provides that members of the MBI shall be known only to the Governor, and it gives the investigators authority in crimes of violence to make arrests without warrants. It also gives the right to make searches and seizures without warrant except in cases of residences and premises.

Governor Wright has asked for a nonsecret bureau to replace the present force. He said he plans to disband the MBI regardless of the action of the present Legislature.

Senate Votes Distillery Gran Ration

The Senate yesterday voted to ration grain to distillers until October 31.

The measure, which passed the Upper House by 54 to 16, provides:

1. That the Agriculture Department limit the amount of grain to be used in making whisky to not less than 2,500,000 bushels a month.

2. That the so-called "historical" basis for allocation of grain be used. In other words, each distiller will be allowed an amount of grain each month in proportion to the amount he used in the period from December, 1946, to June, 1947.

The measure now goes to the House, where the House Banking Committee is reportedly lukewarm. That committee recently pigeonholed a similar measure that would have rationed grain to distillers during February.

Abbitt Sworn in as Va. Member of Congress

Escorted to the Speaker's rostrum by Representative S. Otis Bland (D., Va.), Watkins M. Abbitt of Appomattox, Va., was sworn in yesterday as a member of the House of Representatives.

Abbitt succeeds the late Representative Patrick Drewry of the Fourth Virginia Congressional District.

Farm Support Loss Cited by Anderson

Congress Blamed for Not Modifying Law to Bolster Agricultural Products

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Congress is to blame for "continuing problems" arising from operation of the law providing Government price supports for agricultural products, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson told GOP leaders yesterday.

In identical letters to the Republican chairmen of the House and Senate Agriculture Committees, Anderson predicted that final figures will show the law cost the Government 45 million dollars for last year for potatoes alone.

This is about the cost of the potato program of 1946, he said. The reduction, he credited to "direct steps to minimize price support costs and waste for the 1947 crop" taken by his department.

Modification Sought

Twice, more than a year ago, he pointed out, he had formally asked the two Republican-dominated committees, to modify the law.

"Unfortunately, no legislative action has yet been taken," he wrote. "We are still operating under the same inflexible provisions which held 18 months ago."

Although Anderson emphasized that "potatoes are the crop of most immediate concern," he pointed out that "the same basic principles apply to the other commodities which are covered by the Steagall amendment and related legislation."

"In November, 1946," he wrote, "I addressed a letter to the then chairman and ranking minority members of the Agricultural Committees in both the Senate and the House. In this letter I brought up the whole question of price support policy, with specific references to the troublesome potato situation, and urged that the subject be given prompt and thorough consideration.

Recalls Testimony

"In January, 1947, in testimony before the Senate and House Committees, I went into more detail regarding the problems involved.

"At that time I outlined the probable difficulties ahead of us in carrying out price supports, and estimated the costs that might result. Again I urged early legislative action, suggesting the establishment of a timetable which would permit prompt consideration of the more immediate questions. It was pointed out that the farmers needed to know the answers in time to plan their future operations."

The Secretary then declared that "I am not suggesting at all that the price support provisions should have been revoked."

He said Congress was "farsighted in granting farmers basic price protection for the postwar period of necessary readjustment to peacetime production schedules.

Promise Must Be Kept

"Farmers," he said, "deserved this protection, and it would have been unthinkable to go back on the promise.

"At the same time," he then declared "our farmers do not want production to continue under a frozen pattern which results in waste of production, effort, money, and soil.

"It is obvious," he said, "that the present inflexible price supports, under certain conditions and for some commodities, can encourage this sort of wasteful production.

"What I suggested a year and more ago, and am repeating now, is action to achieve those adjustments in price support provisions which would be generally beneficial, while staying within the spirit of the price support commitments."

In the 1946 potato program, he said, the loss ran to 89 million dollars. "More than 25 million bushels were lost entirely," he said, "when no useful outlets could be found before spoilage set in."

This year, he said, supports were limited to those farmers who stayed within potato acreage goals. Less than half a million bushels will be lost, he said, although the expense will be half that of 1946 or about 45 million dollars.

Anderson then pointed out that price supports terminate on December 31. He expressed the fear that potato growers will attempt to "sell the bulk of their late crop to the Government before that date, in order to assure themselves the protection afforded under the program."

Early Consideration Urged

"The consequences," he said, "of such an abnormal situation are obvious."

In closing his letter, Anderson pleaded "that the Congress give early consideration to this problem.

"It is important for all crops which are under price support; it is urgent for potatoes.

"The question of what comes after December 31 should be answered."

Treaty Session Delayed

London, Feb. 26 (U.P.).—Today's session of the Council of Foreign Ministers Deputies meeting on Austrian peace settlement preliminaries was postponed because of the illness of Soviet Deputy Nikolai P. Koktomov.

Lamarre Tells Of Meyers' War Contracts

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

A picture of Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, retired, as reaping more than $150,000 from a war contracting firm he was running under cover was unrolled before a Federal Court here yesterday.

Key Government witness was Bleriot H. Lamarre, 36-year-old Dayton, Ohio, gasoline station attendant, who said the general's rosy talk about a postwar future filled with luxurious holidays in Florida and perpetual golf games pany for Meyers at a salary of $50 persuaded him to operate the coma week.

Meyers is being tried on three charges of inducing Lamarre to lie under oath to the Senate War Investigating Committee which first investigated the Army Air Force procurement officer's extracurricular wartime activities.

Meyers Glares at Lamarre

While Meyers glared fixedly at him from the other side of the courtroom, Lamarre went through a four-hour recital of the intricate and involved financial transactions of the Aviation Electric Corp. in Dayton, Ohio, of which, he testified, the general was the real "boss".

Assistant District Attorney Edward Molenor buttressed Lamarre's evidence with a steady flow of documents—c a s h i e r's checks deposited by Meyers, company records, etc.

The incessant hammering of Government evidence was interrupted frequently by objections from Defense Counsel Robert T. Bushnell.

The youthful Lamarre, who described himself as the "dummy" president of Aviation Electric, and a stockholder in name only, was cool and precise as he traced the tangled financial web.

Lamarre's Tone Changes

Pointedly refusing to trade glances with the glowering general, Lamarre repeatedly referred to him only as "Meyers".

Finally Molenof asked him if he meant "the defendant Meyers".

Turning so that he stared directly at Meyers, Lamarre said:

"I mean that man."

At Senate hearings last year, Lamarre referred to Meyers in tones of obvious respect as "General Meyers until the AAF officer made his spectacular defense that he had set up the company only because Mrs. Lamarre was his "girl friend" with "the knowledge and acquiescense" of her husband.

The defense yesterday managed to bar from the record two letters Mrs. Lamarre had written to a woman friend commenting on the general's unprecedented defense. The defense had initially unearthed the existence of the letters.

Letters Ruled Inadmissible

The Government yesterday offered the letters in evidence, first handing them to defense counsel to read. Bushnell objected and was sustained by Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff.

Much of the $150,000 take the prosecution says Meyers received from the company, came in the form of "kick-backs" from the listed book salaries of Lamarre and his brother-in-law, Thomas E. Readnower, also a company official, Lamarre testified.

In 1940, Lamarre told the jury, his own salary was put on the books as $31,000. Of this Meyers got $28,000—$18,000 in the form of cashiers' checks, and $10,000 in the form of checks paid to Mrs. Neta Davis, who decorated the general's beautiful Hotel 2400 apartment, Lamarre said. The checks were put in evidence.

Obeyed Meyers Implicitly

Lamarre was asked why he made out cheeks to Mrs. Davis at a time when he didn't know who she was or why the payments were being made.

"Because Meyers told me to." he answered. "He was the boss. I had no reason to question his orders."

In response to another question, he again insisted:

"He was my boss. I just asked him what he wanted me to do and I did it."

In 1942, Lamarre said he had a book salary of $19,000 and the general let him keep $4000.

When it got to the payment of income taxes on the book salaries things really got complicated, Lamarre testified. First his brother-in-law went on the payroll for $15,000, although he actually got only $100 a month. Taxes on Lamarre's salary were met out of Readnower's $15,000 "salary" and the general got the balance, according to Lamarre.

Indorsed Blank Checks

Readnower went into the Army in 1942 but was kept on the books at a listed salary of $18,600 a year, Lamarre said. Before he left the company R e a d n o w e r indorsed checks in blank so they could be cashed for the general's benefit, the witness testified.

Lamarre identified another high-salaried company official, Ray A. Curnutt, father of the thrice-married general's present wife, who was brought into the courtroom for identification.

Curnutt, a former bus driver, went onto the company's payroll in 1942 at $1000 a month, Lamarre testified.

In 1945 the company "bought up" Curnutt's contract, Lamarre said, and on March 31, 1945, he was given chceks totaling $29,280.01. Two days later, on April 2, Curnutt drew a check for $26,640.61 to Ila Rae Meyers, his daughter. The check was put in evidence.

Wayne Bell, 11, and Sergt. Abel Mann, of Precinct No. 1, witness the presentation, a substantial boost for the fund to increase the activities of the six clubs and Camp Ernest W. Brown. Rodins led the drive among the 30-odd operators here, with the public contributing to the tune of juke box numbers and purchases of cigarettes in vending machines

New Fire Dept. Gets Call Soon After Opening

Within five minutes after it opened for business yesterday, the new volunteer fire department at Four Corners, Md., was called to put out a minor blaze caused by a short circuit.

The new $45,000 firehouse in the 10,000 block of Old Bladensburg rd. will house two pieces of equipment transferred from the Silver Spring Volunteer Department. Four pieces will be left at the main building and two new one ordered to replace the transfers.

The Upper Montgomery County Volunteer Fire Department also is now in partial service, a spokesman reported. The new $45,000 fire house at Beallsville is completed but the company will not be in full operation until its alarm system is installed.

Capt. Manning Defies Union After Row on Liner America

New York, Feb. 26 (U.P.).—A bitter wrangle between the captain and the union crew chief of the United States liner America broke out when the vessel arrived from Europe today, and threatened to keep the queen of the United States merchant fleet tied up in port.

"There's going to be a showdown over who's going to run this ship—the captain or the union," barked Harry Manning, her master, who is commodore of the United States Line and one of the country's best known seafaring men because of his many rescues at sea.

As the liner arrived from Southampton with 773 passengers, the ship's local of the National Maritime Union (CIO) delivered a written ultimatum. It informed the assistant general manager of the line that the crew had voted unanimously not to sail the ship again until W. S. McDonald, chief crew steward, was put off the ship and two discharged crewmen were rehired.

Calls for Showdown

The outspoken skipper called for a showdown and said he wouldn't sail unless McDonald was aboard.

"Let's put this thing to a test," he declared. "As far as I'm concerned they can tie this ship up until hell freezes over."

Manning lashed out at the ship's NMU chairman, Walter Avellar, as an "agitator" and said "if the commissar is to dictate who goes on the ship, it's time to quit."

Avellar retorted that Manning was a "complete egomaniac," and that many in the crew thought the executive officer "is pushing him hard for first place."

The company in a statement issued after meeting with union delegates termed the union demands "tantamount to usurping the powers of management." The company said McDonald was a union member in good standing and had been doing a satisfactory job. It said the two discharged men had been fired "for just cause."

Company Statement

"As far as we are concerned, the crew will sign on tomorrow morning and the ship will sail on Wednesday," the company said.

It made plain that Manning's statements were his own, and not necessarily those of the company.

After the meeting, Avellar said the company had promised to consider the union's complaints and give an answer later. But a company spokesman said their statement contained all their answers to the union.

Meanwhile, Joseph Curran, NMU president, said that no crew member had authority from the national union to say whether a ship would sail.

Avellar said McDonald had been accused of "conduct unbecoming a union member" and the ship's local had voted him off the ship. He said McDonald had "victimized" two crew members, W. Axford and David Mangel. He described the grievance against McDonald as "a purely internal affair."

Marshall Sends Kennan For MacArthur Parley

Secretary of State Marshall has sent his top policy planning officer, George F. Kennan, to confer with Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Japan.

Telling a news conference about it yesterday, Marshall said Kennan will familiarize himself with the situation in Japan and plans to come back by way of the Philippines.

Marshall said Kennan's mission is related to American policy, to the problem of writing a Japanese peace treaty, and to Japanese reconstruction.

Wife Wins $$$$ From Kaiser, Jr.

MRS. JANE WALKER KAISER has been awarded $1000 a month support from Henry J. Kaiser, jr., pending trial of her divorce suit in Los Angeles. The shipbuilder's son estimated his income last year at $15,000 in salaries and $20,000 in bonuses and dividends. Mrs. Kaiser alleges desertion

2000 Veterans To Urge Action On Housing

Some 2000 veterans will attend a national veterans' housing conference here Sunday to urge immediate passage of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill, Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., said yesterday.

Roosevelt is housing chairman of the American Veterans Committee and a sponsor of the conference. The delegates, he said, would attempt to get the 218 signatures on a discharge petition necessary to force the measure out of the Housing Banking Committee for a vote.

The conference was indorsed yesterday by six Catholic leaders, the veterans' committee announced. It said messages of support had been received from Archbishops Richard J. Cushing of Boston, Robert E. Lucey of San Antonio, Edward D. Howard of Portland, Oreg., Edwin V. Byrne of Santa Fe, Joseph E. Ritter of St. Louis, and Msgr. John O'Grady, secretary of the National Conference of Catholic Charities.

Archbishop Cushing was quoted as saying he indorsed the conference because "it offers an opportunity of constructive action toward the solution of a critical social and moral problem for countless persons, families and for the entire Nation."

Roosevelt assailed Banking Committee Chairman Wolcott (R., Mich.) for pigeonholing the measure. He added that "we have given up hope of even getting him to allow committee consideration of the bill." He predicted passage by the House if it reached the floor.

The conference was called by representatives of seven major veterans' organizations. All veterans, however, were invited to attend the sessions which will continue through Monday.

Home Builders Ask Big Scale Joint Effort

Chicago, Feb. 26 (AP).—The National Association of Home Builders today called for "joint effort on the widest possible scale by all segments of our industry" to meet the Nation's housing needs.

In a statement of policy adopted at the end of the association's annual convention, NAHB urged "provision of adequate financing, full production and distribution of materials, high productivity by labor" and "modernization" of building codes as the ways to speed housing production.

The principal points included:

Recommendation that communities adopt the Baltimore plan of slum clearance through enforcement of sanitary codes, and

Production of homes at the "lowest possible cost" to meet veteran needs.

Plane-Flip Pilot Grounded

Los Angeles, Feb. 26 (U.P.).—Airline Pilot Charles R. Sisto, 36, today was grounded for a year by the Civil Aeronautics Board for flipping an American Airline plane with 49 passengers over on its back last fall.

Synthetic Rubber Control to Be Modified

Legislation providing for continued Government ownership and long-range control of the synthetic rubber industry will be modified as a result of stiff opposition from the big rubber companies.

The House Armed Services Committee, it was learned yesterday, has voted in executive session to seek only temporary rubber legislation instead of the long-range program it had already approved unanimously.

They voted, again unanimously, to support an amendment on the House floor putting a June 30, 1950, termination date on the previously indorsed Shafer bill. The measure has been under attack by the Rubber Manufacturers Association as leading to the "socialization of the rubber industry."

Heads of the big rubber companies have indorsed a measure recommended by a Senate subcommittee composed of Senators Bricker (R., Ohio), Cain (R., Wash.) and Robertson (D., Va.). It calls for early disposal to private industry of the synthetic rubber plants built by the Government during the war, and extends controls two years.

The rubber companies have listed 13 objections to the Shafer bill, and particularly object to provisions barring any sale of the Government plants except upon a vote of Congress and with the approval of the National Security Resources Board.

Prepared after months of hearings by a subcommittee headed by Representative Paul Shafer (R., Mich.), the bill has been approved by House GOP leaders and the Administration. Backers said the decision to make the bill temporary legislation was an effort to put it through without further major change.

In the Senate, rubber legislation is handled by the Banking and Currency Committee. In the House by the Armed Services.

Woman Cleared Of Assault on Stepdaughter, 9

A Cheverly, Md., woman was found not guilty in Hyattsville Police Court yesterday of an assault charge arising from a series of beatings allegedly inflicted on her 9-year-old stepdaughter.

Mrs. Frances Steele, second wife of Ray Steele, 2336 Belleview rd., Cheverly, was acquitted by Judge Arthur P. Owens after nearly two hours of conflicting testimony centering on a charge filed by the child's mother, Mrs. Mabel Steele, 2070 Belmont rd., nw. The little girl, who has been living with her father and stepmother for about a year, said she was beaten with a razor strap several times, once because she "didn't make up my bed right."

Steele and his present wife both testified the girl had never been beaten by her stepmother, but on occasions had been punished by her father. A custody suit was filed by the first Mrs. Steele on February 6 in District Court, where the couple was divorced several years ago.

Arabs Warn U. S. Oil Concessoins May Be Cancelled

Cairo, Feb. 26 (AP).—The Arab League has warned that "all Arab states" will cancel their oil concessions to the United States if the United States keeps pushing Palestine partition, a league source said today.

The informant said the warning was given in a note sent to Washington yesterday.

The league includes Saudi Arabia, where the Arabian-American Oil Co., is developing vast oil deposits. The Saudi Arabian field is the largest single oil supplier of the United States Navy.

(At his press conference today United States Secretary of State George Marshall said the United States has not yet received the note.)

Secretary General Sees Chaos Gripping Country Unless Organization Acts Quickly

Lake Success, Feb. 26 (AP).—Trygve Lie said gravely today that chaos will envelop Palestine unless the United Nations acts quickly.

The United Nations Secretary General said a U. N. failure to carry out the Holy Land partition plan would reduce the prestige of the U. N.

He emphasized the U. N. would be responsible only after the British leave Palestine.

The British meanwhile repeated their determination to end the Palestine mandate by May 15 and take all British soldiers out of Palestine by August 1.

A Colombian delegate said "Palestine partition looks like a corpse to me." Colombia, which abstained on the 1947 U. N. Assembly vote for partition, has raised the possibility of a special Assembly session to reconsider the partition decision.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, refused to say whether he would make a statement on the issue of a U. N. Palestine police force to the Security Council tomorrow at 3 p. m. Some delegate said they believed he is ready to speak, however.

In other U. N. developments today:

1. Gromyko accused the United States in the Security Council of trying to enslave the Indonesian republic. The Council adjourned the Dutch-Indonesian case until Saturday morning without acting on a Canadian resolution to approve the work of the Council's good offices committee. This committee brought about a truce in Indonesia.

2. The Little Assembly voted 31 to 2 to advise the U. N. Korean commission to go ahead with elections wherever possible in Korea. The commission has been barred from the Russian zone in northern Korea. Canada and Australia voted against the majority on the grounds that the Little Assembly lacked authority. Canada was considering withdrawing from the 9-nation Korean commission.

3. The Security Council heard Pakistan refuse to recognize the recent plebiscite by which India claimed the formerly Moslem-ruled state of Junagadh, calling it a "farce." India said she was willing to have a plebiscite under suitable auspices but did not believe the result would be different.

Jewish Agency Stands Pat

The Jewish Agency for Palestine declared "without foundation" reports the agency is ready to agree to revision of the partition plan and to new concessions.

[The United Press said some U.N. diplomats had uncovered an apparent sharp contradiction between the new United States policy on Palestine and American views last year.

[Records of the U.N. General Assembly showed the United States on Nov. 22, 1947, maintained that the U. N. Security Council would be responsible for "the security elements" involved in partition of Palestine. It also brushed aside any legal objections to partition and the U. N.'s right to enforce it.

[On Tuesday, however, American Delegate Warren R. Austin told the Council it had no right to impose partition by force because it represents a political decision recommended by the U. N. General Assembly to the U. N.'s 57 member governments.]

Figures Given On UMT Cost

and the expanded National Guard and reserve training and equipment would not be required until the fifth year after passage.

However, an additional two billion dollars would have to be spent over a five-year period to rehabilitate camps, build additional housing, buy equipment, etc., to get UMT started.

Chairman Chan Gurney (R., S. Dak.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee acknowledged last night that he had received part of the cost data some days ago, and had been promised the remainder today. He said he probably would not make any of the estimates public until his committee has had a chance to study them.

A large majority of the committee favor UMT, but decided some time ago not to take up the measure until the official cost estimates were prepared and House approval assured.

Prospects of House action have not been bright. Although approved by the House Armed Services Committee by an overwhelming vote, the bill has been bottled up in the House Rules Committee.

Yesterday, however, Representative James W. Wadsworth (R., N. Y.), a member of the latter groups, forecast favorable action by both the Rules Committee and the House this year.

"There is a growing feeling that we cannot continue to block the House from taking a vote on this most important issue," he told The Washington Post. "The committee is about evenly divided on the bill and only a shift of one or two votes is necessary.

"I am convinced the House will pass the bill when it comes up for a vote. Recent events, such as the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia, have members taking a more realistic approach."

Chief obstacle to adoption of UMT, Wadsworth said, is that opponents will delay House action so long that even if passed, it will be too late for Senate consideration this year.

Chairman Leo Allen (R., Ill.) of the House Rules Committee and an opponent of UMT, disagreed with Wadsworth's optimism on House approval. He said he saw nothing to change his statement of several weeks ago that the measure would not pass "under present conditions."

Truman Swims And Basks in Sun at Key West

By a Washington Post Reporter

Key West, Fla., Feb. 26.—President Truman took it easy in the June-like weather here today, and hoped that he could spend the next eight days in the same way.

Mr. Truman was tired when he returned to Florida yesterday from his tour of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and the United States Naval Base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. Practically, therefore, his winter vacation did not start until today.

He was up at 7 o'clock this morning. After reading reports flown from the White House, he had breakfast at 8:45 with his aides. He then donned a pair of white bathing trunks and spent two hours swimming and lolling in the sun on the enlisted men's beach at the United States Submarine Base. This afternoon he took a long nap.

Two pieces of legislation, which require Mr. Truman's signature to become law, are expected tomorrow or Saturday. One extends rent control to April 1 and the other continues powers of the Maritime Commission to operate surplus merchant ships.

Lone Gunman Robs American Airlines Office

A lone gunman with two plaster patches under his left eye robbed the American Airlines branch offices at 813 15th st. nw. of $682 in cash and checks about 6 p. m. yesterday.

In the office was Miss Grace O'Hara, 1417 N st. nw., a reservation clerk. She described the robber as a white man, about 30, 5 feet 11 inches, 150 pounds, black haired and wearing a gray gabardine topcoat and without a hat.

Police believe the holdup man, who brandished a small, black revolver, escaped in a maroon car bearing Maryland tags. They scoured the area with the clerk in a scout car immediately after the robbery, without success.

Lieut. David McCutcheon, First Precinct, said the clerk told him the gunman was in the office two days ago, asking for ticket information.

Miss O'Hara said the $682, which consisted of $399 in cash and the rest in checks, had just been tallied and placed in an envelope.

Swedish Inquiry Sent Russia on 18 Missing Seamen

Stockholm, Feb. 26 (AP).—Sweden has asked Russia and Poland whether they know anything about 18 Swedish seamen who disappeared recently in the Baltic Sea, the foreign office said today.

One of the two Swedish cargo ships was found adrift in the southern Baltic with no one aboard, and the other is still missing. Both ships left Stolpmunde, Germany, on February 18.

Aftonbladet, Stockholm newspaper, speculated the ships might have been "captured at sea and the crews taken to unknown ports." The paper said one theory was that the crews might have shown interest at some port "which the Russians have taken over the Germans."

Arab Attacks on Hospital Repulsed by Jewish Forces

Jerusalem, Feb. 26 (U.P.).—Arabs twice attacked the $1,000,000 Hadassah Hospital and the Hebrew University colony atop Mount Scopus today but Jewish defenders repulsed them.

The Jewish organization Haganah claimed some 20 Arabs were killed and an unknown number wounded in the eight-hour engagemnt which started last midnight.

A government communique said two Arabs were killed and three injured critically.

There was no report of Jewish casualties.

Heavy Guns Used

Haganah said the Arabs fired light and heavy guns at the new Hadassah Hospital and advanced on the colony from three directions in sizable numbers the organization said, the Jewish defenders, firing from within settlement buildings stopped the Arabs.

Two hours later, Jewish forces pursued the attackers to the Arab village of Wadi Joz where they blew up five houses.

The Arabs regrouped their forces and struck again at 4 a. m., but were repulsed, according to Haganah.

None of the 50-odd Jewish settlement buildings was damaged.

It was reported that all 51 Jewish victims of the Ben Yehuda street bombing Sunday had been buried secretly in a new north Jerusalem cemetary.

The Jewish Agency for Palestine announced the opening of a two-day "public inquiry" into the bombing and promised a verdict tomorrow.

Dr. Hussein Khalid, secretary of the Palestine Arab higher committee, criticized the statement yestreday by Warren Austin, United States delegate to the United Nations, on Palestine.

Estate Value Cut Since '40 Stressed Here

By S. Oliver Goodman

The average person needs to increase his life insurance about 50 per cent to equal the estate he had in 1940.

Dr. Heflebower

This was the opinion expressed by R. E. Heflebower of the Brookings Institution staff in an address yesterday afternoon before more than 500 insurance men at the Shoreham Hotel.

Stressing the drop in dollar value since 1940, Dr. Heflebower said a $20,000 estate of 1940 would have to be raised to at least $30,000 to afford equal protection for a man's family at present. This fact should be emphasized by insurance salesmen, he added.

Citing a "world-wide shortage" of capital, Heflebower predicted that interest rates will rise gradually in the future.

Life underwriters from Baltimore, Cumberland, Hagerstown, Norfolk, Petersburg and Richmond attended the all-day session which was sponsored by the District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association. William B. Rumple, association head, presided and John D. Marsh was chairman of the sales congress committee.

Among the other speakers were B. N. Woodson, executive vice president of Commonwealth Life; Isaac S. Kibrick, agency assistant of New York Life; Carlton W. Cox, Paterson manager of Metropolitan Life; David B. Fluegelman, special agent of Northwestern Mutual, and M. M. Matson, business insurance expert of Mutual Benefit.

NEW DIRECTOR: Lee D. Butler, auto dealer, has been elected a director of Potomac Electric Power Co., President A. G. Neal announced yesterday. Butler fills the vacancy left by the resignation of Herbert C. Freeman, president of North American Co. Butler, active in community affairs, is president and treasurer of the Studebaker agency bearing his name. He is president of the Community Chest of Washington and on the boards of the National Symphony Orchestra Association, Emergency Hospital and the Potomac School. A graduate of Princeton, he is also active in the university's alumni groups here.

NINETY-THREE PER CENT CONVERTED: Of the 20,000 shares of Woodward & Lothrop 7 per cent preferred stock outstanding, 18,672 shares were deposited for conversion into the new 5 per cent preferred. This was reported yesterday by a spokesman for Woodward's, following the Tuesday deadline for exchanges. The undeposited 1328 shares will be retired at the redemption price of $105 a share. As a result, capitalization of the Washington department store will be reduced to $4,367,200 from $4,500,000. Notices of call were mailed last night to 39 stockholders who failed to deposit their shares with Washington Loan & Trust Co.

NEW SERVICE: In this age of specialization comes a new type of service. Two former GIs have launched a Washington organization to assist businessmen in analyzing locations for planned enterprises. The service is not confined to population and traffic counts, but also takes into consideration economic, social and psychological factors. Managers of the new firm, Location Analysts, 3 Thomas Circle nw., are Donald M. Mitchell and Maurice D. Atkin. Mitchell formerly conducted consumer surveys for the Agriculture Department, was a labor market analyst for the War Department and most recently was commercial specialist in food trades division of Agriculture Department. Atkin, a graduate of University of Maryland with an M.S. degree in marketing and economics, has developed market surveys for the Agriculture Department as well as for commercial firms.

HEALTHY SIGN: The recent break in commodity prices was analyzed by Vice President L. A. McQueen of General Tire & Rubber Co. as "the most constructive recent development in the interest of good business." Addressing more than 500 General Tire distributors and dealers at the Statler. McQueen said that any drop in food prices will mean that people will have more money to spend on other things. Other hopeful factors cited were high individual incomes, a boom and the continued heavy demand for goods. He added that inventories of neither finished goods nor raw materials are out of balance with present-day volume of business.

EARNINGS: Westinghouse Electric Corp. reported net income of $48,806,417 for 1947, equal to $3.58 a common share, compared with $8,823,646 or 65 cents a share in preceding year. Other income reports yesterday included:

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Feb. 26 (AP).—Grains mostly closed lower on the Board of Trade today. Exception to the declining trend were new crop corn contracts and the comparatively inactive March oats delivery.

Soybeans jumped 8 cents, the daily limit, in the usual thin market for this commodity. Strength in beans reflected a boost in cottonseed oil quotations as well as a feeling that these contracts were oversold on the recent break.

Wheat ended 1½ to 2 cents lower, May 2.36⅝@2.36½; corn was 2 cents lower to 3 cents higher; May 1.17¼@2.16¾; oats were ¼ lower to 1⅞ higher, May 1.07⅛@1.07½; and soybeans were 8 cents higher, March 3.50. Wheat was down around 4 cents at one time, but recovered part of that loss on shorts covering in the final 15 minutes. There was nothing new in the wheat picture. The Government remained out of the cash market. Domestic flour business was poor and crop prospects continued to improve.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Keeping The Lid On

Although it contains several weak spots, by and large the new 1948-49 rent control bill passed by the Senate offers a substantial measure of protection to the majority of tenants. It is probably as good a bill as can be expected at this point, and certainly it is a vast improvement over the monstrosity originally offered by Senator Cain. In effect, it continues rents at present levels through April 30, 1949, for tenants who have not negotiated voluntary agreements to the contrary. Perhaps inevitably, the bill does militate against those tenants who have agreed to increases in return for leases throughout 1948; the only possible corrective here would be a rollback which Congress undoubtedly would find unpalatable. A timely amendment sponsored by Senator McCarthy continues controls over scarce materials to be used for amusement or recreation construction. The bill also improves appeal procedure whereby landlords may obtain relief on the basis of demonstrable cost increases.

As we see it, the principal flaw in the new bill is that it leaves enforcement power toothless. When the provision for criminal penalties against offending landlords was eliminated, the Senate neglected to restore the portion of the present law which enables the Housing Expediter to sue for triple damages on behalf of tenants. This defect of course plays into the hands of those few landlords who resort to gouging. For the only recourse of tenants, when landlords flout the law, will be through costly civil suit, and the only penalty against landlords will be a forced refund of overcharges. This is a flaw which we hope the House will remedy as it meditates over the new law during the one-month extension of controls that both houses have voted. In any event, we hope the House will follow the Senate's example in leaving the main rent-control provisions unimpaired.

Korean Elections

Only an incurable optimist could believe that at the present juncture the Russians would agree to any unification of Korea that did not leave the country a mere Soviet satellite. The United Nations has all the evidence it needs of the Russian determination to boycott and flout any U. N.-supervised effort to hold elections in all of Korea. There has been no more clear-cut case of deliberate violation of a U. N. decision. Thus it was completely within reason for the Little Assembly Thursday to adopt the next best course in authorizing elections in the American zone.

The United States plan, which was accepted in essence, calls for elections starting in the south and working northward. As the American delegate, Dr. Philip C. Jessup, observed when this proposal was introduced, "If it should unhappily prove to be the case that they (the U. N. electoral commission) could not continue with the observation of elections north of the thirty-eighth parallel, due to the opposition of the Soviet authorities, the result would nevertheless be that two thirds of the Korean people would have elected their proportional share of members of the Korean National Assembly." If the Soviet remains adamant, the National Assembly could then proceed to organize a government for southern Korea.

There were, to be sure, legal niceties involved in the contention of the Canadian and Australian delegates that the original U. N. instructions called for elections in all of Korea. But this is manifestly impossible given the present Russian attitude. No purpose would have been served, it seems to us, in referring the matter back to the General Assembly for further debate. For this is another instance in which inaction would be costly. Korea already has been left too long in a political vacuum, and more delay would mean only further deterioration, with increased unrest and violence.

Wallace-Taylor

In accepting the number two seat on the Wallace bandwagon, Senator Glen Taylor no doubt is being true to his convictions. It may be said of the Idaho Senator that he has been superficial, glib and even demagogic in his approach to various issues, but at least he has been consistent. His fundamental difference with the Democratic Party which elected him has been on foreign policy. Mr. Taylor hears, sees and speaks no evil about Russia. He is, in a sense, a congenital maverick, and it is possible to see in him the same messianic martyrdom complex that grips Henry Wallace. Thus it is wholly logical from Taylor's standpoint that he should become Wallace's third party running mate.

But to grant Mr. Taylor's sincerity is not to applaud his wisdom. His statement "I am not leaving the Democratic Party, it left me" has an "everyone's out of step but me" ring. And his additional comment, "Wall Street and the military have taken over" is an echo from the Kremlin. Not that Senator Taylor is any Communist. But there can be no question about the Communist support which he frankly welcomes—support which on the matter of foreign policy can mean only that Senator Taylor is serving Communist purposes.

Reflections On Prague

It is said that the Communists grabbed Czechoslovakia out of fear that the free election scheduled for April would have reduced the Communist poll. In the last election the vote was 38 per cent. Some observers had said that it would have been brought down to 25 per cent. Why, then, was the seizure accomplished with such ease? The answer lay, of course, in Communist control of both police and factories. But there is another aspect of the situation in Czechoslovakia which bears consideration. Czechoslovakia contains a bourgeois people, sometimes called Teuton-Slavs, whose history shows a sense of adjustment to circumstances. They are good at sabotage and underground activity, but, unlike the Poles and the Hungarians, who are heirs to an age of chivalry, they have contracted a habit of acceptance of the inevitable.

It may be different if the Russians start to pull the shutters down over their only remaining show window in Finland. The Finns, like the Poles and the Hungarians, are romantics, and in Czarist times, when Finland was a Grand Duchy, they were treated with consideration by the Russians. The one exception occurred for a spell during the last century. Russia violated all the safeguards for Finnish laws and customs and autonomy which the liberal-minded Alexander I had adopted when Finland was wrested from the Swedes. But the program of Russification in Finland failed to withstand Finnish fury. For this reason the Soviet Russians have left the Finns pretty much alone behind the reparation bases that Moscow has built or acquired half around Finland. Helsinki, the capital, is "covered" from three sides as a guaranty of the continuance of their present compliance.

The next stroke, rather, is to be expected in the April 18 elections in Italy. Unlike Czechoslovakia, communism seems to be gaining ground in Italy, and the leader of the party is the able Togliatti. Togliatti's campaign for seducing the electorate is shrewd and calculated. He is making a comeback as a "patriot." For instance, he has become the most vociferous of Italian claimants for the return of the colonies. A sort of private foreign policy is being conducted with Tito in Belgrade. As a result of Togliatti's intervention, Italy may get the fishing boats that the Yugoslavs seized, and there may, indeed, be some arrangement over Trieste. It is all part of the electoral campaign aimed at putting De Gasperi out.

With this pace, wherever it takes Soviet influence, the snail's pace of ERP cannot compete. Maybe the events in Prague may speed up the congressional debate. But how inadequate in the context of these menacing times is economic aid without a preliminary consolidation of the participating nations! A thought that must have been in Benes' mind as he reviewed his unhappy lot must have been the defenselessness existing in the fragmented sovereignties of western Europe. They are caught in the same fear. If this country says that ERP can be administered in Europe only by a European body with American membership, if it shows the way to a union of the free world, then hope and resistance may return in Europe. And the spectacle of a united European-American combination is the only thing left now that can arrest and push back the iron curtain.

Regional Schools

The nine Southern Governors who have entered into a compact laying the foundation for a regional system of higher education no doubt believe they have hit upon a neat scheme to circumvent the recent edict of the Supreme Court in the Ada Lois Sipuel case. The scheme is to establish, by pooling the resources of some 15 Southern States, medical and law schools for Negroes who are now excluded from the tax-supported institutions of the States themselves. It is true, to be sure, that under this arrangement the States will be able to offer Southern Negroes graduate schools better staffed and equipped than could possibly be made available to them if each State were to attempt separately a wasteful duplication of its present facilities for white students. It seems extremely improbable, however, that the scheme will succeed in satisfying the Supreme Court's requirements, the legitimate aspirations of the Negro people or the moral responsibilities of the State governments.

A decade ago in the Gaines case the Supreme Court ruled that a State could not meet its constitutional obligation to provide equal educational facilities for Negro students by sending such students to institutions in neighboring States and paying their tuition there. Chief Justice Hughes, speaking for the court at that time, found that "the white resident is afforded legal education within the State; the Negro resident having the same qualifications is refused it there and must go outside the State to obtain it. That is a denial of the equality of legal right to the enjoyment of the privilege which the State has set up, and the provision for the payment of tuition fees in another State does not remove the discrimination." It is hard to see how the discrimination would be removed by the provision of a regional school in another State unless white students were confined to an equivalent regional system.

In any case, however, such segregated schools could not possibly afford Negroes the equality of opportunity to which they are legally and morally entitled. The very fact of segregation itself imposes upon the minority subjected to it a humiliation and degradation which are the antithesis of equality. Half a century ago when the Supreme Court first gave its consent to statutory segregation, Justice Harlan, a Kentuckian, had the integrity and foresight to declare that "the thin disguise of 'equal' accommodations . . . will not mislead anyone, or atone for the wrong this day done." What the Southern Governors now propose is nothing more than a new way to perpetuate this wrong. What better place could they find to initiate the righting of the wrong—by offering Negroes the equality of opportunity that can be found only in free association—than in professional schools where the maturity and education of the students can be counted upon to erase racial prejudice?

Prices And The Public

The Joint Economic Committee headed by Senator Taft has summoned to Washington leading steel executives to explain recently announced increases in steel prices. It seems to us highly significant that Senator Taft, who was so active in the fight against Administration proposals for reinstitution of governmental price and allocation controls, should agree with his colleagues that the pricing policy of privately owned and managed steel companies is a proper subject of official inquiry at this juncture. It goes to show that even the stanchest believers in the system of free enterprise, and its corollary of prices fixed in markets free from governmental control, recognize that pricing policy is under some conditions a matter of public interest.

Thus Senator Flanders declares that any rise in steel prices "at this time and under these conditions has to be defended on public grounds as well as for business reasons." Senator O'Mahoney likewise stresses the public's interest in pricing policies, and urges a study by the Taft committee of "all factors which are taken into consideration by industry leaders in determining what they shall exact from the public." In case of the steel industry he says that no relief is obtainable through competition since Big Steel leads the price parade and the other giants of the industry follow.

With the Department of Justice, the Department of Commerce, and the President's Council of Economic Advisers also drawn into the inquiry into causes and effects of steel price increases, the heads of the steel industry must be somewhat bewildered. For, after all, they have only been following customary policies in adjusting prices of their products to allow for changes in production costs and market conditions. The characteristic function of private management, indeed, is to gauge market conditions, and time price changes. And unless evidence is produced to show that the steel industry has engaged in collusive price fixing in violation of the antitrust laws, there is no possible ground for challenging its legal right to raise or lower prices. These are decisions that under our system of free enterprise are based largely on considerations of profit.

However, we long since came to recognize that there are certain types of industries in which the public interest is not sufficiently protected under a system of free or competitive price fixation. Consequently we have turned to governmental regulation of public utilities, railway rate control, and various kinds of agricultural price controls even in peace times. Moreover, as Dr. Nourse, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, points out in his study of Price Making in a Democracy, there is a broad middle ground between prices determined in unorganized free markets and governmentally fixed prices that he calls "administered prices." Administered prices exist when the seller has sufficient control over productive resources to make it possible for him to adopt and carry out price and production policies that may set standards for entire industries. The individual business executive who molds price policies under such conditions is possessed of great powers for good or evil.

Specifically, the steel industry affords a prime example of the far-reaching influence on the general economy of prices administered by a few individuals who are able to mold policy. They may entertain the illusion that they are responsible for their conduct of affairs only to the owners of the concerns they represent. But the public and a large proportion of our legislators are evidently of a different opinion. When industrial units attain a size and a degree of power that make their price policies a matter of vital public concern, they become "affected with a public interest." If that public interest is disregarded in the name of free enterprise, the public has the means of redress. It will turn, and has turned, to governmental controls as a protective device to an increasing extent. If that trend is to be arrested, the heads of our basic industries will have to recognize a responsibility to the public as well as to the industries they represent in formulating their price and production policies. The furore created by the inopportune announcement of steel price increases is a warning signal that the industry would do well to heed.

THE SHIPS GO PAST

The ships go past the house that is made
Of our bodies on the sand;
Over your shoulder my drowsy arm,
And under my head your hand.

All the ships of the world go past our house;
But we never will join in their quest:
For what is there better to find, in the world,
Than your lazy head, and my breast?

"Palestinian Nettle"

In your February 24 editorial, "Palestinian Nettle," you refer to Arab aggression. And it is undeniable that if we persist in carrying through the partition of Palestine there will be attacks by the Arabs, probably as cowardly in their methods and as sanguinary in their results as those the Jews have been making against the British police for the past two years.

However, if you regard such attacks as aggression, presumably the American Indians were the aggressors when our own early settlers walked in and chased the natives off their own land. Savage as the Indians were in their raids, were they aggressors?

Surely it must be clear by now to most of us who have not been duped by the very widespread and able Jewish propaganda that the Jews have no legal right to appropriate land belonging to Arabs. The whole mess started with the ambiguous Balfour declaration promising the Jews a "national home," an unfortunate statement which the British government of those days had no authority to make. But because of that blunder, are we obliged to keep making further blunders?

It is admitted that the Jews have done much good work in Palestine and would probably in time make more of the country than would the Arabs. The fact remains that the land belongs to the Arabs. We have sold them down the river just as shamelessly as Czechoslovakia was sold at Munich.

One last word: if America and other non-Arab nations are so eager to help the Jews, why do none of these nations wish to accept them in large numbers as immigrants? What's our excuse, if any? How can we self-righteously censure the Arabs when they are only following actively our own passive example of keeping out the Jews?

American Anglophobes delight in calling the British "hypocrites." We are hypocrites. R. H.

Johnston's Slight

The position taken by Mrs. Olin D. Johnston in refusing to attend the Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner because of no assurance of segregation was deplorable, but at the same time rather amusing. For the wife of a public official, elected to serve all the people, to state her attitude publicly shows a clear lack of security in her own position as well as a noticeable lack of good taste.

I was born and reared in the South and our rearing was based on the premise that a lady will not place her position in jeopardy, either personally or socially, by her mere appearance in any honorable situation, for those present will recognize her for what she is. Mrs. Johnston, I trust, forgot this primary rule of deportment.

If she felt obliged to make the cancellation for this, or for any other controversial reason, good taste and a proper respect for her husband's position and responsibility should have prompted her to make the cancellation without comment. VIRGINIAN.

"Frill Studies"

On one of the back pages of your February 21 edition was an article by Marshall Andrews concerning the high cost of GI frill study. It seems that taxpayers are shelling out 200 million dollars per year to teach former GIs "a lot of decorative but profitless trades." It seems that one "screwball" course—the correspondence course in "Applied Horsemanship"—is being used as a rallying point to restrict the entire program to only those courses "leading to occupational or vocational advancement of the veteran."

That restrictive clause is the one that brings up the main question at issue. Is education a process of developing all man's interests and aptitudes, or is it just training in vocations toward increasing of earning power? Surely, with more and more leisure time being allotted to the average worker, the constructive use of that leisure time becomes more important to the society as a whole.

The fact that only 16,300 veterans out of 393,000 completed advanced courses in aviation does not seem to me to be too important as a factor against this phase of the program. Many external forces probably operated toward forcing those 204,000 veterans to drop the course. When conditions change, many will undoubtedly resume their studies; but all will remain aviation enthusiasts who will keep the Nation alert to the possibilities and dangers of the air age in which we now live. Those who chose to study art, music and photography, even though they never use these studies for other than hobbies, can not help but become better citizens leading fuller lives and in turn being better parents of the future citizens.

"On Changing Names"

While Juliana Korzeniewska's February 22 letter on your February 11 editorial, "On Changing Names," was interesting, I believe mention could be made of the psychological approach that most people have toward pronouncing any name that appears to be not of Anglo-Saxon origin. Most persons, upon coming across such a name, are convinced that however they pronounce the name, they will mispronounce it.

The name "Galuska" while of apparent non-Anglo-Saxon origin, does not confuse the unsophisticated fourth-grade student as much as it does most grown-ups. The young reader merely looks at the word and not being aware that it is supposed to be difficult, goes on to pronounce it as he would any other word. It is true that there might be some question as to whether the "u" in the name should be pronounced as an "uh" or as an "oo," but, strangely enough, most mispronunciations of that name are not concerned with the doubtful "u."

Juliana Korzeniewska errs only in that part of her letter dealing with the suffix as denoting sex. I take exception to her statement, because while I am a "ska," I am equally convinced that I am a "he."

Perhaps by now too much has been said about this name business. Besides some years ago a fairly bright boy tied up the whole subject neatly with his, "That which we call a rose."

What Home Rule Offers

It seems as if we have some people in Washington who wouldn't buy a doughnut for fear of finding it was designed with a hole in it; or who wouldn't accept some extra income because of the pain of having the Government deduct a part of it for income tax. At any rate, that's the kind of illogic which is being applied to the Auchincloss home-rule bill in contending that it is "a snare and a delusion" and no real home-rule bill at all just because it is merely home rule and not unlimited sovereignty, or because we would remain unrepresented in the bodies on Capitol Hill which would still have some overseeing and appellate jurisdiction over us.

The plain facts of the matter are these: The Auchincloss bill would give the District substantial local control over a larger scope of matters than any other city in the country possesses in the customary division between municipal and State powers. Partly because of this inclusion of general and not merely municipal legislative powers, and partly because of the large Federal interest in the Capital (which justifies Federal appropriations as well as sharing of other responsibilities), the bill sets up a system by which Congress can keep in touch through a joint committee and can act whenever needed.

The fact that the home-rule bill has as one of its main objectives to relieve Congress of an unnecessary legislative burden, and the bill's reduction of most of the congressional participation to a mere reserved right of veto, indicate the present intentions of the bill's framers and of Congress itself if it passes the bill. That will be no guarantee against meddlesomeness in future, and even the States have had trouble with legislative interference in the affairs of their chartered cities.

The problem is perhaps more difficult for this one unique municipality under congressional supervision, but good precedents at the start and other means which may develop as needed should accomplish the desired result. At any rate, there should be far less interference and incomparably more home rule than there is under the present appointive government of very limited powers.

National representation for the District is highly desirable, so that we may cease to be marooned on a political island deprived of the normal participation in national affairs which is accorded to residents of the States. The extra powers which Congress has over the District under the Constitution are an extra reason for wanting to be represented, but that does not alter the elemental fact that such representation (if beyond the level of a territorial delegate) requires a distinctly separate legislative process. There is no more justification for putting that into our home-rule bill than there is for including the apportionment of members in a State Legislature in the charters which the State grants to its cities and towns.

Those who insist upon rejecting the home-rule bill ostensibly because it does not do the impossible and include full national representation in the same legislation, must expect to leave an impression that they have really lost faith in American democracy as applicable to their own community, or are unwilling to share the responsibilities of seeing that it works. They ought to come out from behind the smoke screen and not kid themselves or the rest of us as to their real reasons, whatever they may be.

It is true that, because of the constitutional dependence of the District upon Congress, our local home rule will not be completed without national representation, but most of home rule can be enjoyed without it. The idea that about 1 per cent of representation in the Congress which in the future might occasionally see fit to overrule us in our local concerns, is a more important part of home rule than 100 per cent election of the councilmen who would direct the great mass of local governing, seems to be a very strange piece of political arithmetic. I would call it a quite preposterous idea except that some good friends of mine continue to entertain it, by some reasoning which, after many conversations with them, I am still unable to fathom.

Washington Calling

Tidelands Oil

TO JUSTIFY any policy anywhere in these times, you have only to say: "Oil." It is the magic password that explains action in the farthest corners of the globe.

The American public is told that with our dwindling supplies of oil it would be impossible for us to fight another major war. Our security is at stake. Therefore Greece, therefore Palestine, therefore Saudi Arabia.

Against this background of extra special urgency, a remarkable proposal is before Congress with the likelihood that it will be adopted. Under this proposal, Congress would hand over for immediate exploitation the largest single reserve of oil in this country.

Stripped of the oratory, that would be the net effect of the bill to give the States titles to oil-rich lands under coastal waters. It would nullify a decision of the United States Supreme Court holding that such lands belong to the Federal Government.

The issue is dressed up with the old battle cry of States' rights. A parade of Governors and other officials representing 44 States have come before a joint Senate-House committee considering the measure. They talk about undermining the Bill of Rights and jeopardizing all that the States have done in developing harbors and fisheries.

The Administration has a counterproposal. This would permit the development of tidelands oil under careful Federal supervision, with prime consideration given to the Navy's needs. Most of the revenue from the oil would go to the States.

THE PROTEST of the States stems back to Edwin W. Pauley of California. As was brought out at the time a Senate committee rejected him for the post of Undersecretary of the Navy, Pauley, because of his own oil connections, had a direct interest in preventing the Federal Government from taking over.

Since then, the protest has taken on a larger scope. Many of the witnesses are undoubtedly sincere when they talk about States' rights. But they should understand how costly States' rights can be when this doctrine cuts across the imperative need to fix a national policy.

If the national need for oil reserves is anything like as urgent as our military planners say, then the first duty is to conserve what is left of our once vast resources. This may mean reduced profits for a few oil companies. It may mean temporarily reduced revenues for the tideland States. But oil reserves are a lot more secure a mile off the coast of California than they are in the Arabian desert 5000 miles away.

Members of the congressional committee should read a just published book that has already stirred controversy. It is A National Policy for the Oil Industry, by Eugene V. Rostow of the Yale University Law School. Published by the Yale University Press, the book was prepared with the help of a committee of Yale experts in economics and political science.

ROSTOW SHOWS that present methods of exploitation of American oil fields are wasteful. State conservation laws and compacts do not enforce the best conservation methods.

The author recommends a Federal law under which each oil field would be operated as a unit. Only in that way, he says, can serious waste be stopped. Under proration for individual companies in each field today, there is shocking waste.

A Federal law might seem to indicate the need for elaborate Federal regulation. Rostow would avoid that by restoring competition. He points to a recent Supreme Court decision by Justice Harold Burton, in the American Tobacco Co. case, which opens a new way to enforcement of the antitrust laws against great combines.

"The companies grew big," Rostow writes, "as the whole history of the industry testifies, in order to gain the profits of monopoly position. Integration is not a means of achieving economies in production, nor does it result in such economies. It is the basic means of achieving and maintaining monopolistic control over price."

The new antitrust approach, which does not require proof of an actual conspiracy to violate the law, was taken by the Department of Justice in the recently argued motion-picture suit. The decision in that case will be closely watched, since it may confirm the new method of getting at powerful combines hitherto considered untouchable.

Keeping title to the tidelands oil in the Federal Government is one simple, immediate way of protecting our own oil reserves. From there the Government should move to a far-reaching conservation policy.

"Plague On The March"

I read your February 19 editorial on foot and mouth disease with a great deal of interest, and sincerely hope that you will publish more of the same kind. It was invigorating to say the least. The announcement on the latest move of its Mexican-United States Commission on Foot and Mouth Disease is gleaned from a note in the Dallas News of February 22. It is somewhat unsatisfactory. It attempts to tell old things in a new way. Vaccines may do the job, but so far they have not done very much.

We have with foot and mouth disease a many-phased problem, and it should be handled in a broad scientific manner. It needs neither "hit or miss" appeasement, nor quackery.

Investigative Power

A Communication

I HAVE been following with great interest your series of editorials on congressional investigations entitled "Turning on the Light."

For four years I was connected with the Truman-Mead Committee. That experience convinced me that strengthening and expanding the investigative function of Congress is in the interest of greater democracy in our modern complex society. By effective use of the investigative power, Congress can recall much of the policy-making authority it has permitted itself to lose to the executive branch in the past few decades.

Only a well-informed Congress, completely familiar with the need for and subject matter of proposed legislation, can spell out its legislative policy in clear and specific terms. Proper use of the investigative power will also enable the Congress to observe the manner in which its laws are administered by the executive agencies. Congress may thus ascertain whether its legislative intent is in fact being carried out, and can correct deficiencies in legislation which may appear as laws are actually applied.

Your series of editorials on congressional investigations therefore constitute a real contribution in the public interest by directing attention and thought to the proper utilization of this valuable instrument of democracy.

YOUR EDITORIAL No. VIII, published February 20, discusses executive hearings of investigating committees. It seemed to me useful to point out certain features of executive hearings which are not referred to in your editorial.

I believe that executive hearings, properly utilized, hold possibilities of substantial benefit both to the investigating committee and to witnesses.

1. Rightly or wrongly, an impression has developed that the mere announcement of a public investigation connotes some impropriety on the part of public officials or private individuals or companies whose activities are to be subjected to congressional scrutiny. For this reason, the Truman-Mead Committee considered it unfair to make such an announcement until it had satisfied itself through preliminary exploration that it would not be unjust to proceed with public hearings.

In some instances the committee became convinced in executive hearings that complaints which on the surface appeared valid were in fact without foundation. To have explored such charges publicly might have resulted in irreparable harm because of the well-known tendency to give greater prominence to sensational charges than to the facts which show them to be unfounded.

The public generally is unaware of the many investigations discontinued by the Truman-Mead Committee after executive hearings had been held.

2. Frequently, the committee was able in executive hearings to call attention informally to situations requiring corrective action on the part of public officials or private industry, with the result that such action was taken without any public mention of the matter. The possibility of public hearing in many instances probably induced action in the public interest which otherwise might not have been taken.

3. Properly used, preliminary executive hearings serve to familiarize Senators or Representatives with the facts of the case. This leads to a more orderly and less protracted public hearing and enhances the dignity and effectiveness of the proceedings by minimizing irrelevant and ill-timed questions.

4. Executive hearings frequently point to the need of further preliminary investigation by the staff before public hearings are commenced.

5. Facts sometimes are developed in executive hearings indicating the existence of important evidence not previously known to the committee. Revealing the committee's interest in this evidence prematurely might induce those in control of it to alter, conceal or destroy it before it could be subpenaed, thus preventing the committee from obtaining relevant and important facts. I doubt that any competent investigator would agree that his work can be done effectively with a spotlight turned on him.

6. THERE IS an advantage in the informality of executive hearings and the absence of the public spotlight in getting at the relevant facts quickly. Staff members are generally more active in executive hearings in bringing out the testimony and documents covering the facts developed in preliminary staff investigations. The awareness on the part of witnesses that the committee might determine not to proceed publicly tends to make witnesses more cooperative in executive hearings.

7. The statements of witnesses under oath in executive hearings are frequently useful to the committee later in public hearings, particularly in instances where it is to the advantage of a witness to change his story.

8. It is an advantage to a witness to be able to learn through an executive hearing the nature and objective of the committee's inquiry, so that he may, in a subsequent public hearing, produce documents or present testimony more completely disclosing aspects of the subject matter which are in his favor.

I HAVE searched my memory and am unable to recall a single instance where a witness before the Truman-Mead Committee complained of executive hearings as star chamber proceedings. On the other hand, I can recall many instances where witnesses have urged the committee to have the hearings executive rather than public.

There certainly can be no controversy over the general principle that the public business should be publicly conducted. However, it seems to me that proper preparatory investigative work is an exception to that general rule for the reasons above noted.

It should also be beyond controversy that the subject matter of executive hearings should be kept confidential unless a majority of the committee decides to make all, or a part, of the facts public. "Leaks" to favored members of the press cannot be too strongly condemned. Unless an executive hearing is kept strictly executive it might better have been held as a public hearing in the first place.

YOUR editorial suggests a rule that executive hearings be held by a subcommittee only after approval of the full committee. The practical difficulty of assembling a quorum of busy Senators or Representatives might well prove such an obstacle that few executive hearings would be held and the benefits above noted would be lost.

Section 133 (f) of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946 provides as follows:

"(f) All hearings conducted by standing committees or their subcommittees shall be open to the public, except executive sessions for marking up bills or for voting or where the committee by a majority vote orders an executive session."

This provision did not apply to the Truman-Mead Committee, which was a special, not a standing, committee; nor would it apply to special committees created in the future, which is still permissible under the Legislative Reorganization Act.

If, however, the executive hearing is a useful device in obtaining speedily accurate and complete facts concerning the public business, the above quoted restriction on standing committees and subcommittees impairs the effectiveness of their investigations.

I would advise extreme caution in the adoption of any ridgid rules governing investigative committee procedure. A rule which might appear fair and innocent enough on its surface might well be employed to thwart and obstruct a committee from getting the facts speedily and effectively.

Railroad Reorganization Bill Passed by Senate

The Senate yesterday passed by a voice vote a railroad reorganization measure which would permit carriers to revise their financial structures without going into the courts.

The bill returns to the House for action on Senate amendments.

The measure would:

Permit railroads not in bankruptcy but which have temporary difficulty in (1) meeting maturing obligations or (2) in paying either principal or interest on outstanding debt to alter or modify such obligations (bonds). The alteration would require the consent of holders or 75 per cent of the bonds and the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, but would not require any court proceedings.

55 Out of 103 Back Iran Premier in Vote

Tehran, Iran, Feb. 26 (AP).—Premier Ibrahim Hakimi Al Molk obtained a vote of confidence tonight by a narrow margin. With 103 members in Parliament, he received 55 votes. Politicians speculated that his majority was so weak he might soon be forced out.

Three deputies had raised the question. They charged a "lack of personal security" in Iran as the result of the recent assassination of Mohamad Masood, a newspaper editor.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

The Wriggling President

THE PERFECTLY sound, perfectly indecisive legal brief on Palestine which Senator Warren Austin presented to the U. N. Security Council reflected one thing and one thing only—Harry S. Truman's own agonized indecision.

The presidential wriggling to escape the horns of his dilemma has been so desperate that he put off approving even this facing-both-ways statement until after his ill-timed departure for the Virgin Islands. It was in the islands, on Sunday, that he finally gave his belated approval. His telegram reached Washington so late on Monday that the State Department had to cancel plans for a very necessary briefing of the press on the legal niceties of this vital declaration of American purposes.

What is still more extraordinary, the Austin statement actually seems to mask a continuing refusal to grasp either of the horns of the Palestine dilemma. There is in the statement a kind of beginning of a policy. This country will not impose partition by force. But it will join in any United Nations effort to safeguard international peace and security. And it wishes the nature of this effort to be determined by a special commission of the old U. N. Big Five—Britain, France, China, the Soviet Union and the United States—under Article 106 of the U. N. Charter.

THIS IS ONLY the beginning of a policy, for two very simple reasons. The President has not resolved the differences within the Administration over what next step in Palestine we should press for—whether trusteeship, or frank reopening of the settlement proposed by the U. N. General Assembly, or enforcement of this settlement under the guise of maintaining international peace.

More incredible still, the President has not resolved the even more pressing differences over the implementation of whatever decision the U. N. may make. No matter what this decision is, some kind of international force will be needed in Palestine. This force must be mainly either American or Russian, or both. There is no approved American blueprint for such a force.

The source of the President's indecision is easy to discern—all three alternatives now really open to him are almost unthinkable. Positive advocacy of reopening the Palestine settlement means public eating of crow, with violent political repercussions resulting. Doing nothing at all means letting the Jews be pushed into the sea. And taking responsibility for enforcement of the U. N. General Assembly's partition recommendation means sending an American force to Palestine, perhaps requesting partial national mobilization in order to provide such a force, and risking a resulting sordid outbreak of racial feeling in this country.

On the lower echelons, opinion has been so divided that one cannot say that any special group advocated any special line of policy. Published reports have been misleading, however, concerning the highest policy-making level below the President.

IN THE first place the chief policy-makers of the State Department would, on all the evidence, probably have preferred a much more definite choice of the third alternative outlined above than the Austin statement represents. The reasoning behind this State Department preference for effective enforcement of the partition plan was that when the situation is really bad—as the Palestine situation is—it is always the worst course to waver or to appease. The oldest rule of politics is that boldness invariably offers the best way out of a tough spot.

Again, the position of the armed services departments has also been misrepresented. The vital strategic importance of Middle Eastern oil has bulked large in their thinking. But far more important has been the problem of manpower.

The Ground Forces are now more than 100,000 men under complement. The whole disposable reserve of United States ground troops is composed of the equivalent of about two divisions of Marines, plus two divisions of the Regular Army, plus air and naval units in proportion. The services have cautiously argued that since the British have failed to keep order in Palestine with 90,000 men, this whole disposable American reserve might well have to be committed by us. Therefore they have demanded either partial mobilization, or some kind of limited Selective Service Act, as the necessary accompaniment of any American attempt to enforce a Palestine settlement. Without this supplement of manpower, they have pointed out, they might conceivably find themselves unable to meet emergencies, either in Palestine, or Greece, or Italy, or elsewhere.

Rightly or wrongly, the President has accepted the service argument, which also deserves some study by Senator Robert A. Taft. But this argument does not vitiate the rule that boldness is the best way out of a tough spot, or the rule that when you make your own bed you must lie in it, or the rule that ducking inevitable choices is the quickest way to secure the worst result. Since American policy is still in the making, it is too early to say that the worst result is already inevitable. But much more indecision will certainly bring every one of the possible hideous consequences—division at home, loss of face abroad, and the eventual need to use force anyway—crashing down simultaneously upon us.

Benes Memoirs

Fight to Revise Versailles Peace Treaty Described

(These excerpts from the memoirs of Eduard Benes disclose the beginnings of the policy that ended this week in the triumph of the Communist Party in Czechoslovakia. They reveal the basic hope of East-West cooperation entertained by Benes since the First World War and dashed only now by events in Prague.)

By Dr. Eudard Benes

President of Czechoslovakia

ARTICLE I.

After the Treaty of Versailles was signed and Germany had begun to recover from its 1918 defeat—that is, by 1921-22—a tremendously exciting drama began in Europe: the fight to revise the Versailles peace. It was one of the greatest and most dramatic struggles in the political history of the continent. It ended with a new and devastating tragedy—the second World War.

The fight began with reparations. Next came the disarmaments clauses of Versailles. Finally came the revision of territorial clauses of Versailles.

To anyone who had closely and constantly observed Germany from the year 1920, it must have been clear that a long period of conflict over the peace treaty was coming.

Foreign Policy Consistent

Our foreign policy between the two World Wars was fully consistent with this view. On the one hand, we supported never-ending labors for peace and cooperation with our opponents. On the other hand, we worked to build up guarantees of collective security and to strengthen the League of Nations. At the same time, we were preparing our defenses for eventual conflict.

I saw quite clearly what was happening in Europe. I saw the inevitability of the moment when both camps would either join for a peaceful development, or clash in a terrible conflict.

I tried—so far as it was within our power—at all costs to maintain the European Allied camp of 1918 in unity and cooperation, alongside our alliances with France and the states of the Little Entente, in the conviction that a peaceful solution could be reached only if Germany should, at the critical moment, be faced with a whole coalition of states, only if Germany should fail in its effort to destroy that alliance and do battle against each of us separtely, one after the other. This was the chief reason why I worked so steadily from 1922 to 1938 and again during the second World War for cooperation and agreement between western Europe and the Soviet Union.

In October 1933, when Germany left the disarmament conference and the League of Nations, I realized that this probably ment that Europe was headed almost inevitably for a terrible military conflict.

My diagnosis was confirmed by the development of nationalism and Nazism in Germany. The open, undisguised pan-Germanism, the uncompromising, life-and-death fight against democracy, the purposeful propagandizing of all Germans abroad and their utilization as revolutionary organs against the states where they lived, the slogans of central European "Lebensraum" and the "Herrenvolk," the bestial anti-Semitism, and the whole primitivism of expression used by its so-called "Fuehrer"—to me all of this was evidence that it was no longer a question of two political camps—defeated Germany against the victorious Allies—but of two totally different and irreconcilable worlds, which had different ideas, aims and legal concepts, and which would eventually come into open conflict.

I added to this the problem of the Soviet Union. How would it fit into this European struggle, and where would it finally find itself? I never agreed with the policy of the western democracies, which isolated the Soviet Union for a long time and excluded it from European and world cooperation. It seemed to me that the whole struggle would be decided in favor of the side toward which the Soviet Union finally inclined.

Therefore, we entered into contact with the Soviet Union as early as at the Genoa conference in 1922, and tried, despite the opposition of our own right-wingers, to maintain friendly cooperation up to the year 1938. Therefore, too, from the moment when the Soviet Union realized the danger of the Fascist dictatorships and altered its relations and tactics with the western democracies and the League of Nations, we did everything possible to make the Soviet Union the ally of the western democracies and ourselves. Actual treaties of alliance between the Soviet Union and France and Czechoslovakia became a reality in 1935.

I wish to emphasize that during the first World War and during the entire period up to 1938—and up to today—we have never been influenced in this policy by ideological motives deriving from domestic politics. Our judgment on the necessity of agreement with the Soviet Union always has been determined exclusively from the viewpoint of over-all European, international, peace policy.

I was personally familiar with conditions in the Soviet Union. I knew that for some time the regime had been very strong and that any talk about the possibility of an internal revolution from whatever side was either simply naive nonsense or malignant, purposeful propaganda. I knew the Soviet army was strong, well organized and still growing. Finally, in 1935 I knew that the two Five-Year Plans had so fundamentally altered the economic structure of the Soviet Union that it had become one of the strongest industrial states in Europe.

Our conception of European international policy and of cooperation with the Soviet Union against aggression and reaction in Germany necessarily required that western Europe understand the need of adjustment of its social policy in relation to the Soviet Union which had undergone a revolution. At the same time it required that the Sovie Union seriously consider the adjustment of Soviet political and revolutionary elements to the concepts of political freedom in western Europe. Or at the very least, it required that the two systems exercise mutual tolerance. This meant to me that western Europe would be obliged to permit a definitely progressive and truly democratic development in its social and economic policies, and that the western European bourgeoisie would have to be led to grant considerable social and economic concessions to the socialistically inclined working classes. It seemed to me that European and world peace unconditionally demanded this and it was well worth these concessions.

New Investigating Committee Is Half GOP, Half Southern

By the United Press

Three Republicans and three Southern Democrats yesterday were named to serve on Senator Homer E. Ferguson's new Senate Investigating Subcommittee and act as watchdogs of the Administration.

They were appointed by Chairman George D. Aiken (R., Vt.) of the Senate Executive Expenditures Committee, who said that the investigative body would be "strong, nonpolitical" and "above suspicion."

Members, in addition to Chairman Ferguson, are Senators Irving M. Ives (R., N. Y.); John W. Bricker (R., Ohio); Edward J. Thye (R., Minn.); John L. McClellan (D., Ark.); Herbert R. O'Conor (D., Md.), and Clyde R. Hoey (D., N. C.).

The new group on Wednesday was voted $125,000 for expenses over the angry protests of Democratic Whip Scott W. Lucas (Ill.). He accused the Republicans of embarking on a "fishing expedition."

Ferguson declined to comment on reports that his committee would continue the grain speculation inquiry and take over investigations of war contracts and the 1946 Kansas City vote frauds.

BRITISH INDUSTRIES FAIR

ON May 3rd 1948, when the British Industries Fair opens, buyers from all over the world will have an opportunity of inspecting the products of 3,000 United Kingdom manufacturers.

This annual event is the world's largest national trade Fair. Such is its size and importance that you are urged to come yourself. You are assured of personal contact with actual manufacturers or sole selling agents and you will find exhibits carefully grouped by trades so that comparisons may be made quickly. Above all you will see new achievements, new methods of manufacture and new ideas all executed with superb craftsmanship.

This is your only opportunity in 1948 to review within a few days the achievements of 87 United Kingdom industries.

For information and assistance you should apply to the nearest British Embassy, Legation or Consulate.

Mother-in-Law Found Note to Gould Heiress

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 26 (AP).—Socially prominent Mrs. William Henry Grimditch, sr., of Philadelphia testified today she found on her New York hotel room door a note to her son's wife from another man.

Mrs. Grimditch, sr., took the witness stand to support her son's cross-complaint for divorce from Gould Heiress Gioia Barker Grimditch and custody of their two children.

She said that five days after Gioia had left New York she found the note on her door.

Mrs. Grimditch, sr., testified it read:

"Gioia—Either you stood me up or I forgot date of date. If you can call be tomorrow I'll be at room 2025, New York Hospital, or Manhassed 3283."

It was signed, she said, "Allen, the —— —, and damn you too."

The mother said she opposed her son's marriage in 1943 "because of divorces in the Gould family," but finally consented because Gioia was "a sweet little thing."

Grimditch, sr., vice president of an electronics corporations, told the court he and his wife were "more than willing" to take care of their son's children.

Young Grimditch, 24, has charged his 23-year-old wife with intimate relations with several men in his absence overseas during the war. She is seeking divorce on grounds of desertion.

Gioia calmly denied from the witness stand that she had been intimate with any ofther man. She said she had been and still was in love with Blake Brophy, son of a Phoenix banker.

EMERGENCY LIMITATONS ON THE USE OF NATURAL GAS

In order to assure an adequate supply of natural gas to the areas we serve in the District of Columbia, Maryland, and Virginia next winter it has become necessary temporarily to decline to supply gas to new equipment for home heating or space heating when such equipment replaces or supplements other fuels. Accordingly, there has been filed with the regulatory bodies in the District of Columbia, Maryland, and Virginia the following:

Emergency Limitations on the Use of Gas

The company shall not supply gas under any rate schedule for equipment installed after February 27, 1948:

(a) To replace or supplement space heating equipment using other fuel, except in medical hardship cases proven by evidence satisfactory to the company; or

(b) To provide space heating in any building, or to be used for the generation of steam, where the proposed equipment has a rated input aggregating more than 500,000 Btu per hour; unless a permit for such installation had been obtained from the Plumbing Inspector's Office (or from the appropriate governmental authority) prior to that date, or unless evidence satisfactory to the company has been given showing that the equipment was being installed on February 27, 1948.

In cases of installation of equipment in violation of this provison, the company may refuse service or discontinue all service until such violations are remedied to the satisfaction of the company. Ten days written notice of such discontinuance shall be given the customer by the company.

We regret that a combination of circumstances beyond our control makes this action necessary. Advance planning had provided and would still provide for normal growth in the replacement and new construction markets for additional natural gas service; but the sudden and unprecedented "swing" to natural gas has so greatly exceeded the contemplated normal growth that the supply of natural gas available to this area for next winter is inadequate to serve all who have indicated that they want natural gas service for heating.

This measure does not apply to the use of natural gas for cooking, water heating, or refrigeration.

Liberalized Pension Passed; Being Flown To President Today

The Senate yesterday approved and sent to the President the conference report on the Langer-Chavez-Stevenson bill to overhaul and to make more liberal the Civil Service retirement system.

The bill will be flown today to Key West, Fla., where the President is vacationing. He will be urged to sign it into law either today or tomorrow.

If the bill is signed before March 1, increased pensions for the 120,000 retired Federal workers will go out on April 1. But if the bill is signed on or after that date the retired employes must wait until May 1 for their higher annuity checks.

Senate approval was by voice vote. It came after a bitter attack by Senator Williams (R., Del.) on the conference report. Williams accused the 10 House-Senate conferees of violating the Congressional Reorganization Act by proposing in their report benefits greater than had been originally voted by the House and Senate.

Williams centered his fire on the provision which will permit an employe laid off after 25 or more years of service to draw a pension immediately. The annuity, however, will be discounted by 3 per cent for each year the employe is under 60. The Delaware Senator brought out that many Federal workers will get larger pensions if they are fired.

Williams was answered by Senators Taft, Baldwin, Chavez, Flanders and Langer. He was told that amendments would be made if the bill should prove inequitable.

Chairman Langer, the bill's sponsor, explained the report. He said its provision to extend benefits to widows and to children under 18 is a "shining milestone of progress." He said the bill would also:

Raise the pensions of retired employes by either a flat $300 or 25 per cent, whichever is smaller;

Increase the employe contribution to the retirement system from 5 to 6 per cent as of July 1;

Permit any employe with less than 20 years of service to withdraw his retirement fund with interest when he leaves the service;

Allow an employe who is 55 and who has had at least 30 years of service to retire on an annuity to be reduced 3 per cent for each year he's under 60;

Allow an employe to count his total service toward his retirement. No more than 35 years of service may now be counted, and.

Set up a new formula under which pensions are to be computed which is either: 1 per cent of your highest average salary for 5 years, Plus $25, multiplied by years of service, or 1½ per cent multiplied by years of service.

The bill carries many other provisions. A booklet now being prepared by Civil Service will be sent to any Federal worker who writes me a card requesting it. It will explain the bill in detail and answer all your retirement questions.

ACTION: The Senate also passed the Johnston bill. That measure would permit agents of Treasury's Bureau of Narcotics to retire at 50 after 20 years of service. The bill is modeled after the FBI retirement act. It was sent to the House.

RATINGS: The House Civil Service Committee took a swing at the efficiency rating system. It issued a staff report which demanded prompt improvement of the system through better administration.

The report said "one of the most important factors in creating a good morale and increasing the efficiency of Federal employes is an intelligent application of a practical efficiency rating system."

The committee was promised support in improving the system by the Federal Personnel Council.

NOTES: The House Appropriations Committee today will report out the State, Commerce and Justice appropriation bill. Details on personnel changes recommended will appear here Saturday which means no Sunday column . . . Senator Baldwin (R., Conn.) wants the Federal credit unions administered by the Federal Security Agency instead of the Agriculture Department . . . AFL President William Green will be among those who will testify for higher Federal salaries at today's session of the House Civil Service Committee.

VA: The story elsewhere yesterday on the closing of several New York offices of the Veterans' Administration and the transfer here of about 1100 jobs has appeared here several times recently, the latest being Tuesday . . . Meantime, Chairman Rogers of the House Veterans' Committee, and several other members of Congress are demanding additional funds for VA to prevent layoffs now in progress. She charges that dismissals are hitting VA hospital staffs.

Incidentally, Chairman Taber of the House Appropriations Committee, flatly denies reports that his committee has adopted a no-deficiency policy towards VA. He correctly points out that neither VA nor the Budget Bureau has requested additional funds.

VA Takes Back Order to Fire 100 In Claims Service

Transfer of Units Here Due to Provide 1070 Jobs to Cushion Reduction in Force

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

Veterans' Administration has quietly countermanded a dismissal order for 100 claims service employes here, it was learned yesterday.

The rescue of the 100 from a general reduction-in-force slated for March 31 was effected to meet a critical situation in the claims service, faced with a mounting backlog of unprocessed papers.

Early this month, Administrator Carl Gray ordered an over-all 8 per cent cut in VA personnel in order to keep cost of operations within the limits of the annual budget. The order calls for dismissal of 8500 VA employes by March 31, and includes 1650 central office personnel.

Insurance Coming Here

Locally, the reduction-in-force blow will be cushioned somewhat by the transfer of all VA insurance functions from New York to Washington. More than 800 clerical posts are to be filled in the insurance department here.

Transfer of certain contact units here from New York will provide 270 more jobs at VA central office.

A routine query of VA as to how the claims service planned to meet the rising backlog of work with fewer personnel elicited the following formal information.

"At the time we were confronted with the reduction in central office, we realized that there would be a curtailment of service, but since then it is believed we have found ways and means of alleviating the effect of reduction by the shifting of personnel. We will continue to endeavor to render the best service possible with the means provided."

Translated unofficially, this language means that 100 of the 200 claims service personnel scheduled for the March 31 reduction-in-force have been granted indefinite reprieve.

Protest Wins Reprieve

To date, the backlog of VA death claims is approximately 31,000. The bulk of such claims is handled at the central office here, which last month added 8000 to the backlog. Part of the backlog is attributable to the delay in obtaining the necessary documents from the military services, families, etc. But a substantial part of the load is made up of unhandled claims.

Thirty-eight employes of the claims service's adjudication division in a signed letter of protest charged this past weekend that their dismissal would considerably delay the handling of claims for death benefits, resulting in hardship for widows, orphans and dependent parents.

This protesting group, it was learned, is among the 100 reprieved.

Storm Gets Promotion To Inspector

Police Capt. Walter T. Storm was elevated to the rank of inspector yesterday and placed in charge of the Metropolitan Police training school, effective March 1.

Promotion of the 47-year-old Storm, now head of the Tenth Precinct, was made by District Commissioners on recommendation of Police Supt. Robert J. Barrett.

Member of the force 23 years, Storm will replace 52-year-old John H. Fowler, director of the Police Academy, who is retiring after 29 years' service. The pay is $6242 a year.

Simultaneous with announcement of the Commissioners' action Major Barrett told reporters:

"In addition to the fact that Captain Storm is senior captain in the Department at this time, he is the logical officer to be assigned to the duties of the inspector in charge of training because of his experience as a former instructor in the police training school and other assignments in the training of personnel."

Captain Storm joined the District police on July 1, 1925 and saw his first service at the Tenth Precinct. Later he was assigned to the Sixth Precinct and to the Traffic Bureau. In July, 1937, he was promoted to lieutenant and in May, 1940, to captain.

Man Arrested In Assault Held In Check Case

The feeling of Rommel Meyers toward horses led to his arraignment yesterday on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

The sharp memory of a secretary in the United States Commissioner's office led to a second arraignment, this time on a charge of having forged a Government check.

Meyers, a 23-year-old District refuse division employe who lives at 1241 Maryland ave. ne., was helping to clean a private stable facing on an alley between First st. and New Jersey ave. and between L and M sts. se., last Tuesday night.

According to police, he became incensed at a group of men who were breaking liquor bottles in the alley, complaining that the glass would cut the horses' hoofs as they went in and out of the stable.

In the ensuing argument, police reported, Meyers struck Remus Burchette, 52, of 74 I st. se., on the head with a shovel. Burchette was unconscious yesterday at Gallinger Hospital with a fractured skull, in critical condition, according to police.

United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage yesterday released Meyers on $2000 bond after continuing a hearing in his case pending the outcome of Burchette's injuries.

However, Meyers' unusual first name rang a bell with Mrs. Elizabeth Leonardi of the Commissioner's office. After checking her files, she informed Turnage that Secret Service agents had a warrant for Meyers on a check forging charge. Turnage informed the Secret Service, which had Meyers picked up again.

Arraigned again, Meyers was unable to arrange a $500 bond on the second charge with his bondsman, who, in fact, decided he would like to cancel the $2000 bond. Meyers was held on both charges.

Anne Arundel Road Conditions Reported Bad

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 26 (AP).—Anne Arundel County roads are in worse condition than at any time in almost two decades, John C. Strohm, acting roads engineer, said today.

He blamed it on continued use by heavy trucks and a severe winter.

The trucks hit soft spots in blacktop roads and break through the surface, he reported. Damage has been so great that in some parts of the county school buses have been unable to run.

Rebuilding will be necessary to put many sections of roadbed back in shape. Eight crews with about 35 trucks are making preliminary repairs now.

U. N. Palestine Plan To Be Debated Tonight

A forum on "Can the United Nations Solution for Palestine Work?" is to be conducted by the Washington Chapter of the American Veterans Committee at 8 tonight in the Interior Department Auditorium.

Talking against partition of Palestine will be Lessing Rosenwald, president of the American Council for Judaism, and Kermit Roosevelt, author and lecturer. Robert R. Nathan, economist and author, and James G. McDonald, member of the Anglo-American Commission on Palestine, will support partition. WINX and WINX-FM will present a delayed broadcast of the forum at 9:30 p. m.

Remembered Voice Wins Woman $5000

Baltimore, Feb. 26 (AP).—Miss Annie Melvin, retired school teacher from Crisfield, Md., today cashed in $5000 worth on one of those hidden identity radio programs.

She guessed correctly that Mrs. Chauncey R. Tatum, president of the Baltimore Y. W. C. A. board of directors, was "The Voice of Variety" on a radio series to raise funds for the Police Boys Clubs.

The radio people were beginning to give out the clues to Mrs. Tatum's identity, but Miss Melvin had heard her lecture in 1940, and again in 1945. She recognized the voice the first time she heard the program.

William K. Bennett, 77, of 802 S. Overlook dr., Alexandria, Va., died yesterday at 2:20 p. m. in Emergency Hospital.

Bennett was felled by a Capital Transit bus February 19 at 16th and I sts. nw. He suffered numerous head injuries. His death brings the traffic toll to two above this time last year.

Police said the bus driver, Odell W. Watkins, 23, of 444 New Jersey ave. se., will be held for action of the coroner. According to police, the bus was making a turn into I st., and struck Bennett who had started to cross 16th st.

3 Taken to Hospitals

Other District traffic mishaps yesterday sent two persons to hospitals. They were Leroy Fuller, 19, of 1235 Eaton rd. se., and Louis S. Smoak, 22, of 3500 Clay pl. ne.

Police said Fuller, who was riding a bicycle, was in collision with a truck driven by Chester A. Baker, 28, of 1713 Trinidad ave. ne., at 2:20 p. m. at Rhode Island ave. and 2d st. nw. Fuller, who suffered a possible fractured left wrist and numerous bruises, was reported in good condition at Gallinger Hospital.

Smoak was driving a tank truck which was in collision with a car driven by Joshua Ward, 41, of 1617 Kramer st. ne., at 10:05 a. m. at Benning rd. and 21st st. ne.

In an undetermined condition at Casualty Hospital, Smoak suffered internal injuries, contusions and a possible fractured foot.

Held for Grand Jury

Meanwhile, at a coroner's inquest into the traffic death of Dr. Leonard C. Miller, 33, atomic energy physicist at Oak Ridge, Tenn., here last December 19, Samuel G. Jordan, 32, of Baltimore, was ordered held for action of the grand jury.

Jordan's car collided with one driven by Dr. Miller at Rhode Island ave. and North Capitol st.

Marzani Turns to Film Making Awaiting Red Charge Appeal

Carl Aldo Marzani, found guilty last year of falsifying Communist connections while an employe of the State Department, is producing movies while fighting to stay out of prison, it was learned yesterday.

Marzani

The 35-year-old wartime Office of Strategic Services aide operates Union Films, 508 North Fillmore st., Arlington, Va., and is currently distributing "Time to Act," a 10-minute movie boosting the Third Party candidacy of Henry A. Wallace for President.

A District Court jury found Marzani guilty last May on 11 counts charging him with making fraudulent statements to the Government regarding his affiliation with the Communist Party. Early this month, the United States Court of Appeals here threw out nine of the charges, upheld two counts, each of which carries a maximum imprisonment of 10 years and maximum fine of $10,000.

Marzani has been free on bail since his trial, and is presently awaiting United States Appeals Court action on a second appeal. Marzani denied throughout the trial that he had any link to the Communist Party, but he stated under cross-examination that his wife, Edith, had been a party member.

The pro-Wallace film, Mrs. Marzani said yesterday, was produced by a group of Wallace admirers, and is built around a speech made by the former Vice President before a meeting of the Progressive Citizens of America in Chicago, in which he indicated the need for a third party.

Union Films will shortly complete a three-reeler, "The Great Swindle," dealing with inflation and "who's to blame for high prices," produced for the United Electrical Workers, a left-wing CIO union.

Some time before his trial Marzani produced for the UEW "Deadline for Action," a highly controversial movie, denounced by its most bitter critics as Communist propaganda.

League Will Seek Nonpartisan Poll Clause in Charter

Arlington's Better Government League has resolved to work for inclusion of a non-partisan elections clause in the Arlington Charter Bill.

The action was taken at the group's meeting Wednesday night after speakers noted that BGL-indorsed legislation for non-partisan school and county board elections had not been introduced in the General Assembly.

Inclusion of the clause in the charter bill, which gives Arlington the right to vote for city status, would ban political parties from election of city councilmen. Until that time, the league urged both major parties to refrain from nominating candidates in this fall's county board electon.

Baltimore Arson Squad Probes Warehouse Fire

Baltimore, Feb. 26 (AP).—The Baltimore Fire Department's arson squad and the Coast Guard searched a wrecked warehouse today to determine the cause of a three-alarm waterfront fire.

The flames heavily damaged more than two thirds of the 800-foot warehouse on Pier 1, endangered a fleet of tugs and brought out 26 pieces of land fire-fighting equipment and three fireboats just before midnight. One fireman was injured.

Prince William Ends Fiscal Year in Red

Manassas, Va., Feb. 26 (AP).—Prince William County, with expenditures of $723,174 and revenues of $685,222, finished the 1946-47 fiscal year in the red.

State Auditor J. Gordon Bennett, who approved the county's records for the year, said the increased expenditures were chiefly due to an expanded capital outlay program. The bonded indebtedness of the county, $145,351, is the highest in at least five years, he said.

Night of Thrills Queen Entries Deadline April 1

Deadline for entries in the contest for Queen of the Night of Thrills at Griffith Stadium June 18 is April 1, the arrangements committee said yesterday.

The program, sponsored by the Association of Worshipful Masters of the Masonic Lodges and the Matrons and Patrons Association of the Order of the Eastern Star, will be for the benefit of the Masonic and Eastern Star Home.

The queen will reign over events which will include a baseball game, a parade of military units and bands and drill teams representing Tall Cedars of Lebanon Knights Templar and Almas Temple of the Shrine.

General chairmen are Roger Q. Mills of the Worshipful Masters and Mrs. Dorothy C. Deitrick of the Matrons and Patrons Association.

Coroner Rules Armory Death Accidental

Deputy Coroner Richard Rosenberg yesterday declared the death of Sergt. Charles F. Beavers, 40, due to accident.

Sergeant Beavers, who lived at 1357 I st. se., was working on a 40-millimeter gun at the National Guard Armory Wednesday when he inadvertently released the steel barrel stay which struck him in the head.

The coroner's office declared the deat hof Addie Fantroy, 70, due to natural causes. Mrs. Fantroy was found in an alley, Wednesday, behind the 1700 block of P st. nw. She had lived alone at Brainerd's ct. for many years.

Soda Jerk Guilty in Rape Of Schoolgirl

By Howard L. Dutkin
Post Reporter

A District Court jury last night convicted 39-year-old James B. Long of statutory rape involving a 13-year-old school girl.

The jury, deliberating nine hours, found Long not guilty on one of the two counts and made no recommendations to the court. The offense is a capital crime in the District only if the death panalty is recommended by the jury.

With the conviction, he faces imprisonment from 10 to 30 years.

Long, operator of a soda fountain in a Northeast Washington drug store, rooms at 1016 South Carolina ave. se. He went to trial charged with two counts of having carnal knowledge of the child.

He blanched when the jury brought in the guilty verdict.

The jury received the case about 10:30 a. m. yesterday; brought in its not guilty verdict on the first count at 4:30 p. m., and then returned to reopen deliberations on the second charge.

It reported back in with the conviction at 8:45 p. m. after taking time out for dinner.

The girl, round-faced and bespectacled, whose grave demeanor and modest dress were not those of a typical "bobby-soxer," had testified that the defendant had struck up an acquaintance with her in the Northeast drug store where he operated the fountain.

She said she was induced to go into the truck with him but asserted she did not know the purpose of the invitation. The October 25 offense, she said, occurred in a parking lot in the rear of the store. The November 3 intimacy, she asserted, took place in the truck while parked in a wooded section near the 3400 block of Blaine st. ne.

In denying the charges, Long said he had noticed the girl only casually among the crowd of youngsters who used the drug store as a hangout.

He said that the child was always alone and that the rest of the pupils seemed to ignore her.

The defendant's denial was strengthened by testimony from his wife, Frances, who also worked in the store; a pharmacist and the proprietor, all of whom testified that to their knowledge Long had not left the establishment for as much as half an hour on the key dates.

The case was prosecuted by Assistant United States Attorney Sylvan Schwartz. Long was defended by Attorney Saul G. Lichtenberg.

Some Stores Raise Butter 2 to 4 Cents With Shortening And Eggs Boosted

Retail food prices were struggling back yesterday to the higher levels of two weeks ago, before the "break."

A check of large retail stores reflected the general upward trend of the wholesale market, which appeared to be levelling off, according to reports here and in New York and Chicago food markets.

Some stores yesterday raised butter 2 to 4 cents and shortening 10 cents. They said they were simply "returning to the normal prices that preceded the so-called break."

Retailers agreed in attributing the scattered price drops of two weeks ago partly to anticipation of continued downward changes on the exchanges. Many stores, they explained, sold isolated items below cost to meet competition.

Except for the return of the "special" on shortening from $1.09 to $1.19 for the 3-pound can, items in the soaps-fats-oils class were still down, one retailer said. These items had been reduced by manufacturers.

Grade A eggs at retail stood yesterday between 61 and 65 cents, following 2-to-4-cent increases. One large wholesaler, however, foresaw a possible drop as soon as warmer weather steps up production.

Tenants Fight Park Lane Rent Boost

More than a score of tenants of the Park Lane Apartment, 2025 I st. nw., appeared at a hearing yesterday before Rent Control Examiner Dennis K. Lane to oppose a rent increase averaging 11.6 per cent asked by the management for 188 apartments.

Examiner Lane overruled a tenants' motion to dismiss the petition on the ground that the management's statement of operating costs was inadequate. Instead, he continued the hearing until March 31 so that accountants for both sides could prepare separate statements on costs.

Most of the tenants complained of the services given at the apartment house, and many said their apartments needed painting and redecoration. Edward A. Aaronson, representing Park Lane Corp., Inc., said if the rent increase was obtained, all apartments would be painted and redecorated.

Aaronson pointed out that the present management has been in charge of the apartment house since January 1, 1946.

Six of the tenants appearing were represented by Matthew J. O'Callaghan, jr., himself a tenant of the apartment house.

Present rents range from $32.50 to $65, according to Aaronson.

Sex Suspects May Be Held On Suspicion

Sex psychopaths in the District may be confined to St. Elizabeths even if they have not broken any criminal law.

An executive session of a House District Subcommittee agreed yesterday to broaden a bill now being considered which originally was directed only at persons charged legally with sex aberrations.

Representative A. L. Miller (R., Nebr.) said the word "criminal" had been removed from the bill. In its place, the group adopted a definition of a sexual psychopath which has been incorporated in a Minnesota law. Miller said it had been upheld by the United States Supreme Court.

"We are trying to get the criminal element out of the bill," explained Miller, who is a physician. "A man would not have to commit a crime to be committed."

Still to be worked out definitely are legal devices which would protect individuals from trumped up commitments. One St. Elizabeths psychiatrist objected to the proposed bill last week because a wife might have her husband incarcerated for perverse practices.

The bill is designed primarily, Miller said, to modernize old District laws. It will try to give greater protection for children. Miller said the full District Committee is expected to pass upon it by the end of next month.

Va. Reserve Officers Favor World Police

Richmond, Va., Feb. 26 (AP).—Virginia's 2000 members of the Reserve Officers Association have informed the United Nations that its decisions should be enforced by an international police force.

Col. Lewis I. Held of Richmond, State ROA president, wired President Truman, U.N. Representative Warren R. Austin and Col. William H. Neblett, National ROA president, the message from Virginia officers.

Of the 28 chapters polled in the State, only Newport News expressed opposition to an international force, Colonel Held said.

G-Girls Write Prize Song

Miss Ruth Wallace, employe of the Senate District Committee, and Miss Sue Thomas, employed in the office of Representative Daniel A. Reed (R., N. Y.), have won a prize for a song they wrote, called "Who's to Blame?"

Miss Wallace wrote the music and Miss Thomas wrote the words. They were notified the song had placed twenty-fourth in a contest sponsored by a California group. The prize is publication of the song and its presentation on the radio, Miss Wallace said.

Miss Wallace said it was one of 10 songs she had composed. Besides her job at the Capitol, Miss Wallace is a musician and bandleader and has played frequently for dances in Washington.

Brehm Plans Bonus For D. C. Veterans

Representative Walter E. Brehm (R., Ohio) feels sorry for District veterans. They ought to get a bonus, too, he said yesterday.

What's more, he told his colleagues on the floor of the House, he might introduce a bill granting a maximum war bonus of $400, just as they've done in Ohio.

Brehm said he hoped Chairman Edith Nourse Rogers (R., Mass.) of the House Veterans Committee would bring in the bill. If she won't, Brehm said he would.

Just how the payments would be financed for the approximately 120,000 veterans of World War II who lived in the District was not made clear. Brehm said it was paid through taxation in Ohio.

He would give $10 for each month of domestic service and $15 for each month of overseas service, with a maximum payment of $400. It would be paid for military and naval service between December, 1941 and December, 1945.

New Postoffice to Open

A new West Hyattsville Postoffice, situated in the Queens Chapel Shopping Center, will open March 1, according to Postmaster Egbert F. Tingley. The present postoffice at the Billhimer and Palmer Motor Co. Queens Chapel rd. and Hamilton st. will be discontinued, he said. Hours will be 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. Monday through Friday, and 8 a. m. to 1 p. m. on Saturday.

Fire House Sites Picked

The Commissioners yesterday authorized the D. C. Real Estate Committee to purchase two sites for new fire houses.

Committee members and Fire Chief Clement Murphy concurred on choice of locations at 49th st. and Central ave. ne., and Irving st. se., between Alabama ave. and 24th st., it was revealed.

Occoquan Loses Milker

The Accoquan workhouse, which on Sunday lost its barber, yesterday lost one of its milking-machine operators.

Sylvester Green, 25, of Anderson, S. C., was serving 180 days for petty larceny. With 90 days left, Green, who is a first offender, was missing at the 10 a. m. roll-call. The workhouse bloodhounds were unleashed, but Green was not to be found.

Donald Clemmer, head of the Department of Corrections, said: "It's Spring and the barber and the milkman evidently couldn't stand the urge to be elsewhere."

Auto Tags Next Week

Auto owners who have mailed applications for auto tags to the District Department of Vehicles and Traffic will receive their 1948-49 license plates early next week, Traffic Director George E. Keneipp announced yesterday.

Application blanks have been mailed to about 170,000 auto owners, he said, and motorists are urge dto register their cars by mail instead of applying in person. New tags may be displayed on cars beginning Monday, he announced.

Forfeiture of Bond Asked

Bondsman William J. O'Neil yesterday entered the "man bites dog" news category when he requested that a $300 bond he had put up for a missing grand larceny defendant be forfeited.

The unusual request was granted by Associate Justice Richmond B. Keech and O'Neil left the courtroom $300 poorer.

Keech currently has under advisement a request by O'Neil in a separate case that a $1000 forfeiture decreed several weeks ago be set aside.

H. O. Wallace Of Calif., Dies Here

The wife of a 43-year-old California attorney yesterday received news of her husband's death as she returned from the funeral of her mother.

The attorney, Harry O. Wallace, was found dead in bed at 8 a. m. yesterday in his room at the Statler Hotel. Hotel physician, Dr. James E. Noland, said death apparently resulted from a heart ailment.

Wallace registered at the hotel Monday, coming from Reno, Nev., where his mother-in-law was buried. His home was in Long Beach, Calif., and his wife was reported returning there yesterday from Reno when informed of her husband's death.

Wallace was a member of the law firm of Thomas & Wallace of Long Beach. He had come to Washington on a business trip for the Title Service Co. of Long Beach. His body was found by Thomas A. Gregory, secretary of the title company, who was sharing the hotel room.

The body, removed to the District Morgue, was to be transferred to the Joseph F. Birch Funeral Home, 3034 M st. nw., and shipped to Long Beach.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Ruth B. Wallace, the attorney also is survived by a son, his business acquaintance here said.

Fr. Creeden Dies; Former GU President

The Rev. John B. Creeden, S. J., 77, president of Georgetown University from 1918 to 1924 and founder of its Foreign Service School, died yesterday in Boston.

Fr. Creeden

Father Creeden, who had been spiritual adviser of Weston College, Weston, Mass., for the past year, died after a heart attack Sunday.

The noted Jesuit educator was interested primarily in law and the search for international peace through education.

In 1920 Venezuela gave him its Medal of Public Instruction for his program to give American college students summer instruction abroad. From 1924, when he left Georgetown, until 1939 he was regent of the Boston College Law School.

Father Creeden, native of Boston, entered the Society of Jesus in 1890. He studied at the Jesuit Novitiate, Frederick, Md., from 1890 until 1898, when he joined the Georgetown faculty as a Jesuit scholastic.

He was dean of the college of arts and sciences at Georgetown from 1909 until 1918, when he became president. In 1919 he founded the Foreign Service School, and in the same year was instrumental in opening the Georgetown Preparatory School at Garrett Park, Md.

Father Creeden left Georgetown in 1924 to establish the Boston College Law School. He taught history at the Cranwell Preparatory School, Lenox, Mass., from 1939 until 1943, when he transferred to Shadowbrook, a Jesuit novitiate in Lenox.

The Rev. Joseph M. Geib, S. J., Georgetown University administrator, will represent the university at funeral services at 9 a. m. tomorrow at Weston College. Burial will follow in the college cemetery.

Postlude

Ward's First Symphony Gets Ovation

By Paul Hume

Robert Ward's First Symphony, and Washington's first hearing of Benno Moiseiwitch in many years headlined last night's National Symphony concert in Constitution Hall.

Only four weeks ago, the orchestra gave the first performance of Ward's Second Symphony. Since we were not able to hear that work, we cannot compare the two. However, it is not necessary to have heard his second work in this form to enjoy thoroughly the brilliant scoring and the stunning feeling for climax which mark his now eight-year-old Symphony No. 1.

The orchestra gave Ward its best playing of the evening and his music justified it. An ovation following the final chords brought the composer to his feet several times. The National Symphony has been good to Robert Ward, to its credit and our gain.

It was a musical treat of the richest kind to hear again the beautiful singing playing of Benno Moiseiwitch. He rendered great service in Europe during the war. Now, taking up again the threads of his career in this country, he gains immediate access to the most enthusiastic response of audiences by his musicianly playing and the insight he brings to any music he essays.

Our delight in his pearling tone was second only to that we took in the perfection of his phrasing. Time after time he would give a line precisely the lift in accent or the minute hesitation which made it take gracious shape.

The concert included an obvious reading of Mozart's "Impresario" overture, with accents which seemed to us more like those of Beethoven than Mozart, and an insipid work from an obscure Norwegian composer, Saeverud, whose salon meanderings do him no credit.

The closing work of the evening, Rimsky-Korsakoff's Spanish Caprice, seemed to us to emphasize some of the reasons for keeping a National Symphony alive in Washington. Here we had opportunity to hear all the orchestra's solo players in virtuoso displays of their talents, and to note how well the orchestra can sound. As an orchestra they are a community asset we cannot afford to lose. More than they need our support, we need them.

The program was Kindler's last of the season. It was played to a somewhat less than full house.

Dr. Maxon, 71, Smithsonian Expert, Dies

Dr. William Ralph Maxon, 71, curator of the National Herbarium of the Smithsonian Institution before his retirement in 1946, died unexpectedly yesterday in Terra Ceia, Fla.

Dr. Maxon

Dr. Maxon, whose home was 2333 20th st. nw., and Mrs. Maxon were spending the winter in Florida and had expected to return here next month. He had lived here 49 years.

Native of Oneida, N. Y., and graduate of Syracuse University, receiving his bachelor's degree there in 1898 and doctor's in 1922. Dr. Maxon served the Smithsonian Institution from 1899 until he retired in 1946. Starting out as an aid in cryptogamic botany, he was successively assistant curator, associate curator and then curator of the National Herbarium.

He was a world authority on ferns, especially on those of tropical America. He made numerous fern-collecting trips to Guatemala, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Panama, Cuba and Jamaica. Many plants he discovered were named for him, such as the cultivated dahlia, "Dahlia maxonii," and the fern genus, "Maxonia."

He was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, the Cosmos Club, the Washington Academy of Sciences, the Botanical Society of Washington, the Biological Society of Washington, the Washington Biologist's Field Club, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Fern Society and other scientific organizations.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Edith Hinckley Merrill Maxon, and a daughter, Mary, now living in New York.

Sister Julie Of Home for Aged, Is Dead

Sister Julie Germain, 71, Catholic Nun at the Home for the Aged for the past 24 years, died yesterday at the home after a two weeks' illness.

Sister Julie, who had been in chrage of the men's dining room until about six months ago, died as the result of a heart ailment.

A native of Montreal, Canada, she entered the order of the Little Sister of the Poor, which operates the home at 220 H st. ne., in 1900. For about 20 years she served in a simillar home near St. Pern, France, followed by three years in Detroit, before coming here.

High requiem mass will be said at 9 a. m. tomorrow at the home, followed by burial in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Entomologist Cites Danger in Use of DDT

Baltimore, Feb. 26 (AP).—Dr. L. P. Ditman, entomologist at the University of Maryland, today warned that "there is danger that DDT will build up residues in the soil which may be harmful to plants."

Addressing food canners and freezers at a two-day short course here sponsored by the University of Maryland, Dr. Ditman added that this would not happen in less than five years of treatment with DDT, but "it's a real threat."

He cited DDT and rynax as offering the most effective control of Japanese beetles and corn borers. He recommended ground dusting as the best method of applying the exterminator, but added that air dusting, water sprays or concentrated oil sprays also are effective.

Baltimore Sells Cows, Quits Dairy Business

Baltimore, Feb. 26 (AP).—The city quit the dairy business today and picked up $20,000 in the process.

In a last roundup at city hospitals, the city auctioned off its herd of 87 milch cows, heifers and a 4-year-old Holstein bull.

The cattle brought $18,800 and the remainder came from the sale of farm implements and grain.

Mrs. Ready Dies Following Florida Trip

Mrs. Agnes M. Ready, 67, lifelong resident of Washington, died yesterday in Georgetown University Hospital following a brief illness.

Mrs. Ready

Mrs. Ready, who lived at 3301 N st. nw., had returned last Friday from St. Petersburg, Fla., where she had spent the winter with her son, Dr. Tom J. Ready, chief medical officer of the Tampa area for the Veterans' Administration. She was taken ill on Wednesday.

She was noted for her many charitable and philanthropic acts and took an active part in the affairs of her church. She was a member of the Ladies' Board of Georgetown University Hospital and the Sodality of Holy Trinity Church.

The daughter of the late Patrick and Mary Stanton, Mrs. Ready was the sister of the late Capt. Thomas B. Stanton, of the District Fire Department. Her husband, Dr. Michael J. Ready, died in 1923. She presented a pulpit to Holy Trinity Church in his memory.

In addition to her son, she is survived by a brother, Daniel H. Stanton of Washington, and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at her late residence Monday at 9:30 a. m., followed by a requiem mass at Holy Trinity Church, 36th and O sts. nw., at 10. Interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery. aint2 etaoi shrd cmfw shrd etaoi s

Four Wounded Officers Denied Pensions

By The Associated Press

A former Army bomber pilot testified yesterday he flew 13 combat missions in the Pacific with a broken neck which had been diagnosed as a muscle strain.

After repeated complaints, he said, he was sent to a hospital for X-rays. Medical officers then corrected the early diagnosis and grounded him.

He flew the missions strapped to his seat and wearing a board strapped to his back, he told a House Armed Services Subcommittee. His neck had been broken, he said, when his plane crashed in flames in the China Sea.

Unable to Get Pensions

The testimony was given by First Lieut. Thomas L. Frazier of Adrian, Ga. He was one of four crippled officers who told the Congressmen that they have been unable to get disability retirements despite severe wounds.

The other three were ground officers, and all had started their Army careers as enlisted men. They were Capt. Carlos Ogden of San Jose, Calif., Congressional Medal of Honor winner; Capt. Frederick J. Bready of North Wilbraham, Mass., and Capt. Thaddeus S. Moore of Highland Park, Mich.

Frazier, who wore a high neck brace as he testified, said after his injury he flew until one arm became paralyzed, then hospital examinations showed that his neck had been fractured.

He has been a patient at Walter Reed Army Hospital here since last October. He said he was wearing the brace when the Army discharged him last April.

Ogden Wounded Three Times

Captain Ogden, who was wounded three times in combat, said he has been trying for more than a year to persuade the Army to make a final judgment in his case.

Ogden commanded an infantry company in the attack on Cherbourg, he said, and was wounded in the head and wrist. He returned to his company after brief hospital treatment, and was wounded twice in later assaults.

Ogden said that when he was discharged by the Army in April, 1947, his right wrist was still in a cast. He said he was not allowed to stay at Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco until treatment was completed.

Others Tell Experience

Bready, a former judo instructor and motorcycle hill climber, said five Army retirement boards have recommended his retirement as permanently disabled. The Surgeon General's office has rejected each one.

Bready was injured in October, 1943, when a plane in which he was riding hit an air pocket over Palermo, Sicily. He was struck in the back when cargo in the plane was broken loose.

Moore told the committee he was assigned to occupation duty in Japan last month after more than three years of hospital treatment. He was wounded by enemy artillery fire in France in July, 1944. He said he still cannot use his right hand.

Medical officers at Camp Stoneman, Calif., and Letterman Hospital refused to cancel his overseas orders so he could continue treatment, he said.

Larry Waltzes Highland Fling

By Richard L. Coe

"THE SWORDSMAN," at the Warner, is the Martins and the Coys in tartans and kilts. It's about as Scottish as the Washington Monument.

The idea Columbia had for this one was to make a Western against a Scottish Highland background, forming two sure-fire angles into a hybrid. They've given little Larry Parks a couple of fencing lessons, squeezed his chubby pins into tartan pants and turned their Technicolor cameras onto California's gorgeous scenery. It's all very purty, but they'd better keep it away from the Caledonians. Otherwise there'll be riots from the Tweed to John o'Groats.

Thanks to the British tax, however, Columbia probably isn't worrying about how Sandy MacTavish would greet this picture of his Highlands. What people don't know shouldn't bother them.

Other traditions are strictly observed. The plot is clear from the first shot of Larry leaping into a stagecoach and landing on the lap of Ellen Drew. The MacArdens and the Glowans have been at each other's throats for three generations. But Love Dawns. Larry evidently learned the futility of bickering on the playing fields of Eton and Oxford, where he'd been for 10 years before plumping onto Miss Drew's satin lap.

The players seem pretty wistful about their masquerade and it's amusing to watch their gingery approach to lines and action which wouldn't cause them a moment's hesitation were the setting Dead Man's Gulch.

"THE SWORDSMAN." Columbia release produced by Burt Kelly. Screen play by Wilfrid H. Pettit. Photography director, William Snyder. Technicolor by Natalie Kalmus. Directed by Joseph H. Lewis. At the Warner.

No "Annie Laurie"

They slide up to words like "aye" and "kirk" with the uneasy daring of a man stealing third. Most of the time they're speaking with overtones of New Yorkese and then, noting their companions are decked out in colorful plaids, they remember they're suposed to be Scottish and, whoops, you get a line like: "Who'll try the last event of the deeeeeee?" And the sound of Miss Drew as she tries to stop a family massacre calling across a stream, "Oh, shepherd boy!" will linger lovingly in our ears for sometime.

Miss Drew, by the way, appears to have taken up the Maria Montez school of acting. Physically, she is solidly in the picture, stalking about the countryside in gowns that would cause a panic in the Statler lobby; mentally, she doesn't give a clew as to what's on her mind, but obviously it's not Larry Parks.

Larry is game for his assignment, though it must rank as one of the strangest of the year. No, he doesn't sing. Not even "Annie Laurie." The up-and-coming Michael Duane tumbles into a brook early in the game and most everyone else wears beards.

THE WARNER also presents the "March of Time" report on "Presidential Year." As you can imagine, this has given the Timesters a positive orgy of being objective. They analyze the Republican candidates with scientific zeal, noting the "radio appeal" in their voices, etc, etc. If the scales are tipped at all, they're favorable to General Ike, who's seen in his non-civilian clothes. Time seems to believe the way is still open for the former Chief of Staff, and its "Presidential Year" is a provocative footnote to a course in civics.

TEX BENEKE'S band is in for a full day at the Capitol, with a broadcast scheduled from the stage at 10:30. The day's final feature goes on at 11 and the last stage show for the Beneke boys at 12:25 a. m. At that rate you can spend 3 hours and a half at the Capitol (and sleep Saturday morning!).

LARRY PARKS AGAIN: Tomorrow and Sunday, the Apex Theater would have you know, the last Washington showing of "The Jolson Story" will go on its screen. Anybody making book on this?

CHARLES DICKENS' "The Cricket on the Hearth" repeats last night's performance in the Dramatic Hall of the Foundry Methodist Church at 8:30 tonight. In the cast of Gilmor Brown's adaptation are: Gayle Harmon, Marion Beasley, Virginia Stone, Neeva Sanders, Janet Keiter, Oscar Fenn, Bill Ashelman, Paul Lawson, Vivian Elliott, Maxine Craig and Bob Fabik.

Farmers to Hear Talk On Foot-Mouth Disease

Representative George W. Gillie (R., Ind.) will be the principal speaker at the seventy-fifth Sandy Spring Farmers' Convention tomorrow at the Sherwood High School, Sandy Spring, Md.

Representative Gillie will discuss foot and mouth disease in cattle at the convention to be opened at 10:30 a. m. by Dr. W. B. Kemp, director of the University of Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station, who will speak on "Flexible Crop Rotations."

Norman Warfield, Howard County cattleman, will describe his method of producing beef for a special market during the afternoon session, and Keith Himebaugh, director of information for the Agriculture Department, also will speak.

Beneke's Big Band Fills Stage With Smooth Sound at Capitol

By Orval Hopkins

TEX BENEKE'S Orchestra, a real big-league outfit, is taking up virtually the entire stage at the Capitol Theater this week. The stage is a big one and so, believe it, is the band. I counted up to 28 and then lost track.

The Beneke band has, I suppose, everything: soaring strings, blasting trumpets, booming trombones, bleating saxes. There is also one of those frantic drummers, Jack Sperling, a talented hot horn named Pete Candoli, and a rather lonesome French horn whose name I didn't catch. The band plays sweet, loudly, softly, flawlessly. A good vocal quartet sings a couple of numbers, with assists from Tex, and a crooner named Gary Stevens sings two others. All is neat, slick, ordered and not very interesting.

The Marshall Brothers, a pair of madmen billed as satirists, save the day at the Capitol. These two work out in stage, screen and particularly radio with a kind of humor which, while probably not new, is refreshing and uninhibited. I particularly liked the boy I took to be the younger Marshall brother. He kept resolutely announcing his intention of imitating some great actress or actor, and then making like Peter Lorre. No matter whom he put in, Lorre came out. The boys are a pleasure and they're worth your while.

Also on the bill is Lou Wills, jr., a dancing comedian who is adequately agile, if uncommonly uncomical.

The movie at the Capitol offers Joe E. Brown in "The Tender Years." This is the story of a country minister who discovers that a dog in the village is being mistreated. He steals the dog deliberately, intending to go to trial and thus force into the open the issue of brutality to animals.

He doesn't have to go to trial (although you are treated to sort of a moot job in the parlor) because the dog's brutal owner recovers the beast and spoils everything. This owner, well played by James Millican, is a thorough-going cad all through the film, but he ultimately gets the Big Signal and things turn out fine.

This is Joe Brown's return to films after an absence of several years, during some of which he was befriending and amusing GIs all over the world. Brown has the face, the physique, the talents and, I suspect, the inclinations of a comedian. Somebody made a mistake when he was cast in this homily, and Joe himself kicked one when he took the job.

Josephine Hutchinson is in this, too, and I had forgotten how inept she can be. "Tender" and "warm" are adjectives employed in some quarters to describe this movie. Others might be "pedestrian" and "maudlin."

"THE TENDER YEARS." Twentieth Century-Fox release for Edward L. Alperson. Screen play by Jack Jungmeyer, jr., and Arnold Belgard from a Jungmeyer story adapted by Abem Finkel. Photography director, Henry Freulich. Directed by Harold Schuster. At the Capitol.

One Witness Values Tract Near 6 Million

One witness placed the value of the 25-acre Nevius tract in Arlington at $5,600,000 yesterday as the condemnation hearing neared a close in Alexandria District Court.

Testimony was concluded yesterday afternoon. The jury will make its award after closing arguments today.

The $5,600,000 figure was given by Ernest Davis, New York developer, who said he had helped plan an apartment development for the site in 1945.

Davis called the site, which lies on a projection of the Capitol-Lincoln Memorial axis, "the best apartment site in Metropolitan Washington." The Government took the property by condemnation last May for a veterans hospital. This project was killed by Congress. Otherwise for it is still undetermined.

Unlike Government witnesses, Davis refused to compare the tract with other Arlington properties. He said there was no other site in the county of comparable value. Instead, he compared it to sites of the Shoreham Hotel and Westchester Apartments in Washington.

Government attorneys objected to his testimony on the grounds that he was not an appraiser, and that his figure was based on capitalization of income from apartments rather than present market value.

Four other witnesses for former owners placed the value between $2,750,000 and $4,000,000. Two additional witnesses failed to qualify as appraisers after taking the stand.

Ex-GI Sues Builder for Failure To Complete House on Time

A suit asking judgment of $2000 from Veterans Housing Corporation, a Fairfax County firm, for failure to produce a house when promised was filed yesterday in Fairfax Circuit Court.

Joseph G. Kriss said he paid $1225 in April, 1947, on a house and lot to be ready after 90 working days. He said his house has not been delivered, and refund of his deposit was refused. Kriss asks for his money plus the additional sum for damages.

Hearing on the motion for judgment was asked for March 12. The suit is similar to one filed by Fred Summers last month.

Maj. Richard S. Lusk, president of the firm, said both houses will be completed as soon as weather permits. Construction on Summers' house is up to the roof, and on Kriss', up to the first floor, he said.

The corporation was formed a year ago to build homes for veterans on the road between Mount Vernon and Route No. 1.

Eight houses are now occupied, Lusk said yesterday. Five more are ready for occupants. Twenty-one more are under construction.

Lusk said he obtained a one-year moratorium from creditors last fall when the project hit a financial snag. He said that he had materials on hand and that completion of the work depended only on the weather.

9 Join Arlington Police

Nine men have passed Arlington's police training course and were sworn in yesterday as substitute police officers, Police Chief Harry Woodyard announced.

The men, who will be appointed to full status when vacancies occur, are Sigmunder F. Sigmundson, 3508 N. 21st ave.; Roxy V. Crack, 2302 N. Lexington st.; Irvin L. Todd, 1721 S. Quincy st.; Robert T. Rosson, S. 13th rd.; William R. Horner, 2316 N. Wakefield st.; Rene Clifford Couleman, 3014 N. 7th st.; Leonard C. Foltz, 4334 N. Fairfax dr.; William J. Shilling, 627 N. Jackson st., and James D. Yowell, 3118 Key blvd.

Free Insurance Urged For Services, Veterans

By The Associated Press

Free life insurance for the armed services and all war veterans was proposed yesterday by Representative Shafer (R., Mich.).

"I think the Government could save money that way," he told a reporter. "It would be cheaper to give them the insurance than to pay out what it costs us to collect the premiums."

Shafer said the Joint Navy-Army Personnel Board already was approved the principle of free insurance for men and women on active military duty.

Girls' Camp Group Installs Mrs. Monaghan

Mrs. Joseph C. Monaghan, 6216 32d st. nw., was installed as president of the Merrick Girls' Camp Committee of the Christ Child Society at its first anniversary luncheon meeting yesterday at the Kennedy Warren Apartments.

Others installed were Mrs. Frank Paroni, vice pres; Mrs. Raymond C. Kirshner, secretary, and Mrs. John F. G[illegible], treasurer. Mrs. Levin P[illegible]dy continues as permanent chairman for the camp at South River, Annapolis, Md.

As Maine Goes, So Goes Outdoor Haight

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

VOTELESS NATIVE Washingtonian that I am, I've managed thus far in my newspaper career to steer clear of political entanglements.

However, I've had half an eye on those top reporting jobs like covering the White House, Capitol and national beats, particularly since my recent installation as Outdoor Editor.

Haight

Now I have a scoop—an exclusive that's going to burn up the likes of Eddie Folliard, Al Friendly, Marshall Andrews, Bob Albright, and those Gallup Poll guys.

Hold your hats, here we go:

The Republicans won't carry Maine!

And the Democrats won't carry it, either. But before you start beating out your brains against a brick Wallace, let me inform you those parties won't carry the big chunk of the State of Maine coming to Washington next week—railroad flat cars are being used.

Seems the rockbound coast boys have forgotten rugged Down East politics long enough to set traps for part of the Nation's vacation crowd through a king-size exhibition at the Sportsmen's Show, starting next Friday at the Armory.

Thus far I have been unable to learn whether the Maine gang is shipping in the Quoddy tide-harnessing project, which hardly would be an innovation, because it's been kicked around here for the last dozen years.

BUT ALL KIDDING ASIDE, Maine is going big in the Sportsmen's Show, just like everything else, except, perhaps, Tom Dolan, a rather small fellow to be handling such a gigantic publicity assignment.

Not since the files of the FBI were moved out will the Armory be so jammed with material—a healthy transition, at that. In other words, the data on the Nation's worst criminals, the Dillingers, Capones, etc., gives way to America's first love—health-giving sports.

There will be everything to please both regular and occasional sportsmen—from $40,000 mahogany-trimmed cruisers to rowboats you make at home; from fly-casting to log-rolling in a 70-foot tank; from expensive trailers to pup tents.

Every phase of the great outdoors will be on exhibition, oddly enough, indoors; so as outdoor editor I'll work indoors on the outdoors, if you know what I mean.

There'll be pistol shooting by an expert and a gigantic rifle and shotgun exhibition. Also the show includes three live bears, but they are in nowise connected with the firearms, so don't go to the Armory expecting to watch a bear hunt.

THE BEARS are one of several acts that should cheer the younger set, including a dog performance, canoe-tilting and other attractions. By the way, Saturday, March 6, there will be a morning show for the kids.

I promised Brother Dolan I would put in a few lines on sponsorship by the League of Maryland Sportsmen. Profits from the show going to that organization will be spent on wild-life conservation projects—cafeterias and flophouses for ducks, pheasants, quail, etc.

I won't charge the management for the slogan, but the Sportsmen's Show—on paper, at least—looks to me like "The All-American Eyeful."

I just noticed in a publicity handout that Maine isn't the only State with an exhibition—there's Pennsylvania and Maryland.

All I can say is as Maine goes, so goes Maryland and Pennsylvania—but there I go again with politics when all we want is a little fun.

Lilly, Siegel, Geib Bowl High Sets

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

Paul Lilly, Virginia Siegel, El Geib and John Stewart did a good face-lifting job on the standings of the second annual Metropolitan Police Boys Club benefit bowling tournament.

Lilly took over second place in the men's handicap race by rolling a 392-90—482 score in hte Catholic C League at Greenway. Jack Miller bowled a spectacular 419-87—506 on opening night to spurt into the lead.

Miss Siegel, by virtue of a 367-57 424, gained the top place in the women's division, and put herself in a fine position to win the $50 first prize.

Rolling with the Navy Medical League at Hi-Skor, Miss Siegel had games of 98, 110, and 159. Her 159 game gave her the top scratch game for women and her 367 set also was high in that department.

Newcomers also took over the lead in scratch game and set scores for men. El Geib had a fine 442 set while bowling in the Men's Major District League at Hi Skor. Geib, one of the District's leading bowlers is assistant secretary of the National Duckpin Bowling Congress. His high game was 170.

But thos was not as good a game as was chalked up by John Stewart, who had a 175 in Men's Minor League competition at Petworth. Stewart's scratch set of 430 was second highest yet recorded.

In yesterday's story, C. E. Hammond was erroneously reported to have had a score of 356-102-458. His score was 383-78-461. Another error was made in stating that Miss Dorothy Austin, one of the women's leaders, rolled in the FBI League. She is a member of the PBA League at Hi-Skor.

The tournament will continue through Monday, March 1, and is open to all league bowlers. Every area alley is taking part and more than 10,000 bowlers are expected to participate before the end of the tournament.

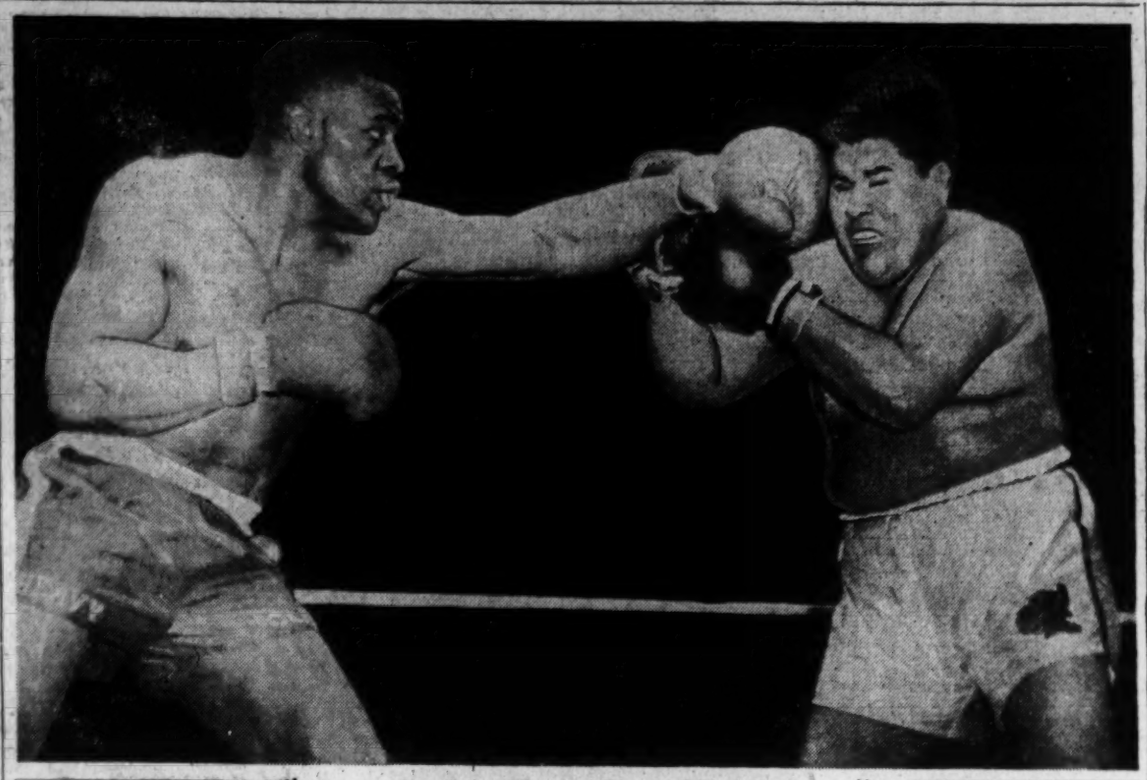
Griffith Scores 21

Paul Griffith scored 21 points as Naval Communications defeated McKee Pontiac, 38-23, yesterday at Roosevelt High gym in a D. C. Recreation League game. In another league game, Columbia Heights' Amvets walloped Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, 41-21.



Cadets Win, 76-23, for 19th Straight

The St. John's Cadets scored their nineteenth consecutive victory last night as they walloped St. Paul's, 76-23, at the St. John's gym.

Last night's win closed the regular basketball season for the Cadets, who enjoyed their most successful year in history. It was their twenty-third win in 24 games, and cemented their claim as District Catholic high school champions.

St. John's Coach Joe Gallagher used his first stringers during only the first 10 minutes, and first-stringers Tommy Fannon and Jack George scored 14 and 10 points, respectively. Reserve Don Kokes added 13 more later.

The Cadets are slated to participate in the Evening Star's Metropolitan High School Tournament, which begins next Monday at Ritchie Coliseum. They'll also compete in the Eastern Catholic Interscholastic Invitational Tourney on April 3-5 at Newport, R. I.

Baroudi Benefit Donates $10,000

Chicago, Feb. 26 (AP).—The parents of the late Sam Baroudi, Negro light heavyweight boxer of Akron, Ohio, will receive an assured $10,000 from a benefit fight in which Ezzard Charles will appear in a 10-round bout.

Charles, of Cincinnati, Ohio, No. 1 ranking challenger for the world light heavyweight title, was Baroudi's opponent in a bout in Chicago stadium last Friday night, which resulted in Baroudi's death from a cerebral hemorrhage.

Charles, through his co-manager, Jake Mintz of Pittsburgh, today agreed to donate $5000 of his purse. The fistic firm of Irving Schoenwald, Jack Begun and Jack Hurley, which staged the bout resulting in Baroudi's death, also agreed to donate $5000, regardless of the amount of the gate.

Wheelchair Team Arrives at 10:15

The Birmingham Paraplegic Hospital Basketball team arrives at National Airport at 10:15 this morning. They will be met by the Washington Red Cross Motor Corps who will conduct the visitors on a sightseeing trip this afternoon. The group will be taken through the House and Senate by Senator Downey of California.

They call their game "wheelchair basketball" and they've become so adept, as you'll see against a Catholic U. team at the Cardinal gym at 8:30 o'clock, that they're claiming the national wheelchair basketball championship.

They're winding up a whirlwind cross-country tour. It is a non-profit trip.

Every penny realized from gate receipts will be turned over to the California benefactors who underwrote the tour after the Veterans Administration refused to.

Why are they making this trip, you may ask. What do they hope to accomplish; they are not seeking charity. Like the hundreds of other paraplegics, they receive a life-time pension of $360 a month.

These veterans are "living again," as one put it here tonight.

"It's a hollow feeling to learn that you'll never be able to use your legs again," he said. "But through wheelchair basketball, we're in competition once again; we want to show people what we can do.

"Calisthenics well, we're living again. We can do something in sports."

Game Is Spectacular

The mere thought of disabled men playing basketball in wheelchairs may sound strange to you before you see how adroit these veterans have become. Their game is absolutely spectacular.

To see them maneuver their chairs for blocks, pickoffs . . . to see them skillfully feint and block is something to behold. But most of all it's their enthusiasm that gets you.

Not even sandlot kids get a bigger bang out of play than do these grown men. Two years ago they were invalids, being wheeled around with calisthenics, the only form of athletics they knew.

This for young men who before their injuries played golf, tennis, basketball, softball, and the rest.

Suddenly, they're no longer able to do this—to compete—"and when you can't compete it's like tearing your heart out," said Stan Denadel, the team's top scorer.

They've found a competitive outlet in basketball. They tear into their games with all the zeal of a sophomore trying to oust a junior on a college football team.

It took them a little time to become adapted to the game. At first, scores were low, 9-8, 12-10.

Today they average 30 points per game. They can work the ball in for a layup—they even pass behind them like pros—or crack down from 10-12 feet out.

Pity? Forget it. They don't want it. They just want you to see what they're doing for themselves. Then you'll have great admiration for them.

Lions Win 3d In Row, 5 to 4

The revitalized Lions extended their winning streak to three, longest of the season, handing Indianapolis a 5-4 defeat in an American League hockey game last night at Uline Arena.

A sparse gathering of 875 saw the Lions get off to a 3-0 first-period lead and come back with two more in the final 20 minutes for the victory that brought them within a half game of getting out of the cellar.

Actually, a fluke goal was the winning margin. At 5:49 of the third period the puck shot off Eddie Bruneteau's stick and into the Caps' net. Less than a minute later Bob Walton got an untainted score on an assist by Pat Wilson. The goals were enough to match the Indianapolis rally that fell one short.

The Lions broke fast getting three goals in the first period. After four minutes, Bob Walton scored the first goal with Dan Slater and Herb Lovett assisting. Pat Wilson sent a long scorching drive past goalie Ralph Almas for the second and the Porteous brothers combined to give the homesters a commanding 3-0 edge. It was Frank who scored with Dan Porteous and Larry Archambeault credited with assists.

Lions		Indianapolis

Spares: Indianapolis — Summers, Lundy, Simon, Sullivan, Bruneteau, Podolsky, Licari, McKay, Fogolin; Lions—Portland, Walton, Cluman, Babey, Carr-Harris, Slater, Meousseau, Lovett, Schultz, Hayes, Wilson.

Officials—Shields and Graham.

First period: 1, Lions, Walton (Slater, Lovett), 4:15; 2, Lions, Wilson (unassisted), 8:58; 3, Lions, F. Porteous (D. Porteous, Archambeault), 14:22. Penalty—Wilson (tripping, 2 minutes).

Second period: 4, Indianapolis, Podolsky (Lundy, Sullivan), 1:44; 5, Indianapolis, Sullivan (Lundy), 9:47.

Third period: 6, Washington, Wilson (unassisted), 5:49; 7, Washington, Walton (Wilson), 6:29; 8, Indianapolis, Sullivan (Lundy, Podolsky), 9:41; 9, Indianapolis, McKay (Sullivan, Millar), 11:26.

Caps Trail Bullets at Half, 40-32

Baltimore, Feb. 26.—The Washington Capitols trailed the Baltimore Bullets, 40 to 32, at halftime in their Basketball Association of America contest here tonight.

The Bullets, seeking their second victory of the series in which Washington boasts a 5-1 edge, stepped ahead at the outset of the second period with four quick baskets that enabled them to overcome a 19-15 deficit.

When Cleggie Hermsen tallied the fourth basket for Baltimore, it placed the Bullets on top, 23 to 19.

The Caps, with John Mahnken doing the scoring, made it 23-21, but the Bullets, paced by Connie Simmons and Dick Schulz, pulled away again.

At one time they boasted a 32-to-23 bulge over the Caps.

Bullets Spurt

Baltimore, Feb. 26.—The Baltimore Bullets spurted in the third period and held a 48-34 lead over the Washington Capitols after 8:40.

Terps Upset At Richmond

Richmond, Va., Feb. 26 (AP).—Al Rinaldi scored 20 points, 14 of them in the second half, to lead the University of Richmond Spiders to a surprising 64-62 Southern Conference victory over Maryland's Old Liners here tonight.

Lou Pitts, Richmond's lanky center, kept the Spiders in the game in the first half and contributed 16 points. John Edwards and Spence Wright led the Maryland scoring with 15 and 12 points, respectively.

CCNY Wallops Brooklyn, 75-55

New York, Feb. 26 (AP).—City College strengthened its claim for a postseason tournament bid with an easy 75-55 triumph over Brooklyn College tonight. In the second game of the basketball doubleheader, Long Island University clashed with Seton Hall.

Priory Wins Over Sidwell Friends

Basketball Referee Dies From Injuries

Laconia, N. H., Feb. 26 (AP).—Eugene Perry, 30, of Sanbornton, injured when thrown to the floor while refereeing a basketball game last night, died tonight at Laconia Hospital.

Police said that Perry struck his head when felled while separating two players in a game between Laconia Business College and Sunapee Town team.

St. Cecelia's, Xavier Girls Win CYO Games

St. Cecilia's defeated St. Dominic's, 29-20, and St. Francis Xavier beat St. Thomas, 34-22, yesterday in junior CYO girls' league play at St. Patrick's gym. Barbara Smith scored 10 points for St. Cecilia's and Ronnye Smith dumped in 20 for St. Francis Xavier.

Veteran Blames Hip Injury, Not Salary Dispute for Action

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Another glaring hole in the already depleted Washington Nationals outfield developed yesterday when veteran Buddy Lewis announced that he wouldn't play this season.

From Gastonia, N. C., Lewis told The Washington Post that the hip injury he received last year is bothering him so much that he decided to retire from baseball at least this year.

Lewis said he took the step "reluctantly" and only hopes the full year of rest will enable him to resume his big league career.

The former third baseman who led the American League outfielders in assists in 1946 added that there was no salary question involved in his decision.

"I was satisfied with Mr. Griffith's offer—more or less," he said. "But my hip bothers me when I move around and I just feel that I'm not up to playing ball.

"It was a tough decision, but one I feel I had to make. I know if the people around Washington miss me half as much as I know I'm going to miss them, there's going to be a lot of missing done."

Lewis, owner of an automobile agency in Gastonia, plans to take things easy but will keep his hand in by managing the Gaston County Post No. 23 American Legion team. That's the club Buddy played third for in 1933, helping it win the regional championship in the National Legion tournament.

Collided With Spence

Oddly enough, it was after a collision with Stan Spence that Lewis hit the right field wall and suffered his hip injury in a late game with the New York Yankees.

With Spence traded to Boston and Lewis out, the Nats will be without the services of their only two regular outfielders last season.

Of six men on their regular roster for outfield berths, only three played in the majors last season. They and their batting averages are Tom McBride (.269), Sherry Robertson (.233) and Leon Culberson (.238). The latter performed for the Boston Red Sox.

Two rookies up from Chattanooga are Gil Coan, making his third attempt to stick, and Earl Wooten. Another untried player is Dean Stafford, who batted .373 for Greenville, Tex.

The Nats recently picked up an added starter in 23-year-old Larry Drake. Playing in the Class D Big State League, Drake smacked 40 homers and batted .340.

At Orlando, Fla., Clark Griffith said: "I'm sorry to hear that Lewis won't play for us and I hope the year layoff will turn out best for him.

"His retirement means that we'll speed up the youth program we already had planned. I think we can string along with our rookie outfielders."

Lewis broke in with the Nationals at the end of the 1935 season as a third baseman after only one full season with Chattanooga. He made good from the start, batting .291 when he appeared in 143 games the following season.

Through the years he had a lifetime average of .304 until last season's .261 mark pulled him below .300, and in 1947 Lewis played third base on the American League all-star team.

In 1940-41 Lewis began alternating between third base and the outfield, and when he came back from the Army in 1945 he played only in the outfield.

As a captain, Lewis piloted Army transport planes in the CBI theater, making 350 trips over the hump. The 31-year-old Carolinian received three DFC's and three Air Medals during his Air Corps career.

The layoff apparently didn't bother him too much, because he returned in 1945 and piled up a .333 average in 69 games. Last season was the first off year he had and it was capped by the injury that might end his playing days.

Chisox Name Scout

Chicago, Feb. 26 (AP).—John Kerr, former Chicago White Sox infielder, has been signed by the club to scout the Pacific Coast League, it was announced today.

Highs Slate Two Playoff Tilts Tonight

Central High basketball fans already are planning on adding the Interhigh Championship cup to their trophy case.

The Vikings are matched with Eastern in the opening game of the Interhigh playoffs at 8 o'clock tonight at the National Guard Armory. If they win the playoff, it will be the first title in 15 years for the Vikings.

Central won its last title back in 1933 but is top-heavy favorite this year on the basis of its six-won and one-lost league-leading performance.

Riders, Wilson Meet

Roosevelt, which finished second in the Interhigh race, will oppose third-place Woodrow Wilson in the second game of tonight's doubleheader.

Central's 46.2 points per game scoring average and its previous 49-28 conquest of the Ramblers give it the edge tonight. The winners of this game will play the winner of the second game for the Interhigh Championship tomorrow night at the Armory.

The Roosevelt-Wilson game figures to be an interesting affair. The Riders concede a slight edge in scoring average but boast a regular season 35-31 triumph over Wilson.

Whitcomb Big Scorer

Wilson's scoring margin over the Riders can be attributed in part to the Tigers' Jack Whitcomb. His 104-point total was second only to the 110 which gave Anacostia's Wally Warner the individual scoring honor.

Central is rated the best balanced scoring team in the league. Three Vikings, Jimmy Pantos, Hal Sponsler and Bobby Johnson rank among the top 10 in point getting.

Eastern ranks second only to Central in number of points scored per game. Its 41.2 average is offset, however, by its poor defensive record. The Ramblers granted their opponents an average of 41.2 points per game.

Vernon Stephens' Dad Quits as Umpire

Culver City, Cal., Feb. 26 (U.P.).—Vernon Stephens, sr., accused of spiriting his baseball-playing son Infielder Vernon Stephens, jr., of the Boston Red Sox out of Mexico, withdrew as a Sunset Baseball League umpire today for fear of legal complications if he had to go below the border.

Wilkinson Rejects Yale Job, He's 'Happy at Oklahoma'

Norman, Okla., Feb. 26 (AP).—Football Coach Charles (Bud) Wilkinson tonight rejected an offer to coach at Yale and said he would stay here as head coach at the University of Oklahoma.

"I am very happy here at Oklahoma," he declared. "I have no intention of breaking my contract."

The offer, reportedly very attractive, was made yesterday by a member of the Yale alumni board who told the young coach all he had to say was "Yes."

Dr. George L. Cross, Oklahoma president, was obviously happy and relieved at Wilkinson's decision.

"Bud has been very decent about this," he said. "At a time when it is fashionable for coaches all over the country to walk out on their contracts, Bud has made his decision to stay without requesting any financial change—or any other change—in the present conditions of his contract."

Neither Wilkinson nor Cross said anything about the status of Walter Driskill, assistant coach at Maryland, who has been offered a similar job at Oklahoma to replace Dutch Ferring, who just left for UCLA.

Bethesda CC Names Harry Griesmer Pro

The newly organized Bethesda Country Club yesterday named Harry Griesmer, 36-year-old former Maryland State Open champion, as golf professional. Announcement was made by Fred H. Miller, Bethesda golf committee chairman.

Griesmer signed a one-year contract and begins his duties immediately.

He started his pro career in 1944 when he succeeded National Open Champ Lew Worsham at Burning Tree Club. He was pro at Bethesda Country Club in 1946 when it was known as Bradley Hills.

Cold Drives Him Out

British Austerity Too Austere For Louis, Even in Ritzy Flat

London, Feb. 26 (AP).—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis and his wife have moved out of their $360-a-week apartment on fashionable Park Lane. It was too cold, Promoter Jack Solomons said today.

Louis is here with a party of five to appear in daily boxing bouts in connection with a health and recreation exhibit. Both Joe and his wife, Marva, sat most of yesterday in their luxury flat, huddled in heavy coats.

The apartment, heated only by fireplaces, is one of the swankiest in London. It has six bedrooms, three lounges, two dining rooms, kitchen, several bathrooms, a butler and seven servants.

"We thought it was a fine apartment we had obtained," said an official of the exhibition, who arranged the lease.

Joe and Marva went to a party given by Comedian Danny Kaye last night and did not return. They spent the night at a private home while the rest of their party hunted hotel rooms.

No one knew today where they would settle down for their month-long stay in the British capital.

Chisox Fined $500 Again

Waterloo, Iowa, Feb. 26.—Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler again has fined the Chicago White Sox $500, it was reported here today.

Tom Rigney, business manager of the Waterloo White Hawks, a Sox farm team, said he had learned of the action.

Rigney said the fine was assessed in connection with Chandler's decision that the signing of Pitcher Robert Buhl by the Sox violated high school player regulations.

In addition to fining the Sox, Chandler also declared Buhl a free agent, Rigney said. Buhl was purchased by the Waterloo club last September from Madisonville, Ky., after he had won 19 and lost 5 during 1947.

Rigney said the White Sox signed Buhl in August, 1946, in the apparent belief he was a high school graduate. Chandler held, he added, that Buhl did not finish school at Saginaw, Mich., until the first semester of 1947.

Previously Chandler fined the White Sox $500 and declared George Zoetermann of Chicago a free agent in a decision protested by White Sov General Manager Leslie O'Connor.

Jr. AAU Title Swim Tonight

The District of Columbia A. A. U. Junior Swimming championships will be conducted tonight at the Washington Boys' Club pool, starting at 7:30. In conjunction, two national junior crowns—the men's 220-yard breaststroke and the women's 300-yard individual medley swim—will be decided.

Randy Hudson of Goldsboro, N. C., is a prime favorite in the medley, while Sears Williams of Baltimore, looks like the lad to be in the 220-yard breaststroke. The District junior competition will consist of five events each for men and women.

Talon Still Choice in 'Cap Tomorrow

Arcadia, Calif., Feb. 26 (AP).—The estimate may be overly optimistic, but a crowd of more than 80,000 is expected to witness the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap Saturday.

A record turnout of 85,500 saw the fixture last year, and Los Angeles Turf Club officials think the figure maye be matched, or topped, this year.

They based their prediction on prospects of continued clear weather and a complete sell-out of reservations—which is not unusual—for space on the clubhouse quarters.

Post time for the race has been set at 5:02 o'clock (Pacific Standard Time). There will be no broadcast.

The lineup for the eleventh running of the "hundred grander" remained virtually unchanged today, with Talon, conqueror of much the same field in the San Antonio Handicap two weeks ago, still the heavy favorite.

The pride of the Pampas admittedly has a race to run, however, and can well use all good luck he had in rolling up and through the field in capturing the San Antonio by 2¼ lengths from such challengers as Double Jay, On Trust, Outocrat and Flashco.

The same rivals, plus Amble In, Terry Bargello, Shannon II, Endeavor II, Class Day, Olhaverry and three mares, Bridal Flower, Miss Doreen and Elpis, probably will round out the field for the mile and one quarter special.

Oldest horse is the 1947 surprise winner, Olhaverry, and at nine enough of a threat to warrant 120 pounds. Winner of one $50,000 stakes here this winter, but a disappointment in other outings, the ancient Chilean has been working well the past week.

Hogan Shoots Record 63 to Lead St. Petersburg Golf

3 Accept Bids to N. Y. Tourney

New York, Feb. 26 (AP).—Western Kentucky State, St. Louis University and Texas have accepted bids to compete in the eleventh annual national invitation basketball tourney in Madison Square Garden, March 11, 13, 15 and 17.

Western Kentucky has 24 victories and 1 defeat. In two previous tournaments, the Kentuckians have won two games, lost two.

St. Louis and Texas are newcomers. Eight teams will be invited. The trio is the first selected.

St. Louis has won 19 of 21, losing both games to Oklahoma A. and M. Texas has an 18-4 record.

Bladensburg Wins

Walcott Agrees To Meet Louis For 20 Pct.

Camden, N. J., Feb. 26 (AP).—Jersey Joe Walcott tonight agreed to meet Champion Joe Louis in a 15-round heavyweight bout at Yankee Stadium June 23.

Walcott's attorney, A. D. Malandra, said a contract would be signed tomorrow at 2 p. m. in the New York office of the Twentieth Century Sporting Club.

Louis, prior to leaving for an exhibition tour in England, threatened to fight "anybody else" if Walcott didn't agree to terms in two weeks.

The two week ultimatum was nearly over.

Walcott agreed to Louis' terms—22 per cent of the purse and 22½ per cent of the movie income. His manager said "this is one fight we couldn't let go."

Jersey Joe lost a 15-round split decision to the Brown Bomber in a Madison Square Garden fight last December.

Worsham Ties for 8th With His 69

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP). Birdies were pars for Ben Hogan in the St. Petersburg Open Golf Tournament today as he bounced around the course in 63, nine under par.

It gave him a four-stroke lead on the field and set a new record 18-hole round for this tournament. It also tied the all-time mark for the 6436-yard Lakewood Country Club course.

Closest to Hogan was Cary Middlecoff of Memphis. He was out in 34 and home in 33 for 67.

Behind Hogan and Middlecoff were five players bunched at 68. Late finishers Lawson Little of Cleveland, Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., and Jim Milward of Northernaire, Wis., joined early finishers Bobby Locke, Johannesburg, South Africa, and Eric Monti, Santa Monica, Calif., in a third-place bracket.

Four golfers had 69s, National Open Champ Lew Worsham of Washington, Otto Greiner, Baltimore; Skip Alexander, Southern Pines, N. C., and Norman Von Nida, Sydney, Australia.

Worsham turned in the best back-nine card of the day with a 31.

The leaders:

Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa.	30	33	—63

Shea Agrees to Yank Terms, Reportedly $16,000 a Year

Naugatuck, Conn., Feb. 26 (AP). Frank (Spec) Shea, New York Yankees' star rookie pitcher last season, said today he had agreed in a telephone conversation with General Manager George Weiss to sign the 1948 contract, that Weiss, in St. Petersburg, Fla., had offered him last week. The contract, as reported, calls for the Naugatuck nugget to pick up a check for $16,000.

It's So Peaceful . . .

Concord, N. H., Feb. 26 (AP).—The hazards of skiing have persuaded Mrs. Leonard Lester of Boston, "to get back to peaceful country living."

Sunday she broke a leg during her first adventure on the staves. Returning from a Concord hospital, the automobile caught fire.

Today Mrs. Lester advertised for a lost fur coat, thrown from the car while the fire was being extinguished and then forgotten.

N. Y. Bars Spinelli

New York, Feb. 26 (AP).—Mike Spinelli, manager of the late Sam Baroudi who died after a Chicago fight last Friday, has been suspended by the New York State athletic commission.

The reason for the action taken by John Christensen, executive secretary, was the fact that Spinelli no longer manages any fighter. Baroudi was his only boxer.

Trial-Basis Superintendent Of Cheltenham Is Removed

By The Associated Press

Calvin L. Kiah, a former Cambridge, Md., high school official, was removed as superintendent of the Cheltenham School for Boys yesterday by the institution's board of managers.

The removal was voted unanimously at a board meeting Tuesday after it received a report from a special committee named to advise on his retention as superintendent on a permanent basis.

Kiah, a war veteran, was appointed head of the Prince Georges County school under the merit system, subjected to a six-month probationary period.

In a letter to Kiah, Board Chairman Thomas B. Sprague said:

"The cause for your rejection as superintendent . . . is that, in the considered judgment of the board . . . you have failed to demonstrate during your probationary period that you possess the requisite administrative ability, judgment, temperament and leadership to justify your appointment and retention as superintendent on a permanent basis."

All members of the board, which includes five white members and four Negroes, resigned last month to permit the selection of an all-Negro board. They continue to serve pending the appointment of a new group by Governor Lane.

Kiah held first place on the eligible list set up by the State employment commissioner. His appointment was obligatory under the veterans' preference provision of the merit system law. He had no previous experience in correctional institution work.

New Md. Prison Funds To Aid Rehabilitation

Baltimore, Feb. 26 (AP).—Rehabilitation of prisoners through giving them work to do will be "substantially" aided by the State's $74,600 appropriation for improvements at the penitentiary, the Board of Correction said today.

The emergency funds also "will alleviate some of the worst physical conditions at the penitentiary," said Reuben Oppenheimer, chairman of the board.

The improvements will increase the output of the State use industries (prison labor) about 20 per cent and will allow the prison to employ a "substantial additional number of inmates," he said.

USNA Plebes Back at Bottom After Day's Reign

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 26 (AP).—First classmen breathed easily again today as they regained command of midshipmen at the Naval Academy.

Yesterday was 100th day—100 days before commencement. The plebes took over. The seniors, who rule the roost every other day, became plebes.

The real plebes wore first-class stripes. The real first classmen wore none. The real plebes ordered their elders to brace up, turn square corners and give those long-winded answers to favorite Navy questions. They had charge of granting time off in town.

Dr. Ikenberry Takes College Post Today

Shepherdstown, W. Va., Feb. 26 (AP).—Dr. Oliver S. Ikenberry will be installed as president of Shepherd College tomorrow, with Raymond Brewster of Huntington, president of the State Board of Education, presiding.

Principal address at the ceremonies will be given by Dr. A. J. Brumbaugh of Washington, vice president of the American Council of Education.

Line to Suspend Flights to Shore

Baltimore, Feb. 26 (AP).—The Maryland Public Service Commission today granted Chesapeake Airways, Inc., a 60-day suspension of its scheduled flights between Baltimore and the Eastern Shore. The suspension is to take effect midnight Saturday.

Charles Bosley, commission chairman, said the suspension was granted pending an appeal by the air line to the Federal Civil Aeronautics Board. The CAB last week denied the Chesapeake's request for interstate routes.

If the air line wins the appeal before the suspension expires, Bosley said, it will be lifted immediately and flights resumed. If the appeal is denied, he added, the commission will take up the question of abandoning the air line's operations.

Larceny Charge Faced

Winchester, Va., Feb. 26 (Spl.). Mack Daniel Howlett has been returned here to face a charge of grand larceny of a tractor-trailer owned by the Shenandoah Transportation Co. of Harrisonburg. Howlett was taken into custody near Moorefield, W. Va. The missing tractor was found in New York earlier this month, but the trailer has not turned up.

County Plans To Film Wills, Office Records

Frederick, Md., Feb. 26 (Spl.).—Work of making microfilm copies of all probate records in the office of the Frederick County register of wills is to begin late this week or next, Register of Wills Harry D. Radcliff announced. The undertaking will be under supervision of the Maryland Hall of Records Commission in collaboration wit hthe Utah Genealogical Society, he said.

One copy of the film will be deposited in the Hall of Records at Annapolis, he said, and other copies will become the property of the Utah Society, which is bearing the entire cost of the project.

Some of the records in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court have already been reproduced and filed in the Hall of Records.

Junitive Power Sought

The Frederick City Police Commission feels that it should have the authority to impose punishment on officers violating rules and regulations of the Police Department.

Recommendations to this effect were contained in a letter to the mayor and aldermen, which stated that if Frederick is to have a Police Department "free from the influence of politics," the next legislature should amend the law and grant the "same authority as other police commissions throughout the United States."

The commission points out that its present duties are limited to examination of applicants for appointment to the department and hearing of evidence in cases involving department transgressions. Punishment through suspension or discharge is entirely in the hands of the aldermen.

Power Line Completed

Potomac Edison's new 33,000-volt transmission line between Mount Airy and Union Bridge, which completes a high voltage electric power loop connecting those two towns with Thurmont and Frederick, was finished this week and put into service immediately. The line has been under construction for several months.

Teachers to Hear Judd

The Frederick County Teachers Association will present the third in its series of four programs of the season on Monday evening, when Representative Walter H. Judd (R., Minn.) will speak on "America's Place in World Leadership" at 8:15 p. m., in Frederick High School auditorium.

Dogs Harass Deer

Dogs are again playing havoc with deer in the Catoctin Mountains, Regional Game Warden Ben Phebus, sr., revealed last night. He said there were plenty of deer in the mountains despite the unusually heavy onslaught on bucks last fall.

Phebus said dogs maimed a young buck, which had shed its spikes. Found on a farm, it was slain and presented to the Maryland State School for the Deaf here.

California Drought Results in Dimout

San Francisco, Feb. 26 (AP).—Power-short California underwent its first peacetime dimout at midnight tonight.

The driest winter in the State's recorded weather history, lowering hydroelectric water supplies, cause the Public Utilities Commission to order power cuts ranging from 10 per cent in agriculture, business and industry to 50 per cent in nighttime sports lighting, effective at midnight.

Anderson Boosts Burley Tobacco Quota

By The Associated Press

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson yesterday boosted the 1948 burley tobacco marketing quota to 514 million pounds. This is an increase of 40 million pounds over the previous announced allotment. Last year's quota was 490 million pounds.

Anderson said the increase was necessary to keep reserve supplies in line with quantities permitted under the crop control act of 1938. A quota of 474 million pounds for 1948 was announced last November. At that time burley production in 1947 was estimated at 525 million pounds.

Since then, however, sales from the 1947 crop amounted to only 485 million pounds, indicating that the crop estimate was too high.

Anderson said 1948 acreage planting allotments for most farms would be about two per cent less than 1947 allotments. The allotments are designed to limit each grower's production to his individual marketing quota. Allotments for farms of nine tenths of an acre or less will be unchanged from last year.

Church Organ Recalls Feud of Long Ago

Wabash, Ind. (U.P.).—Descendants of three Valentine Matterns faced a problem.

A German woman appealed for old clothes from relatives of her late "Uncle Valentine." The three Mattern families couldn't decide which of them should contribute.

A further look at the letter disclosed she had mentioned her uncle had a son, John. But that helped only a little because two of the Valentines, both now dead, had sons with that name.

The score or more of Matterns here finally decided it didn't matter, anyway. They all will send their clothes to Frau Ida Bernd of Schfittweiler, Germany.

Chevy Chase Man Freed Under Bail In Death of Wife

West Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP).—Oswald Schreiner, jr., 38, former Department of Commerce employe from Chevy Chase, Md., was released under $3000 bond yesterday on a second-degree murder charge in the death of his wife.

Sheriff John Kirk said an autopsy showed Mrs. Katherine Schreiner, 37, died of suffocation in their trailer at Briney Breezes, seaside community near Boynton Beach, Sunday night.

Kirk said Schreiner told how he grappled with his wife Sunday night, forced her back upon her bunk and held a pillow over her face until she grew quiet. She was dead when he awoke Monday.

John Needed Real Pal And Gets Right One

John had appealed for a dog because he needed a pal. John is 14 years old, but he's just 42 inches tall and weighs only 40 pounds. That makes it tough to play with other kids his own age. So John asked for a dog.

"Just tell them my condition," he said. "Tell them that I can't play like the big boys."

Mrs. B. B. Hicks of Memphis, Tenn., saw his picture in a local newspaper, read his story and gave him his dog.

Four Marines Still In China Reds' Hands

Tsingtao, China (Thursday), Feb. 26 (AP).—The United States Navy reported today that no progress has been made in attempts to secure release of four American marines captured by Chinese Communists two months ago.

A fifth marine was fatally wounded when the four were captured.

Admiral Oscar C. Badger, new commander of the United States Western Pacific Fleet, said he was "very deeply concerned" over the fate of the four enlisted men.

Army Project Funds Approved by House

606 Millions Voted for Waterworks And Other Nonmilitary Construction

The House yesterday voted $606,558,766 for flood control, river and harbor improvement and other nonmilitary activities of the Army during the 12 months beginning next July 1.

The bill, earmarking funds for scores of projects in all parts of the Nation, was passed by voice vote exactly as it was written in the Appropriations Committee.

It now goes to the Senate.

The House shouted down several efforts to amend the bill from the floor. Among them was a "rider" by Representative John W. Heselton (R., Mass.), which would make it illegal for any Federal building to convert its heating units from coal to oil or gas, during the current shortage of those fuels.

Included in the bill is $19,476,313 for the Panama Canal, which is nearly four million dollars less than President Truman asked, and $1,099,687 less than this year's appropriation.

Representative John Kerr (D., N. C.), told the House the Appropriations Committee slashed the canal fund because "we cannot see our way clear to authorize new construction on a site which may eventually be abandoned."

Representative Harve Tibbott (R., Pa.), said "we must face the fact the canal is vulnerable and could be wiped out in short order by a determined attack."

The committee itself had said in its report on the bill that it deleted construction funds for the canal on the ground that its vital installations "cannot be adequately defended."

Use of Surplus Funds For Va. Schools Urged

Fredericksburg, Va., Feb. 26 (Spl.).—Dr. Robert F. Williams, executive secretary of the Virginia Education Association, has called for conditional appropriations from the State's surplus funds to meet expanding school needs.

Speaking before the Fredericksburg Teachers Association last night, he pointed out that there were 3000 substandard teachers in Virginia. He urged a 275-million-dollar building program, replacement of obsolete buses and retirement and sick leave systems for the State.

Montgomery Votes Employe Pension Plan

A pension and retirement plan for 300 Montgomery County government employes, but not school teachers and policemen, was adopted yesterday by the county commissioners.

The action was taken at a special meeting in the Rockville Court House by a 4-0 vote, with Commissioner I. Sauter refusing to vote on the grounds there had been insufficient time to study other plans.

The program is the same used by the State government, and provides for optional retirement at 60 and mandatory retirement at 70. It also includes disability provisions. The plan will cost the county government $43,000 the first year of operation.

Participation is optional for present employes, but all employes hired after Monday will be required to join.

Officials said eight employes 70 or over would be retired automatically when the plan goes into effect.

Milk Buyers Urge Hike In Price; Dealer Agrees

Leesburg, Va., Feb. 26 (Spl.).—The price of milk finally went up here, but it was the customer who asked for the increase.

Raymond J. Fawley, who delivers milk to his 60 customers in a horse-drawn wagon, had been selling milk for 10 cents a quart since 1930. At the insistence of the buyers, he hiked the charge to 15 cents, and everyone is happy about the whole thing.

W. B. Evans Appointed

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 26 (AP).—Chief Judge Ogle Marbury of the Court of Appeals announced today the appointment of William Bruce Evans of Elkton as a court law clerk. Evans is nephew of former Judge James F. Evans of the Second Judicial District.

New Reception Center

Williamsburg, Va., Feb. 26 (Spl.).—The new temporary reception center here will be opened Monday morning at 9 a. m. The center, which includes an auditorium and space for exhibits, will be used for "briefing" visitors to the colonial capital before tours of the city.

2 Named to Vote Board

Winchester, Va., Feb. 26 (Spl.).—Vincent Hollis and Richard K. Eddy have been appointed to the Winchester electoral board. They succeed J. V. Arthur and Mrs. Corrine Barnett. Harry Copenhaver is the third member of the board.

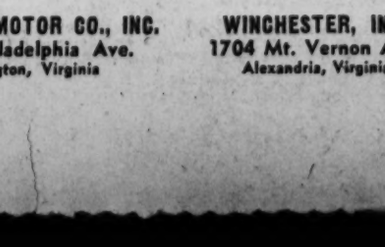
Great News
for every motorist who breathes!



Just turn the dial to the warmth you want! Packard fresh-air warmth is automatically controlled, and circulated evenly throughout the car. Now, even the car floor is warm . . and there's no heavy heat at shoulder level to make drivers feel drowsy.

Complete change of air once a minute! Even with windows closed, Packard ventilation eliminates stale air and odors. At least once every minute, Packard gives you a complete change of fresh air, whether the car is moving or standing still!

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE

In winter—it keeps car air automatically at the desired temperature . . . with a gentle blanket of warmth instead of the old-style blast of heat. It circulates warmth fore and aft, side to side. Does away with window-fogging problems. Gives you a complete change of air once a minute!

On rainy days—it picks dry, fresh air right out of the mist . . . keeps interiors crisp and windows clear.

WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1948

Chief of Staff, Mrs. Bradley Are Honored

GEN. OMAR BRADLEY, Chief of Staff, and Mrs. Bradley were guests of honor at a dinner last evening given by members of the Sulgrave Club.

The lower floor of the club had been turned into a cocktail lounge and upstairs small flower-decked tables filled the ballroom and spilled over into the adjoining rooms.

Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone, chairman of the board of the club, and Mrs. Edward Meigs, vice chairman, were among those seated at the head table with the guests of honor.

Among those entertaining guests were Gen. and Mrs. Clifford Corbin, Col. and Mrs. Charles F. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hurja and Mr. and Mrs. James L. Houghteling.

With General and Mrs. Corbin were Gen. and Mrs. Conger Pratt, Gen. and Mrs. C. A. Hardigg, Mrs. Henry Corbin, Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, Col. Clare Hardy and William Littauer.

The Deputy Chief of Staff, Gen. J. Lawton Collins, old friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hurja, were among their dinner guests. Others included Gen. and Mrs. A. C. Wedemeyer, Admiral and Mrs. Clark Woodward, Col. Marshall Exnicios, Mrs. George Mesta, and Mr. and Mrs. William MacCracken.

Colonel and Mrs. Martin entertained the Greek Ambassador and Mme. Dendramis, Senator and Mrs. Robert Taft, Senator and Mrs. Ralph Flanders, Senator Theodore Green, Senator Arthur Capper, the Australian Minister, Alfred Stirling and his sister, Miss Dorothy Stirling; Mrs. Albert J. Bowley, Gen. and Mrs. Henry Sayler, Col. and Mrs. Frank Morrow and Mrs. Charles McNary.

Following dinner a United States official Army film, "The True Glory," was shown.

Russian Envoy Entertains

THE Russian Ambassador, Alexander S. Panyushkin, who serves as representative of the Soviet Union on the Far Eastern Commission, entertained at cocktails yesterday afternoon for members of the commission.

The guests included the Ambassador of Canada and Mrs. Wrong, the Ambassador of China and Mme. Koo, the Ambassador of India, Asaf Ali, and Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, chairman of the Far Eastern Commission.

Mrs. St. Lewis Entertains

MRS. ROY ST. LEWIS entertained at tea yesterday for ladies only.

Assisting the hostess serving tea and chocolate were Mrs. William S. Culbertson, Mrs. Parker West, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann and Mrs. John Allan Dougherty.

Among those who dropped in during the afternoon were Mrs. C. C. Clark, mother of Gen. Mark Clark; Mrs. Charles O. Others were Mrs. Clark Woodward, Mrs. Benjamin Dorsey, Miss Josephine Roche, the first woman to be appointed Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. Miss Roche is here from New York.

Mrs. Diana Taylor Hatch, pretty young daughter of the hostess, assisted her mother.

Senator Cooper Honored

JOHN SHERMAN COOPER, junior Senator of Kentucky, was the guest in whose honor former Representative from Kentucky, Maurice H. Thatcher and Mrs Thatcher, entertained at dinner last evening at the Congressional Club.

Other guests were Senator and Mrs. Owen Brewster, Representative and Mrs. Thurston B. Morton, Representative and Mrs. W. Howes Meade, and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann.

Gen., Mrs. Clark Entertain

A SMALL dinner party was given last evening by the Attorney General and Mrs. Thomas Campbell Clark at their apartment on Connecticut ave.

Mrs. Ethridge's Eyes, Ears

Eleni Finds Herself a Heroine As Symbol of Greece's Courage

By Peggy Preston

SITTING up in her hospital bed a couple of weeks ago, Eleni Angelopoulou came upon a cure which her doctors had failed to recommend.

She opened a new book entitled, "It's Greek to Me"—and there she was the "heroine" of the first 150 pages. True, it was no great surprise to Eleni, a charming Greek woman who came to this country on a United Nations Fellowship six months ago and sustained a back injury recently which put her into a local hospital for a fortnight. She knew she was to be mentioned in the book, written by Mrs. Mark Ethridge, describing the latter's trip to Greece and the Balkans. But Eleni didn't expect to get such a great "lift" from it.

"It made me well again," exclaims Eleni, who is now on the road to recovery and ready to return to her homeland. "But it did three other things as well. It made me homesick; very sad, and it made me laugh!"

This dark-haired, humorous woman with wonderful brown eyes, became the close friend and companion of Willie Snow Ethridge when the author visited Greece. Mrs. Ethridge introduces her in the book with the following paragraph:

She Saved a Village

"Our traveling companion was a young Greek woman named Eleni Angelopoulou, and she was somebody special. During the war she was a volunteer nurse with the International Red Cross, and she was up daily before dawn, traveling by jeep from village to village, distributing milk to the children of Greece. Once, by her resourcefulness, she even saved a town from being burned by the Germans."

For the next few hundred pages it is practically Eleni's story. The conviviality, determination and stamina of this new-found friend so impressed Mrs. Ethridge that she used her as eyes and ears. In Eleni and her work, the author found the symbol of Greek character and its driving purpose to find peace in order that the country may rise from its ruins.

Eleni Angelopoulou is in this country to study child welfare agencies. In her homeland she has engaged in work to aid children since 1940 when war first came to Greece. In 1944 she became affiliated with the Children's Division, Far East Foundation, and has lived constantly in the war devastated provinces rounding up thousands of homeless children. Feeding stations were set up for youngsters from burned villages; hostels built to house them temporarily.

Now additional thousands of refugee children are pouring down from the troubled areas of northern Greece, and Queen Frederica has called on her countrymen to double their contributions to the child welfare fund. Seven new children's towns have been set up under the Queen's plan, providing haven for about 3500 little refugees.

Eleni is desperately concerned with the future of these youngsters.

Must Save Children

"We must save them," she explains in her halting English. "If we do not Greece can have no future." Untold numbers have been slain in the past eight years; most of those who have survived are suffering from malnutrition. Some have never laughed or played with a toy or sang a song.

Eleni wants to teach them to sing. "What kind of citizens will they be if they grow up songless?" she wants to know.

In her tour of five Southern States, reporters and officials have asked her what she has learned in this country that she can apply to the child welfare program in Greece.

She shakes her head sadly and replies: "Very little, for the present. Here you have efficient organizations, plannings, funds, and most of all, plenty of time.

"But in my country we are still, as you say, in an emergency. We think only of food, clothing and shelter. Our only plan yet is to pull the babies out of caves and give them shelter.

"Greece cannot start reconstruction yet. But when the real peace comes, then I will remember what I have learned in America, and there will be much that I can do."

Eleni's eyes dance when she speaks of her friend, Mrs. Ethridge, and the latter's Kentucky home where she has been a guest on two occasions.

"I lost my heart in Kentucky," she sighs. "But that Willie—daring to name her book 'It's Greek to Me.' She knows Greece and the Greeks as well as any foreigner can. That is because she is simple, sympathetic. My people loved her because she loved them. She came to us with the big, open heart!"

ELENI ANGELOPOULOU, heroine in the book "It's Greek To Me," by Willie Snow Ethridge, leafs through the newly published volum . in her hotel room here. Miss Angelopoulou, who has been in this country on a United Nations fellowship, is returning soon to her native Greece

Pretty Penny Edwards Follows Stretching Routine to Beauty

By Ida Jean Kain

Meet the most exercise-minded gal in the movies, pretty Penny Edwards, who romps through exercises betweens takes on the set . . just to keep the kinks out. Penny is a honey blonde with blue eyes, and looks as fragile as a Dresden doll. But I'll bet the Marines would back down on the set-ups this doll takes . . .

You might like to see how far you can go along with her. Just as a test of suppleness, do the old standby of bending over to touch fingers to the floor, knees straight. If you can do that with the greatest of ease, straighten up, stretch arms above head, pull slim through the midriff, then, bending over, touch palms flat to the floor . . . no fair bending knees.

Still with us? Good! Now feet together, bend down, knees straight, and touch fingers to the backs of the ankles. That's quite a stretch. Don't crumple up in the middle or let knees sag.

Those were just warm-ups—here is the real test. Do a neat split, then bend sidewards and touch right fingers to left toes . . . as if you didn't have a bone in your body. If you can do that acrobatic stunt, you are one in 10,000 and chances are you already have a million-dollar figure.

Stand on knees, stretch arms high overhead and pull slim, head up. Now stretch the left leg straight out to the side and bend agilely to the right . . . go on over until you're in a straight line . . . let right hand drop down to floor for support, and s-t-r-e-t-c-h all through the midmuscles, pushing the left hand out as far as possible. That's a thoroughgoing stretch. Try it along the other side. No bulge can hold out against that puller-offer. Relax. Four times, alternating sides, is enough for softies.

Penny adds back-bends, and such, in her spare time. I'm just telling this to show you that the exercises given in this column are no trick at all. They're a breeze!

No wonder Warner Brothers think Penny's from heaven! When you see her in "Two Guys From Texas," just remember a figure that looks that lovely on the screen is perfect, for the camera does not flatter figures . . . it adds bulk.

Merrick Club Has Anniversary Luncheon Party

The Committee for Merrick Girls Camp, an auxiliary of the Christ Child Society, celebrated its first anniversary yesterday at a luncheon meeting at Kennedy-Warren Apartments.

Mrs. Joseph C. Monaghan was installed president of the charity organization to succeed Mrs. Marshall Johnson. Others who took office yesterday include Mrs. Frank Paroni, vice president; Mrs. Raymond C. Kirchner, secretary; Mrs. John F. Greaney, treasurer, and Mrs. Levin P. Handy, chairman of the Christ Child Board Committee who manages the camp.

Guest speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. Margaret O'Donoghue executive secretary of the Christ Child Society.

The committee last year raised enough funds to send 200 girls to the summer camp for two weeks. This year's goal is $5000. The camp is in Wild Rose Shores, Annapolis, Md.

Ask Anne

Your Question On Homemaking

Can you give me some interesting ideas as to refreshments, games and dances for a teen-age leap-year party?

The main idea at leap-year parties is for the girls to take the initiative—invite the boys, arrange to call for them, bring them boutonneires open doors, hold coats, and otherwise extend all the polite courtesies usually provided by a masculine escort.

"Blind Love" is a good game to start off the dancing. The girls are blindfolded one at a time and cross the room to the other side where the boys are grouped. The first boy the girl touches is her partner for the dance. "Prince Charming's Shoe" is another stunt for choosing dancing partners. The boys take off one shoe each and pile the shoes in the center of the room. The girls come in and pick out a shoe. The owner of the shoe then becomes her partner for a dance. Needless to say, the girls instead of the boys do the cutting-in at a leap-year dance.

For refreshments, arrange all the makings for sandwiches—bread, sliced meats, cheese, peanut butter, lettuce, mayonnaise and other fillings—on a table. Then the girls can make sandwiches for the boys according to their specifications.

I have been looking with no success for a console cabinet for a radio phonograph combination. I wonder if you could tell me where I might find one? I do not care whether it is new or not, in fact, I would prefer a used one. B. K. L.

Shops which do radio repair, occasionally have a cabinet from a radio which has been turned in and for which they have no further use. The owner of such a shop has suggested that you discuss your problem with a repair man in your area, telling him the type radio you have so he will know what type cabinet is needed. It may take a while for a cabinet which meets your needs to turn up, but this seems the best way to locate one. Another way to get a cabinet would be to have a cabinet maker build one to your specifications, but, of course, this would be much more expensive than a used one.

We have a great deal of bacon and ham fat. Can you or your readers give us some recipes in which rendered, clarified fat can be used? O. T. F.

Drippings of ham and bacon fat, because of their distinctive flavors, can add much to foods. Use it to make cream sauce for escalloped and creamed vegetable dishes and as a flavor for greens and strong-flavored vegetables such as broccoli and cabbage. Use it for shortening in biscuits, waffles, corn bread, muffins, crust for meat pies. Use it for shortening in highly flavored foods such as gingerbread, spiced cookies, even chocolate cake. When using reclaimed fat in the above suggested recipes, use the same amount as is recommended for fat in your favorite recipe.

Heating the fat over low heat and adding several slices of raw potatoes will help to remove some of the flavor so that the fat may be used in less highly flavored baking and wherever fats are needed. Be very sure not to heat the fat to the smoking point. Also, once used fat becomes rancid more quickly than fresh fat, so plan to keep it refrigerated and use it as quickly as possible.

To bleach wood, apply oxalic acid solution (1 or 2 ounces oxalic acid crystals to 1 pint hot water). Apply to unfinished wood with a brush or cloth and let stand 15 minutes. Wash with weak ammonia solution to remove all of the acid. Or, use a commercial wood bleach, following the directions which come with the bleach.

A BROILED ham slice such as this makes regal eating, particularly when it is accompanied by hot queen fritters. Make them with a cream puff batter as follows: Add ½ cup lard and 1 teaspoon salt to 1 cup water and bring to a boil. Add 1 cup flour and stir vigorously until a ball forms in the center of the pan. Cool. Add 4 eggs, unbeaten, one at a time, beating after each addition until the mixture is smooth. The mixture should be very stiff. Drop by teaspoonfuls into deep, hot lard (365 deg. F.) and fry until delicately browned. Serve hot with jelly and ham. The recipe makes 4 dozen small fritters

Ham, Grapefruit Best Buys On This Week's Market Memo

By Lucia Brown

SMOKED PORK rates high among the best buys for main dishes this weekend, with the rosy, succulent meat available in a variety of forms . . . whole hams, half hams, either butt or shank end; ham slices, picnic shoulders, boneless shoulder butts and Canadian style bacon. Charges for these items continue reasonable, despite the fact that fresh pork prices are edging higher.

WHOLE HAMS make a grand buy for the sizable family because they offer such a convenient way to keep cooked meat on hand, ready for serving at any time. The ham can make its first appearance hot, perhaps with red gelatin molds around its edge. Repeat meals can include cold sliced ham, pan-fried ham slices for breakfast, creamed ham for a luncheon, and ham loaf for a dinner. Buying half hams or big, cross-wise slices are two good ways for the small family to enjoy the flavor of good cured pork. The thinner slices of ham, 1-inch thick or under, are best when pan-broiled . . . while the slices over 1 inch are better broiled or baked in a shallow pan with a small amount of liquid.

CHEAPER THAN they've been in years are Florida white grapefruit. Some bargain vegetables are coming from Florida, too . . . lettuce, which is about half what it was a month ago, and green cabbage. Texas spinach is recovering from the freeze down there. What's on the market now looks much nicer and is priced better generally than last weekend. Carrots are arriving from both Arizona and California and are a few cents a bunch cheaper. The freeze in south Texas and Florida has played havoc with some vegetables, though. Many acres of beans and broccoli were damaged . . . which means the supply is less and the price considerably higher.

Vinsons Feted At Embassy Dinner Party

The Mexican Ambassador and Senora de Espinosa de los Monteros were dinner hosts last night, entertaining in honor of Chief Justice and Mrs. Fred Vinson.

Others in the company were Mme. Bonnet, wife of the French Ambassador; the Chinese Ambassador and Mme. Wellington Koo, former Undersecretary of State and Mrs. Dean Acheson, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Biffle, Manuel J. Sierra of the Mexican Treasury Department and Senora de Sierra; the Mexican Minister and Senora de la Colina, the Counselor of the Mexican Embassy and Senora de Fernandez MacGregor and Dr. Jorge Rice, brother of the hostess.

Symphony Row Still Seethes

Chicago Busily Attends Fashion Shows, Dines Amid Flower Banked Walls

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

CHICAGO, Ill.—Mists are drizzling in from Lake Michigan and it is fine sinus weather in Chicago. Pepups to midwinter doldrums are rafts of fashion shows given by the more socially leisured ladies, excitement over the impending gubernatorial campaign

RODZINSKI

Chicago's music world whose wealthy social patrons have dropped opera completely, is still a-tingle over the firing of Symphony Orchestra Conductor Arthur Rodzinski. During a concert intermission the press were summoned suddenly to the trustees' office, handed a letter authorized by Committee Chairman Edward Ryerson.

No explanations were given as Mr. Ryerson had tactfully taken off for the Philippines the previous day. But basically Rodzinski's determination to move the orchestra from Orchestra Hall to the much larger auditorium was too grandiose to suit the conservative committee. Next season's orchestra leadership problem has been solved by engaging half a dozen guest conductors.

Society Goes Leaderless

SOCIALLY Chicago is without leadership. The imposing dowagers who ruled the roost in prewar days have lapsed into limbo land. The elder Mrs. Potter Palmer doesn't give a fig for society. Mrs. Arthur Meeker lives in California and Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman is staying home, busy writing her memoirs. Mrs. Palmer, incidentally, already has started rebuilding Hare Forest, her home, which was destroyed in the Bar Harbor fire. It's to be much smaller than the original building, and David Adler, Chicago architect, has made the plans. Out in Lake Forest, Chicago's snappiest suburb, there's a mild stalemate, taxes spiralling, living costs are taking their toll. The great houses are too expensive to run full tilt, yet few are willing to sell, much less admit social unknowns within the sacred precincts.

MRS. ARMOUR 3D

Most interesting real estate transaction is the resale of the late Mrs. William E. Clow, jr.'s, lovely modern house to Mrs. Thorne Donnelly, whose convenient income comes from the Donnelly Press. After "Boo" Clow's death her house was sold to the Peter Moons.

Rated as Chicago's smartest dressed are Mrs. Philip D. Armour, jr., Mrs. A. Watson Armour 3d and Mrs. Brooks McCormick. Mrs. Philip Armour is the former Julie Biddle Henry of Philadelphia, and her husband, who is extremely gadget conscious, is one of the first in town to own a mobile telephone, lists it in the directory. To contact young Armour as he whizzes along in his car you give his number to the long distance mobile operator. Mrs. Watson Armour 3d was born Jean Schweppe, daughter of a top Marshall Field executive.

Political Talk Fills Air

ILLINOIS Governor Dwight Green is a Republican and next election contender for his job is, the Democrats hope, Adlai Stevenson. Stevenson once toiled in the State Department. The Stevensons have three sons, live on a Libertyville farm, and are admired by almost everyone. Mrs. Stevenson is campaigning like mad. She's the former Ellen Borden, a daughter of the second and present Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, and her father was the second of Courtney Letts Espils' three husbands.

LAUREN BACALL

On the dining-out side, the Sarah Siddons Walk, an adjunct of the Ambassador's famous Pump Room, is Chicago's newest sensation. It's an oblong room seating a mere hundred and has a flower-banked mirrored wall which is trickily lit to produce an optical illusion of limitless garden vistas.. Owner Ernest Byfield, who thought up the luxurious Pump Room, supposedly patterned after the spa at Bath, spent regardlessly to make his new effort exciting. He's imported a five-foot-four carved wooden footman which once stood in Bath, ordered a fine statue of Actress Sarah Siddons. For the price paid for the wooden footman Ernie estimates he could hire a live one at union wages and have him stand motionless for two years.

Incidentally, the Pump Room coffee boys are rigged out in costumes topped with plumed white satin turbans. Lauren Bacall, stopping by, was so entranced she coaxed Mr. B. to have one made up for her butler. The Bacall-Bogart dinners should certainly be colorful affairs. Not so long ago Ernie Byfield married again, this time the attractive three-times-married Adele Sharp Thomas.

Night Life Droops

CHICAGO night life has the droops. Earlier closings, high liquor prices are reputedly responsible, and nobody know where former well-heeled customers hole in for evening entertainment. However those who have sufficient strength and coin may step out to 909 where an obliging gent sings any of a thousand songs on request, or drop in at the Airliner where there's a wonderful Dixie orchestra, or stop by Ciro's after hours when the initiated, guided by a man with a searchlight, can sneak through supposedly barred double doors and like happy speak-easy days find everything going full blast.

Scholarships To Be Awarded Young Artists

Washington Chapter of the National Society of Arts and Letters is now accepting entries for its annual art scholarships, with competition open to all public high school graduates.

First prize is a $1000 scholarship from the Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney Trust Fund. Two scholarships to Corcoran Art School covering tuition and materials will also be awarded.

The society's art committee has not yet decided on the school for the first-place scholarship. Last year's winner, Wilma McAtee, is studying at Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts.

Entrance blanks may be obtained in the art departments of all public high schools. Preliminary judging will be done by the society's art committee, which includes Mrs. Naomi Rabb Winston, Mrs. M. Robert Guggenheim and Mrs. James McM. Gibson.

Final judging will take place at an all-city exhibition in April in one of the high schools. Final awards will be made by a committee of eminent artists.

At Lake Success

Mrs. J. Parker Van Zandt is in New York this week attending meetings of the Economic and Social Council and the Security Council at Lake Success. A charter member of the speaker's research committee for the United Nations, Mrs. Van Zandt will attend the committee's luncheon at the Pennsylvania Hotel on Saturday before returning to her apartment at the Westchester.

We have recently moved into a house that has a flagstone floor laid in concrete in the combined living room and dining room. Some of the stones have very pretty colors in them, but in having the ceiling replastered, a great deal of plaster was spilled on the floor, leaving many white spots which haven't come up with scrubbing. Also, it is very difficult to rinse all the soapy water off the floor and when it dries it gives the surface a powdery white, somewhat streaked appearance. Can you suggest anything I might use to clean the floor to bring out the color of the stones? We have tried unsuccessfully to find some way to have the floor sanded or ground to a smooth finish. Is there any one in Washington who might do this work? R. B. F.

To remove the white spots of plaster, moisten the floor with a solution of one part muriatic (hydrochloric) acid in 20 parts of water. This solution should soften the plaster so it can be brushed off with a stiff brush. If necessary the application can be repeated. After cleaning, neutralize the acid remaining on the surface with ammonia. Rinse thoroughly with clear water. Muriatic acid has a corrosive effect, so when it is used, wear rubber gloves, old clothes and shoes.

When the stains have been removed, scrub the floor with warm water containing liquid wax. Use ½ pint liquid wax to 12 quarts water. Rinse. The white deposit comes from the alkali in the soap. Using wax in the wash water will eliminate this. The colors of the stones can be enriched, by applying a coat of liquid wax when the stones are clean and thoroughly dry. When the wax is dry, buff well with a stiff brush.

Several applications of wax will build up a protective coat on the floor and this will help to keep it clean.

Look in the yellow pages of the telephone directory under "Tile" for a tile repairman and discuss the advisability of smoothing the floor with such a firm. Usually the floors are smoothed as much as is necessary when they are laid and treating them as suggested above is all that is necessary to make them attractive and easily cared for.

What can I do to remove scorch from an aqua-colored cotton curtain fabric? The scorch did not go clear through the material but I have used a solution of oxalic acid and also hydrogen peroxide and that only improves it slightly. Is there anything else I can use?—B.M.P.

Sometimes washing the article in soap and water, drying and then placing in the sun for a day or two will remove light scorch marks. However, since many blues fade easily, you run the risk of damaging the color. Since you have used hydrogen peroxide and it didn't affect the color, try this treatment: Cover the stain with a white cloth over the dampened one and press with a medium warm iron. If the top cloth becomes moist, replace with a dry cloth. Ironing directly on the dampened cloth or stain will cause rust stains. This treatment can be repeated until the stain is removed. Rinse well.

Care of the Wrist Watch

Remove the wrist watch when washing the hands to avoid water getting on the inside.

Have the watch overhauled at least once a year to remove dried-up oil and dirt.

Don't wear the watch when doing laborious work, as a severe jar or dropping the watch will bend the axle, causing the watch to run irregularly.

Southland's Maid of Cotton Headed Here

Capital Plans Ball, Fashion Show, Parties To Honor Miss Matilda Nail of Texas

The Maid of Cotton is headed toward Washington, clad in fine raiment that had its origin in the cotton fields of her native Southland.

This year's maid, Miss Matilda Nail of Fort Worth, Tex., will reach our city March 10 for a round of festivities in her honor that will culminate with a Cotton Ball at the Shoreham Hotel. Modeling cotton fashions, she is currently touring 30 cities in this country and after she leaves Washington will fly to Paris and England.

Her entire wardrobe is of cotton. This includes 25 garments made by leading American designers; hats, gloves, shoes and bags. Even the luggage which will wing with her across the Atlantic is of plastic coated cotton.

"The Maid," fashion ambassador of the American cotton industry, visits here each spring. She wins her title in a contest, sponsored by the National Cotton Council, and judged by a panel consisting of designers, newspaper editors and representatives of the cotton industry.

Must Be Pretty

She must be pretty, personable and fashion-wise; unmarried and between the ages of 19 and 25. In addition, she must have been born in one of the 18 cotton-producing States.

Miss Nail, who was named this year's Maid, is the daughter of Mr and Mrs. W. R. Nail of Fort Worth. She is a graduate of Edgewood Park, Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., and is now a sophomore at the University of Texas, where she is a pledge to Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority.

A tall (5 feet 9½ inches) young woman, Matilda is the perfect model for 1948's full, swinging fashions. During her stay in Washington she will be star of a fashion show preceding the ball in her honor.

In preparation for her role, Matilda flew to New York shortly after her selection on January 6. There her all-cotton wardrobe was assembled and she was given training in modeling, makeup and fashion. Her instructor was Candy Jones, wife of the model agency head, Harry Conover.

To Visit Paris

Matilda is due in Paris March 16, where she will don her best cotton ensemble and visit the salons of Dior, Schiaparelli, Heim and Balmain. She will also tour Le Havre, chief cotton-importing port of France, and Rouen, cotton-weaving center.

On March 22 she will fly to Manchester, England, to be the guest of that city's Cotton Board. After a brief stop in London, she will return to Paris and hence back to America. Climax of her exciting itinerary will be the Memphis Cotton Carnival in May when a traditional round of parades, pageantry and parties on the banks of the Mississippi will pay special honor to Cotton's High Princess.

Allens Have Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Fell Allen of Alexandria, Va., announce the birth of a daughter, Mildred Lynard Joyce, on February 23 at the Alexandria Hospital. Mrs. Allen is the former Miss Lynard Allen of Sarasota, Fla., and Greenwich, Conn.

The baby is the granddaughter of Mrs. Frederick Fell Allen of Locust Grove, Orange County Va., and of Mrs. S. James Joyce of Sarasota. Mr. and Mrs. Allen's first child is Mary Marshall Allen.

ALL set and ready to go in cocoa brown cotton corduroy suit, the Maid of Cotton poses with her travel cases. The three-piece set is of pyroxilyn-coated cotton canvas, in a brown and white check pattern

COTTON in a quaint mood is modeled by Matilda Nail, Maid of Cotton. Louella Ballerino designed it, calls it a "square dance" dress. Fabric is calico print. Double bustle bows in back point up a small waist, while the skirt accents its yards and yards of hemline with a seersucker petticoat

Your Baby and Mine

Shy Child Should Make Own Advances

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

There are persons who have a peculiar talent for handling children successfully and seem to know exactly what to do to put them at their ease. But the talent is by no means universal, and there are fully as many, or more, who are thick-skinned about a child and his feelings.

Such persons do not seem to recognize that most children have no desire to be pounced on and made over by strangers. However kindly a child may feel toward adults, his attitude toward strangers is apt to be one of suspicion. This is increased and fear added if he finds himself the victim of those affection-hungry individuals who have no way of exoressing their emotions except to hug and kiss helpless children.

Grandparents are often upset when their grandchildren fail to show adequate responses to their affectionate overtures. They feel aggrieved when they kiss a child and he pulls away and refuses to reciprocate.

It is always safe with any child, one's own or those of strangers, to wait until the child himself makes the sociable advances. Let the adult sit calmly, showing an interest in the child and all he is doing, answering questions readily, but making no effort to grab the child or demand personal attention.

With such tactics the child's courage rises. The interest is flattering. No one is trying to make him do anything. The result is that the child will soon be advancing toward the visitor, anxious to play, eager to display his toys and treasures.

Even grandparents would do well to give an affectionate greeting and then wait for the child to warm up and begin swarming over them.

Never Feel Blue About Blue

Many women are not sure which of the many costume colors appearing in the 1948 fashion parade they should select to augment their own natural complexion and hair coloring. Some shade of blue is the safest bet for all women, according to Max Factor, jr., Hollywood's makeup authority for the screen stars.

In his makeup laboratory researches, the film capital's beauty stylist has analyzed and classified all shades and colors as they relate to the complementing of feminine appearances, and has found that blue is femininity's ace-in-the-hole color, because some of its shades are sure to provide a flattering factor for every complexion type known.

Mr. Factor says that there are more than 200 definite shades of blue, and that nearly half of these will always suit any individual combination of feminine complexion, eye, and hair coloring.

Toddler Set's Coats Flare In '48 Manner

The time has come, says My Baby and Young Years Magazine, to talk about spring coats for your toddlers and kindergarten children.

This year you will find an abundance of styles. You'll even find "the new look" in three to six-year-old coats.

Obviously little girls are not going to ape subdebs with calf-length coats, but they will appear dashing and teenish in coats with swing backs, hoods and martial shoulder capes. Some of these coats are gored from the shoulder with all of the 1948 interest held frankly to the back, with the front simple and classic. Others hug pert little figures to the waistline and let the skirts flare with a swish. Some double-breasted coats pose pockets at a cinched waistline, and lend an almost padded hip effect, with childish charm all their own.

Look to hems in coats and cuff bottoms. Again the "coat that grows" offers patented "let out" features with a pull of a thread. Ask for 100 per cent virgin wool to be sure of quality in appearance and wear. Linings still do not measure up to coat fabrics generally. Turn the garment you examine inside out. Inspect the lining. Many linings are rayon satin of a quality that good manufacturers lament, but with diligent search you can find some fine earglo linings.

On the Washington Club Front . . .

Mrs. James B. Weschsler, counsel for the President's committee on Civil Rights, will discuss "Civil Rights" at a meeting sponsored by the legislation and resolutions committees of the civics section, Woman's Club of Chevy Chase, Md., Friday, March 5, 2 p. m., at the clubhouse, Dunlop and Connecticut ave.

A resume of her experience as a woman juror will be given by Mrs. Frederick M. Kerby, past president of the club. Following the program, which was arranged by Mrs. Samuel A. Towe, an informal tea, under the direction of Mrs. Anthony R. Gould, will be held.

Husbands and escorts of members are being invited to the drama section's program, scheduled for Wednesday, March 3, 8 p. m., when Dr. James A. Magner, procurator of Catholic University, will review his book, "Personality and Successful Living."

The art section will continue its study of Chinese art when it has its annual gallery tour on Thursday, March 4, at the Freer Gallery of Art, in Washington. John A. Pope, assistant director of the gallery, will speak on Chinese bronzes and paintings in the auditorium, and will then conduct the group through the galleries to see the pieces on display.

The club's craftroom is a busy place this month, with metal workers and other craftsmen preparing for an exhibit of their work at the regular club luncheon meeting in March. A sketch group has also been formed, and meets in the craftroom Monday mornings at 10 o'clock.

Women's Peace Committee Sponsors Bridge-Tea

The Women's Action Committee for Lasting Peace will sponsor a bridge tea today at 3 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Frederick Mitchell Gould, 3120 Woodland dr.

Mrs. Irving Gumbel and Miss Utah Grey Smith are cochairmen in charge of arrangements for this tea, planned to help finance the Women's Action Committee's radio transcription program. Mrs. Lilian T. Mowrer, local WACLP chairman and Mrs. Richard Harkness, vice chairman, will pour.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Ben Hall Lambe, national radio chairman, proceeds of the event will help finance the distribution of WACLP transcriptions of talks by national leaders. Recordings of WACLP programs broadcast over Station WINX, the transcriptions include talks by Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, William Clayton and Dr. Milton Eisenhower.

Alexandria YWCA Slates Musicale

Featured artists at the Sunday musicale at the Alexandria YWCA on Sunday, February 29, will be Margaret Frank Garthoff, soprano; Virginia Hale Cater, pianist, with Jean Slater Appel, accompanist.

Mrs. Garthoff will sing a group of Indian songs, for which she will wear a sari. For the second group she will wear a costume sent to her from Damascus. Her third group, of selections will include sacred songs.

Mrs. Cater's piano solos will include numbers from the works of Liszt, Beethoven, Schumann and Brahms.

Ladies of the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church will be hostesses at tea following the musical program. Mrs. Harry Cable and Miss Doris Green will preside at the tea table. Chairman for the tea will be Mrs. Edwin Johnson.

Sisterhood Plans Aid For Needy Overseas

The Sisterhood of the Washington Hebrew Congregation have dedicated their March meeting, which is to be held at 1:30, Monday, March 1, in the vestry of the temple to service for overseas survivors and displaced persons. Mrs. Martin Baum, vice president, will preside in the absence of Mrs. Norman Gerstenfeld, president.

The program will be under the direction of Mrs. Paul Lynn Heller, SOS chairman for the sisterhood. Principal speaker will be Joel D. Wolfsohn, former associate director of land management for the Interior Department and now European director of the American-Jewish Committee.

Mrs. Nat Levy, general chairman for the District of Columbia, will give the opening prayer. Chairmen representing the other sisterhoods in Washington will be honored guests. A brief message will be given by Mrs. Edward Cafritz, chairman of the Women's Division of the United Jewish Appeal. Members of the sisterhood and their friends are urged to bring or send bundles of clothing for men, women and children; canned foods and medical supplies for overseas shipment.

E. L. Bartlett to Address Silver Spring Woman's Club

E. L. Bartlett, Alaskan Delegate to Congress, will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Silver Spring Woman's Club at 11 a. m., Wednesday, March 3, in the Woodside Methodist Church, 8814 Georgia ave. Mr. Bartlett will speak on life in Alaska and the problem of Statehood. Another feature of the meeting will be a food shower for a family in Portsmouth, England. Good used clothing is also desired for the same family. Members wishing information regarding the specific items needed should call Mrs. Ronald Mighell, chairman of the welfare department, at Sligo 1479.

Mrs. H. Brooks Perring will be in charge of the luncheon. She will be assisted by Mrs. Warner E. Pumphrey, Mrs. E. Prangley, Mrs. F. B. Powers, Mrs. J. E. Pope, Mrs. Grover Poole, Mrs. H. F. Pike, Mrs. Robert T. Pickett and Mrs. H. R. Prangley.

The business meeting will follow luncheon, with Mrs. George Eastment, president, presiding.

The board of directors will meet at 1:30 p. m., Monday, March 1, at Jesup Blair Community House.

Mary Haworth's Mail

At Hint of Girl's Interest in Another Man, Tardy Fiance Who Had Affair With Her Then Breaks Troth and Becomes Drunken Nuisance

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Jane was a very sweet innocent girl when I met her 2½ years ago, a few days after I came home from the Army. Then we started dating and after a few months were having an affair.

I knew it was wrong and tried several times to explain this to her, asking her to stop. Then she would accuse me of ruining her life and say I was tired of her; and to reassure her I would continue the affair, but after a while I began to mistreat her.

This went on for about a year; then things changed and I grew very fond of her, but I still didn't think I loved her. However, there was a strong attachment and finally we became engaged. We were to marry the following spring when I had finished school.

Quits School, Loses Friends

A FEW WEEKS after I had given her a ring Jane began going with a man in her office. When I learned of it I broke our engagement and started drinking heavily. The next time I saw her I was drunk, and when I tried to talk to her and she tried to evade me I behaved very badly, embarrassing her and making a fool of myself. This happened repeatedly.

I couldn't keep my mind on my studies and had to quit school. I began to lose friends and was always fighting. At last I got hold of myself and saw the only thing to do was to forget her, so I took a job in another town. There I worked hard, dated girls and found a hobby to keep my mind occupied.

I was away for five months, then came home for a visit. I saw Jane several times and started drinking again. I tried to talk to her, to see if she would help me, but she shuns me. Now I am back in the same old rut. It has been eight months since I broke the engagement and I have done my best to forget her, but nothing helps. If you can tell me how to get back on my feet, I shall be more than grateful. B. C.

Much Is Wrong With the Man

DEAR B. C.: You have been a heel from first to last in relation to Jane, despicably selfish in an irresponsible rotter way all through, even up to now, when you are still badgering her to "help" you.

To get on your feet, you've first got to face the truth about yourself on that score; and then ask, "What's wrong with a chap who can act like that? And how can he right what's wrong with himself?"

What's wrong? Well, to put it simply, you are almost bankrupt of those qualities which compose good character, namely, moral sense, responsible behavior, reasonable regard for others' welfare, respect for common standards of human decency, etc. In brief, you are immature to the point of being infantile, and indeed animalistic, in your choice of conduct and expression of feeling.

Look at the record: You negotiate an affair with a sweet innocent girl as you might help yourself to a piece of pie; then feel animal fear of being trapped (though you prefer to call it conscience stricken) when the accomplished fact first begins to pall.

But being equal parts craven, aimless and callous, you continue to prey upon the girl, taking advantage of her panic state, after warning her in effect, "no dice,"—and at this point begin to mistreat her with arrogant impatience.

Man's Afflicted By His Weakness

THEN when you lose command of the situation, after you had begun to lean heavily on her subservient society, you register outrage by becoming a drunk and making vindictive scenes in public to shame her. Jane has paid dearly for having taken you to heart; and your No. 1 duty in relation to her now is to leave her strictly alone, forever more.

Anyway, you aren't in love with her really and never have been. She simply represents bad habit; always hard for a weakling to break. Jane isn't your problem. Your problem is you; and it just happens that she got involved to her sorrow in the mess that you are.

As for how to get on your feet, you can't do it alone. Your whole personality needs overhauling to establish equilibrium. You've got to have specialist help, hours of firsthand sessions of it, and in view of your Army background you can probably get it at much less cost than the average civilian by appealing to a veterans' advisory service. M. H.

District C. A. R. Conference Will Have Indian Program

D'Arcy McNickle, assistant to the commissioner, Bureau of Indian Affairs, will be principal speaker when the D. C. Society, Children of the American Revolution, holds its eleventh annual State conference, Saturday, March 6, 9:30 a. m., at Hotel 2400. Miss Irene M. Pistorio, State chairman, DAR, American Indian Committee, will exhibit her Indian doll collection, and society members, under the direction of Harriet M. Lothrop, will appear in Indian costumes.

Further carrying out the early American and Indian motif will be a musical program by Wakefield Society, George Washington Society and Mount Vernon Society groups. Directing the musical numbers will be Miss Barbara Allen, Miss Alice Parsons and Miss Natalie Eck.

Also included on the all-day program will be selections by the United States Marine Band. Miss Margaret Ann Rogers, junior State vice president, will give the welcome, and Robert J. Boyd, jr., junior State president, will preside. Distinguished guests who will give greetings include Mrs. Donald B. Adams, national president, NSCAR; Mrs. Wilfred J. Clearman, State regent, DCDAR; Dr. Robert Scott Lamb, State president, DCSAR, and William B. Chapline, State president, DCSAR.

An American flag will be presented to the Junior State Society, CAR, by Miss Imogene Philibert, national chairman, Correct Use of the Flag Committee, through Miss Caroline Brown, junior national chairman.

Mrs. Leigh L. Nettleton is general chairman, Mrs. Francis M. Hoffheins, program chairman, and Mrs. Robert J. Boyd, chairman of arrangements, Mrs. Herbert R. Eck, hospitality chairman, will have charge of the luncheon; Mrs. Lewis H. Moreland, benediction, and Mrs. Lewis B. Rhodes, publicity.

PETUNIA!

I wish I knew
A household Hint
To cure my clothes
Of catching lint.

There's no cure, Petunia . . . but here's the U. S. Navy's pet lint remover! Wrap masking tape around a glass toothbrush holder, pass it over clothes lightly. Faster than brushing!

Homemaking Hints

If you are one of those housewives who reaches for a linen tea towel instead of a pot holder to lift the hot pan, now is certainly the time to cure yourself of this expensive habit. Linen tea toweling is too expensive these days to have burns on them by careless handling, particularly when pot holders are so cheap.

The outside leaves of lettuce which are so often discarded because they are not quite as white as the center ones, may be shredded with a pair of scissors and used underneath a salad. They are quite as good and nutritious as the more appetizing center leaves.

In Which Two Ladies Decide to Form a New Club

"Join Our Little Ladies Club. Girls, ages 8 to 13; initiation fee, 35 cents. Write Helen Hickey, 5112 5th st. nw. When you join you receive a pin and membership card."

You know me. I just can't resist Little Ladies Clubs. So I looked up Founder Helen Hickey, and found her with Cofounder Harriet Gitelson of 5032 5th st. nw.

"Who gets all this money—all those initiation fees?" I asked.

"Thirty cents of it covers the cost of the membership pin. The other 5 cents goes into the treasury."

"And who gets the treasury?"

"Oh, that's used to buy materials—for our dolls and pictures and games and things. We're making them."

"You're making dolls and pictures and things? Why?"

"To give to the kids at Children's Hospital. Didn't you know? The Little Ladies are going to make all sorts of presents for the sick children in the hospital."

"Why?"

"Because we figured that if we were sick we'd like somebody to cheer us up and bring us things."

"Your ad says that your members must be 8 to 13 years old. Why don't you invite the older girls to join, too?"

"Ummm—yeah. Say, whose idea was all this?"

"Ours."

"And who put the ad in the paper?"

"Helen put it in but the lady said she couldn't take ads from little girls and she'd have to check it with a grownup so she talked to my mother and it was all right."

"How old are you, Helen?"

"I'm 11. I'm in the sixth grade at St. Gabriel's."

"Harriet, how old are you?"

"I'm 9, so I'm only in the 4-B at Truesdell. Are you going to put something in the paper about the Little Ladies?"

"I certainly am—ladies."

GIVE-AWAYS

"Going to Mexico, can't take 2-year-old mongrel terrier. She is perfect with children, clean, obedient." (Ordway 4449.)

"Affectionate 9-month-old male terrier-spitz pup." (Franklin 2319).

VAGRANT THOUGHT

The appearance of the movie, "I Ring Doorbells," causes Raymond C. Smith of 1723 G st. nw. to wonder what kind of guy the hero really is. Ray asks:

"Is he the Fuller Brush man? Does he ring those doorbells and run away, or is he looking for somebody? Does anybody ever answer?"

Even before this appears in print, I know what it's going to lead to. The manager of some suburban house that's booked the picture is going to invite me to step up to the boxoffice and resolve all my doubts for the small sum of 50 cents.

STREET SCENE

Our reporters for this incident are Janet and Bobbie Sincoff, of 5500 MacArthur blvd. nw.:

"As we were about to board a D-4 bus, we politely stepped aside to permit a gentle, white-haired old lady to get on ahead of us.

"She graciously smiled her thanks, and made her way to a seat. We sat down across the aisle from her and watched a sweet, placid smile cross her face as she settled herself and found her place in the book she was reading.

"The name of the book, we noted, was 'Terror Strikes at Midnight'."

PERSONAL NOTES

David H. Brown, 110 1st ave., Brunswick, Md.: We can't include President Harding in the Robert Todd Lincoln jinx because they were photographed together on May 30, 1922, and Mr. Harding didn't die until August 2, 1923.

Albert E. James, Union Trust bldg.: See above. It's standard practice to check all facts about which there might be any question.

SOME FURNISHINGS

T/Sergt. R. R. Crammer of 1371 North Carolina ave. ne. calls our attention to a classified ad which recently ran in a Paris Island Marine Corps paper:

FOR SALE—House in Port Royal, completely furnished with six lots.

ON AGAIN, OFF AGAIN

I think that I shall never see
A crocus peeking up at me.
For every time it starts to grow
It's covered up again—with snow.

Leonard Lyons . . .

(Leonard Lyons' guest columnist today is Elmer L. Irey, former Coordinator, United States Treasury Department Law Enforcement Agencies and Chief of Intelligence Unit.)

AFTER 40 years of punching the clock for Uncle Sam as a civil servant—which is the opposite of politician—I now find myself in a most peculiar world of moving picture people, publishers and writers. I certainly hope they are honest, but I must say they keep the same hours Al Capone kept.

When I was chief of the Treasury's Intelligence Unit I spent a great deal of time on the road conferring with our agents all over the country. We always got our conference started in the early morning and finished when we finished. Now I have a ghost writer, Bill Slocum, who knows more about the details of my cases than I know. He's spent six months studying them and I frequently call upon him to refresh my memory on minor details providing I want it refreshed after 1 o'clock in the afternoon. He finds it hard to remember his own name before that hour.

I got the "Hollywood treatment" when I was on the Coast and it was very strange. The long, expensive automobile and the longer, more expensive hotel room. I figured the cost of the room equaled a week's Government per diem. I couldn't help but think of the time I told Intelligence Unit Agents Burford and Lohn to come up from New Orleans to talk about the Huey Long investigations. A man named Roosevelt wanted some information. The men assumed I meant hurry, when I said hurry, so they flew. We eventually broke up the Huey Long gang and collected about six million in taxes and penalties, thanks mainly to the work of these two agents. Nevertheless, Uncle Sam's auditors refused to allow their airplane expenses. Uncle said they could have taken a train.

Another interesting financial note in my career was when we wanted the Treasury to call in a few hundred specific $10 bills in 1933. If that could be done our task would be simplified in the matter of catching whoever had gotten the Lindbergh ransom money. We were told it would be done. Then a phone call from W. O. Woods, the Treasurer of the United States, "We don't dare call in any money these days." Mr. Wood explained sadly. "We are afraid the news might leak out and start a panic."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Marshall's Palestine Policy Hit

By Drew Pearson

Having known and liked George Marshall ever since he was an Army colonel, I don't relish criticizing him in his difficult role of Secretary of State.

Marshall

However, it seems to me Marshall's greatest fault has been the failure to apply to peace a lesson he must have learned long ago in war — namely that victory goes to the side which takes the offensive.

This axiom is just as true for the diplomat as it is for the soldier. No Secretary of State can be static and be successful. He cannot wait for trouble to edge up on him. He has to go out and meet his diplomatic problems before they become too tough to unravel. In diplomacy as in war, he has to pick the most advantageous battlefield.

Always difficult, Secretary Marshall has made it more so by a policy of delay. While precious minutes have ticked by, tempers flared and the Palestinian problem became more insoluble, George Marshall has done little except complain to his Undersecretary, Bob Lovett, that Lovett got him into an awful mess.

And while the Secretary of State stood almost pathetic in his paralysis, his Cabinet colleague, James Forrestal, and his own Near Eastern experts were almost opening flaunting the official United States policy on Palestine.

The effect on the Arabs of this open opposition was quite simple. It lit bonfires under Arab hopes—thereby making Marshall's problem all the more difficult.

A Lesson From Kellogg

The last time war upset the peace of the Western Hemisphere was about 20 years ago when Bolivia threatened to invade Paraguay. Frank B. Kellogg was then Secretary of State —not a polished diplomat, but one who believed in heading off trouble before he had to meet it head on.

At the first sign of Paraguayan-Bolivian belligerency, Kellogg summoned the leading Latin-American statesmen to Washington, enlisted the prestige of Charles Evans Hughes and rolled up such solid public opinion against war that hostilities were stopped. In fact, Kellogg's shirtsleeve diplomacy held off war for two solid years, and the only think that defeated him was a 20-million-dollar munitions loan to the Bolivian army by the banking firm of the very same James Forrestal who now champions the Arabs.

Another Secretary of State who believed in heading off diplomatic trouble before it got started was Henry L. Stimson. When Russia and China began making faces over the Chinese Eastern Railroad in 1930, Stimson summoned the entire Diplocatic Corps, wrote strong dilpomatic notes, made those notes public, and vigorously mobilized, world oponion against war.

The two armies were demobilized.

Again when the Japanese army staged its famous Manchurian incident in 1931, Stimson saw this isolated skirmish for what it really was—the beginning of the Jap conquest of China.

And for two years, using diplomatic pressure, public opinion and the feeble power of the League of Nations, he kept the Japs at bay. If he had had any kind of support from the isolationist President then in the White House—Herbert Hoover—he might have succeeded.

War Secrets Told

Unfortunately, George Marshall, even when Chief of Staff, did not seem to realize that ability to look ahead is the measure of true statesmanship.

Wartime secrecy obscured many of the vital decisions in which Marshall was involved, but here are two of them.

Early in 1940, Roosevelt was urged to send England and France a quantity of old American rifles, some left over from World War I, some even from the Spanish-American War. The British had dangerously depleted their arsenals and Churchill was frantic. He told Roosevelt the British army would have to resist with bare hands and bottles.

But while the United States Army admitted these old rifles were of no value to us, General Marshall, then Chief of Staff, opposed sending them to France and England. He maintained that Congress wouldn't like it. Roosevelt, however, overruled him. The rifles were shipped.

One year earlier, the Chief of Staff had shown similar lack of foresight when it came to aviation planning. And at one historic White House session it fell to the lot of a civilian to argue the generals into a big air program.

The civilian was the late Herman Oliphant, then general counsel of the Treasury Department. The military men present were General Marshall, Gen. Hap Arnold, head of the Air Corps, and Admiral Harold Stark, Chief of Naval Operations.

The meeting was early in 1939. At it Oliphant argued (1) that there was certain to be war in Europe; (2) that when war came the job of the United States would be to give its friends in Western Europe not a handful of planes, but a minimum of 20,000 planes; and (3) the United States must immediately launch a program of 50,000 new airplanes.

General Marshall, however, was opposed. He thought the idea of 50,000 planes was preposterous. So did General Arnold. And the significant thing is that the 1939 Army budget, prepared for 1940 by the General Staff which Marshall headed, provided for only six flying fortresses. This is a matter of record which any Doubting Thomas can check for himself.

Roosevelt and Henry Morgenthau, however, overruled the generals and backed up Oliphant. That White House meeting in 1939 was how the 50,000-airplane program began.

Getting back to diplomacy, there are quite a few moves which a Secretary of State could have made to head off trouble in Palestine—in fact, still can make. Tomorrow this column will discuss some of them.
